TILESTON SCHOOL.

Letters of Acknowledgment from Miss Hemenway and Miss Bradley.

The following are copies of letters received by Mr. Josh G. Wright, secretary of the citizens' meeting held a short time since, at which resolutions of regret at the closing of Tileston School were adopted and ordered transmitted to Miss Hemenway and Miss Amy Bradley.

WILMINGTON, N. C., July 4, 1891.

Mr. Josh G. Wright, Secretary, &c.

DEAR SIR—Your very kind note, with a copy of the resolutions adopted by the citizens of this city at a meeting held on the 1st inst., was duly received.

I did not realize that the people held my work in such high estimation until I read the kind words which these resolutions contain.

Please tender my deep, heartfelt thanks to the good friends for their earnest expressions of esteem and praise.

Very respectfully yours,

AMY M. BRADLEY.

Mr. Josh G. Wright, Secretary:

DEAR SIR—I have received your note and the copy of the resolutions passed by the citizens of Wilmington in regard to the Tileston School.

It is very gratifying to me to have such testimony from the citizens of Wilmington as to the work accomplished there by Miss Bradley with the assistance I could give. It is an especial pleasure to me that the Tileston School was located in your city, for as a resident of Boston I can never forget the generous help your citizens rendered to us in our dark days, and the memory of which will always promote a feeling of warm friendship between the two cities.

Believe me, yours sincerely,

MARY HEMENWAY, North East Harbor, Mt. Desert, Maine. July 18.

CRIMINAL COURT.

"Schedule B" Tax Cases and the Trask-Matthewman Murder Case.

The Criminal Court was occupied from its opening at 10 o'clock yesterday morning until 4 p. m. with the "Schedule B" tax cases, wherein Messrs. Geo. R. French & Sons, Worth & Worth and Stevenson & Taylor refused to list and pay the tax on the alleged ground that said tax is unconstitutional and action was brought against defendants by the County Commissioners. Messrs. A. M. Waddell, Jno. D. Bellamy, Jr., and Thos. W. Strange appeared as counsel for the State, and Messrs. George Davis and George Rountree represented the defendants. The jury empaneled to try the case were C. H. Robinson, W. B. Savage, C. N. Brewer, R. McRae, Jr., Jas. M. Holland, J. T. Hopewell, Ed. Jones, Jas. F. Rulls, J. L. Barker, J. C. Roan, A. W. Rivenbark, Robt. Everett. The case was argued at length by counsel. The jury, under instructions from the Court, returned a verdict of guilty, and upon the Solicitor's praying judgment the Court ordered that each of the defendants named in the bill of indictment be fined the sum of one dollar, and to pay one-half of the bill of costs. From this judgment the defendants craved an appeal, which was granted; and the appeal bond was fixed at $30.

THE TRASK-MATTHEWMAN MURDER.

Robert H. Trask, the insane man charged with the murder of Mr. Matthewman, of Brooklyn, N. Y., on Market street in this city, a few weeks ago, was brought into court about 4 o'clock in the afternoon and placed in the prisoner's box. Marsden Bellamy, Esq., appeared as counsel for the prisoner and stated to the Court that Trask being insane could not plead to the bill of indictment. Judge Meares, addressing the jury, said: "This is a novel case. You will understand that this man (Trask) is charged with murder, and he comes into Court and, through counsel, says he cannot plead, as he is insane. If he is insane he cannot be tried." The Judge then instructed the jury that it was for them to decide if Trask is insane at this time.

Some ten or fifteen witnesses were called and being sworn, testified to the behavior and language of the prisoner, all facts going to show that he is insane. The first witness was Miss Andrews, an elderly lady who said she was Trask's aunt, and had had charge of him ever since his mother died. She had always thought Trask to be insane, but considered him harmless, did not apprehend that he would do harm to anyone but himself. He was not kept in confinement but had to be watched like an infant. When Trask came to Wilmington he ran away from home, and as soon as she heard of his being in this city she wrote to Mrs. W. G. Fowler, and asked that he should be looked after.

