OUTLINES.

The Farmers' Alliance of Marlboro, S. C., call for a convention of cotton growers to take steps to limit the production of cotton.

In Mr. Dixon's letter published in another column of the STAR this morning, he shows more admiration for Beecher than regard for the brother into whom he jabs his sharp pen.

The cable announced that the German Emperor was going to celebrate the 4th of July as a full holiday.

A Berlin woman who was sentenced to prison for two months remarked that the "Emperor could kiss her foot."

The Chinese minister at Washington has a young American in his family. A girl baby was born to him a few days ago.

There has been a good deal of speculation as to where the water came from that is converting that California desert into a lake.

A contemporary, referring to the Keystone Bank scandal, asks: "Why is Mr. Wanamaker silent?"

Mr. Dixon says if Beecher is in "hell" he hopes to go there. But unless there is some mistake about the temperature of that climate he would hardly find it more enjoyable in the society of Beecher than he would with plain John Smith or Bill Jones.

Minister Douglass, who has returned on leave of absence from Hayti, says Hippolyte didn't kill folks in the wholesale style they say he did, but "discriminated with great care."

After a tour of investigation among the border towns Senator Chandler is satisfied that "almost no pauper immigrants slip in through the back door by way of Canada."

It has been discovered that a soldier who died in Vicksburg in 1863 has been drawing a pension of $16 a month ever since, with $1,041.27 back pension.

LOCAL DOTS.

John Clark, colored, of Pittsburg, is, according to the city assessors and in the estimation of many of his fellow burgers, a worthy citizen.

A milkman was fined $25 in Philadelphia the other day for watering his milk. If he had watered his cows instead of his milk it wouldn't have cost him anything.

The question in California now is how to prevent the Chinese from getting control of the fruit growing industry of that State and driving other people out of it.

Fred Douglass got along pretty well in Hayti until Hippolyte got to playing the flute, when he thought it was high time to light out and come home.

DEATH OF MR. GEO. CHADBORN.

One of Wilmington's leading citizens. After an illness of about ten days, Mr. George Chadborn, an influential and highly esteemed citizen, died at his residence in this city yesterday afternoon about half-past four o'clock.

Until a short time previous to his death he appeared to be improving and his friends hoped he would be spared to them; but the hope was a vain one, "and he was not, for God took him."

Mr. Chadborn was born in the town of Sanford, Maine, August 19th, 1838. He came to North Carolina in October, 1847, settling in Brunswick county, where he resided about three years. He then came to Wilmington and entered into copartnership with his brother, Mr. James H. Chadborn, early in 1851.

This copartnership continued until his death, and the business results have been very successful. He was married in 1853 to Miss Abbie E. VanAmringe, who died in November, 1887.

Mr. Chadborn had served as Alderman of this city. After the death of Mr. E. E. Burriss he was elected President of the First National Bank and has very ably served in this capacity until his death.

In 1888, May 22nd, Mr. Chadborn united with the First Presbyterian Church, and in December of the same year was elected a Ruling Elder, and has been an earnest, efficient and beloved officer for thirty-three years.

These, briefly stated, are the public services of this good and true man, who has been removed from us.

To those who have known Mr. Chadborn intimately his death has come with crushing bereavement and sadness. He was a devoted husband, father and brother, happy in his married life and in his home and family; unbounded in his hospitality; the soul of kindness to his friends; he was cheerful in all his life and had the faculty of imparting hope and courage to those around him who came to him for sympathy.

Wonderfully sagacious in his knowledge of life, he knew how to bestow that best of all assistance to young men who had the ability to succeed if aided at the beginning, and this assistance he freely rendered. He was an active, industrious, successful business man; a kind neighbor, a reliable friend. All this and more: he was a sincere, devoted Christian; and on the Church he loved and served the blow falls heavily.

Active, liberal; in the meetings of the church, punctual; in the labors of the Sunday School, devoted and constant; teaching by precept and example, and ready to go when his Master should call.

Many who have been the recipients of his kindness and bounty will rise up and call him blessed.

Mr. Chadborn leaves one son, Mr. James H. Chadborn, Jr. His mother is still living, at the age of 92, in Sanford, Me.

He was Chaplain of Orient Lodge No. 395, A. F. & A. M., of this city. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 5 o'clock from the First Presbyterian Church.

RIVER AND MARINE.

The steamer Navigator, from Jacksonville, to Wilmington, Del., with hull of steamer H. B. Plant in tow, put in at Southport for a harbor Tuesday evening.

The tug-boat Wm. P. Cogdon, from Georgetown, S. C., is on the marine railway at Skinner's ship-yard for repainting and repairs.

WIND AND WEATHER.

A Touch of the Texas Cyclone—Gale From the Southwest. The new Weather Bureau got in its first signal here yesterday—the "cautionary southwest," displayed at 11:20 a. m., in pursuance of an order received from headquarters. The same signals were ordered at Charleston, Southport, Morehead City and Washington, N. C.

The cyclonic disturbance which developed in Texas on the 6th inst. moved along the Mississippi Valley northward to Tennessee, being accompanied by excessive rains. It curved to the eastward yesterday morning, being then central between Knoxville, Tenn., and Charlotte, N. C., both of which places reported an atmospheric pressure of 29.78, from which there was quite an upward barometric gradient towards the Northwest, where a cold wave is developing which will tend to force the storm, northeastward towards Chesapeake Bay.

We had a regular Carolina Beach and Sound breeze all in one here yesterday. The wind registered 24 miles per hour from the southwest at the office of the Weather Bureau, and high winds were reported as general along the South Atlantic Coast.

At Southport the weather was stormy; wind velocity 28 miles, from the southwest, and sea swell heavy.

There was heavy rain and high wind at Charlotte, and west of that place to Rutherfordton the weather was cloudy and threatening.

ROBT. H. TRASK.

Pitiful Condition of the Insane Murderer of Benjamin Matthewman. Robt. H. Trask, the murderer of Benjamin Matthewman, confined in the County Jail, awaiting the action of the Criminal Court which meets on the 20th inst., keeps up such a racket at night that people living in the vicinity of the jail can get no rest.

Some of them have made complaint to the city authorities with the hope that steps may be taken to abate the nuisance by removing Trask to the County Home, where he could be kept as securely as in the County Jail.

A STAR reporter called at the jail yesterday, and was informed by Mr. King, the jailor, that there is no improvement in the mental or physical condition of the unfortunate man; but that on the contrary he is apparently growing worse. He is violent at times, and it has been found necessary to keep him constantly in shackles. Tuesday last he attempted to strike Jailor King with a bucket, but was overpowered before he inflicted any injury on the jailor.

The Alma Shooting. The Maxton Union says: "Sol Smith, the negro who was shot by Mr. Lawler at Alma last week, is improving and will be able to be out in a few days if he has no relapse. The ball is lodged somewhere in the right breast and the physicians have failed to locate it."

Weather Forecasts.

The following are the weather forecasts for to-day: For Virginia and North Carolina, fair Thursday in west portions, rain in east portions, slightly cooler, except stationary temperature at Lynchburg. Northerly winds high on coast. Fair and warmer on Friday.

For South Carolina, frequent showers, fair Friday, stationary temperature except slightly cooler on coast, winds becoming northerly.

For Georgia, frequent showers, stationary temperature except slightly cooler in north portions and westerly winds.

A Church Trouble. Mag Patrick and Emeline Lane, colored, were tried in Justice Bunting's Court yesterday for disorderly conduct. They are members of Mount Calvary Baptist Church, and raised a row with the pastor, Rev. Tony Black, at the church Sunday night, because of remarks made in the sermon reflecting upon some of the sisters.

Mag Patrick was fined $30 and costs and Emeline Lane $10 and costs. The fines were paid and the defendants discharged.