During the time that Miss Andrews was giving her testimony Trask sat with his face in his hands blubbering like a baby. Previous to her taking the witness stand he appeared to be unconcerned in what was going on around him. His face was very pale and he looked weak and feeble.

After the testimony of witnesses had been taken the jury decided that the prisoner was insane, and he was remanded to the custody of the sheriff.

It is probable that Trask will be sent to the State asylum for the insane at Morganton.

MINOR CASES.

Wm. Robinson and Robert Evans, two colored boys, arrested at Wrightsville Monday, were convicted of larceny and sentenced to five years in the State penitentiary.

FAIR WEATHER AT CAMP FOWLE

The Soldiers Enjoying Camp Life with a Few Showers—Gov. Holt Visits the Camp and is Greeted with the Roar of Artillery—The Virginians—Distinguished Visitors Rifle Practice—The Grand Ball at the Hammocks.

It did not rain yesterday morning, whereas the soldier boys were glad, thinking that the day would be lovely and there would be nothing but their regular duties to prevent their having lots of fun. Old "Forecasts," however, had a different sort of programme laid out, fun or no fun, and there were several light showers during the forenoon, although none of them was severe.

REGULAR CAMP ROUTINE.

The regular camp routine was carried out, regardless of the showers. We were particularly impressed, among many commendable things, with the thorough policing and strict regard for the sanitary condition of the camp. This was a noticeably worthy feature with every regiment and every company. Camp Fowle is certainly well policed and is a model of a neat military camping ground.

GOVERNOR HOLT.

At 10 a. m. the booming of the big guns at the battery announced the arrival of his Excellency Governor Holt at Wrightsville, from the Hammocks, where he had passed the night. The regulation salute of seventeen guns was fired in his honor upon his arrival at Wrightsville. Governor Holt took a carriage that was in waiting for him, and was driven directly to the residence of Mr. Pembroke Jones, whose guest he is. He did not visit camp until later in the day, but was there in season to attend evening dress parade.

THE LADIES.

Notwithstanding the unfavorable aspect of the weather quite a number of ladies, both old and young, but mostly the latter, cheered the soldiers by their presence in camp during the day, and more especially as night and the hour for dress parade approached. It is hardly necessary to say that they were welcome guests.

Notwithstanding their well-known aversion to turmoil or danger, there is something connected with a soldier's life that possesses a peculiar fascination for the fair sex of all ages, and they take much pleasure in military pageants. This may be accounted for in a great measure from the fact that woman admires anything that savors of genuine pluck and true courage; and, again, in imagination she sees the soldier in the dash and din of deadly battle, and her womanly heart goes out involuntarily in sympathy to them; and they will go and see the soldiers.

THE VIRGINIANS.

have fairly settled down to camp life, engaging in all the duties of the post, and are proving themselves to be first rate soldiers. A noticeable feature of this, as well as all the other regiments in camp, is the promptitude and cheerfulness with which what may be called the minor orders in regiment and company are executed. Orders which might appear insignificant and almost useless to the uninitiated, but which are absolutely necessary for the good order, discipline and health of the camp are obeyed with a cheerful alacrity which is pleasant to witness.

RIFLE PRACTICE.

During the forenoon the Second Regiment contested for the Walters prize medal and were followed in the afternoon by the Third Regiment. The First and Fourth Regiments, will contest for the same to-morrow, after which the committee appointed for the purpose will make the award. There is a good deal of feeling among both the officers and soldiers of the several commands as to who will be the lucky winner, but it is to be hoped that, whatever the result may be, the losers will submit to the decision with cheerful grace and that no envious heart-burnings may exist in the breast of any one. It would greatly mar the interest attaching to the contest, should the decision of the judges be received unpleasantly by any one of the contestants.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS.

Among the distinguished visitors in camp yesterday were the following:

Hon. T. F. Davidson, Attorney General of North Carolina; Mr. M. T. Leach, a prominent citizen of Raleigh, at one time a member of the Board of Trustees of the Penitentiary; Mr. S. W. Cramer, Superintendent of the U. S. Mint at Charlotte, N. C., and Maj. H. T. Barron, of Columbia, S. C., attorney of the Columbia division of the Atlantic Coast Line.

IMPROVEMENT IN DRILL.

The drill yesterday afternoon was a decided improvement on that of the day previous, and was, with some slight exceptions, very good. This applied as well to movements in column as movements in line. All the evolutions were commendably good, justifying our yesterday's prediction that a very few drills would show a decided improvement. The veterans in the different commands are great helps to those who are just beginning a military life and the novices understand and appreciate the fact.

CAMP OF ARMS.

One particularly noticeable feature in camp is the care the soldiers take of their muskets. We saw several just after a light shower rubbing and polishing their pieces with the care that a veteran in regular service would bestow, and after the arms had been rubbed till they were thoroughly clean and dry they were laid away as carefully as old soldiers would have done. This, from youngsters with little or no previous military experience, went to show that they knew the value of clean arms and the worse than worthlessness of those that were dirty and rusty.

FUNNY NAMES.

In the Fourth Regiment, which is composed entirely of companies from the Western part of the State, they have named the company streets from some trait that distinguishes either the locality or the prominent characteristics of the soldiers. That which runs past Col. Anthony's headquarters is very appropriately named "Possum Avenue" from the fact that one of those animals has made itself a home beneath the commanding officer's tent. One is called "Rain Avenue" because all the rain that falls gravitates to that street and the men are consequently greater sufferers from that cause than any of the others.

Another is called "Undress Avenue" on account of the habit of the men to lie around their street with as little clothing to encumber their movements as possible. Another is christened "Bear Avenue" from the fact that the company is from a locality where Bruin abounds, and the men are constantly talking of bear hunts and bear fights.

Another is "Frog Avenue," because at night nearly every man is imitating a frog, so that the entire camp is alive with a chorus of music. Another is "Sleeping Avenue," on account of the sleepy disposition and habits of the men. The next is "Mashing Avenue," from the disposition of the men to excel in making feminine conquests. The next, and last, is "Shouting Avenue," from the alleged disposition of the men to take offense and talk fight on the least provocation.

Col. Anthony, however, has his men well in hand, and his camp was as orderly and quiet as any we saw.

PREPARING FOR THE BALL.

During the day there was considerable speculation among the dancing part of the command concerning the ball at the Hammocks last night. They all knew that the dancing hall was not completed, and some of them feared that it would not, be in season to dance last night. There was much to be done before it could be used, but many willing and busy hands were at work, so that there was really but little fear on that score.

THE BALL.

The grand military ball last night at the Island Beach hotel, in honor of Gov. Holt and the Virginia troops was a very brilliant affair. It was attended by a large number of ladies and gentlemen, including most of the guests at the hotel and many visitors from the city. Nearly all the officers in camp were present. Dancing began at 10 o'clock with a german, and was kept up until a late hour.

Field officer of the Day—Maj. W. A. Bobbitt, Third Regiment.

Crops in Bladen.

A STAR subscriber, writing from Dawson's Landing, July 19, says: Crops are generally good through this section. Cotton is very good; better than it was last year. Corn is looking very well. The rainfall was very heavy here yesterday; it was some over two inches. I know of no damage to the crops so far. The health of the neighborhood is generally good.

IN AND AROUND CAMP.

—Peace and health in camp.

—Breakfast, 6.30; dinner, 12.30; supper, 6.30.

—Croquet is one of the many amusements in camp.

—Watermelons, peanut candy and "Shine, R.", are plentiful.

—Gen. Cotton still manages the camp, and he manages it well.

—The last we heard of Ben Barnes he was still alive and still on duty.

—The soldiers in camp are certainly not a grumbling set; they are all good natured.

—Rev. J. W. Lee, evangelist, was one of the visitors at Camp Fowle yesterday afternoon.

—Chess, chequers and backgammon are the afternoon amusements in the Y. M. C. A. tent.

—Rev. Dr. Swindell, presiding elder Wilmington district M. E. Church, was in the camp yesterday.

—John L. Gilmer, sometimes known as "Jonnie Gilpin," is a guest of the Greensboro company.

—R. S. Stewart, of the Asheville company, has been promoted by order of the "boss," Will Lewis.

The Cape Fear Club have extended the courtesies of their rooms to the First Virginia Regiment.

—Col. Anthony is still feeding that 'possum in anticipation of a splendid supper one of these days.

—Disreputable characters are not allowed in camp, but are driven out as soon as their presence becomes known.

—A great many of the Virginia boys went fishing, surf-bathing, and to visit Wilmington. They all seem very much pleased.

—Mr. J. A. Robinson, of the Goldsboro Argus, was one of the editorial profession who made a flying visit to camp yesterday.

—The Edgcombe Guards is not only a fine company of well-drilled men, but they have a very fine-looking captain, James B. Lloyd.

—Over five hundred letters were mailed at the Y. M. C. A. tent yesterday and the day before; most of them directed to some Miss.

—The orders already issued are so well obeyed, and every thing is so remarkably quiet, no other orders have been found necessary.

—While the majority of the soldiers are young men, there is a "right smart sprinkling" of gray beards who saw service in the war of 1861-65.

—There is a revolutionary relic in the Fourth Regiment in the shape of a fife made from an old rifle barrel. It is a novelty sure enough.

—Major Walker Taylor, Field Officer of the Day, wore a very handsome red sash for the first time. It was very proper and becoming.

—Master J. S. Carr, Jr., is taking his first lesson in camp life. Like all the Durham Company, he is very social, fine looking, and a square up, clever boy.

—Capt. S. S. Batchelor, of the Governor's Guard, Co. D., was officer of the day yesterday, instead of Capt. W. T. Dortch, as we stated. Capt. Dortch is officer for to-day.

—Seven new men joined the Maxton Company last night. Robeson county always does her duty; she now has over eighty men in camp. More than any other county in the State.

—Company D, of Rocky Mount, has two very "crack" base ball players. Jack Berger holds the ball with eminent success, and J. H. Cuthrew is a splendid fielder. We must have a game of ball.

—T. Garibaldi, of the Hornet's Nest Riflemen, says he will take no more fishing in his soon. He was caught out on low tide yesterday morning, and the last we saw was his clothes drying around his tent.

—The Winston company are all clever boys. They are not only proud of their company, but also of their base ball team. They have just received a telegram stating that their team "shut out" the team from Fortress Monroe.

—The inspectors of small arm practice for the coming contest are Col. Benahan Cameron, Inspector General, and Capt. J. W. Carter, Co. A Cook and W. T. Clements. They will make their report of yesterday's contest this morning.

—The detachment of artillerymen sent here to instruct the State Guard in battery drill made a very good record yesterday morning in firing a salute to the Governor. They fired seventeen rounds in eleven minutes, with only six men to two guns.

—Among the distinguished arrivals in camp was Lieut. J. L. Wilson, U. S. A. He is in the 2nd Artillery, 4th Regiment. He is now recruiting officer at Greensboro, N. C. He expressed very favorable comments on the Encampment.

—The drum major of the First Virginia Regiment is 71 years of age. He occupied the same position in the regiment at the first battle of Manassas, in July, 1862. Although of such advanced age he can handle the baton with the precision of a young man.

THE VIRGINIANS.

On Wonderfully Good Terms With the North Carolina Boys.

The correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch gives a graphic account of the arrival and reception of the First Virginia Regiment at the North Carolina State Guard Encampment.

The Virginia and North Carolina boys, he says, are on wonderfully good terms, and when the former go through the others' camps, every hand is raised to them in military salute. The First regiment's soldiers are delighted
