- The fine weather of the last week which has prevailed throughout the entire South, says the Savannah News, has caused the cotton to mature very rapidly, and is responsible for the heavy increase in port receipts. The fields are white now and picking, ginning and marketing are going ahead rapidly. The general opinion among cotton men is that the bulk of the crop will be harvested by the latter part of October, and that it will be rapidly pushed to market. The experience of the farmers last year by which they suffered so heavily in holding their cotton, has caused them to give up all thought of holding this year, and the crop will come upon the market rapidly. The result will be that the receipts during September and October will about equal last year's, but the probability is that there will be a big drop after that.

-Mr. A. B. Shepperson has issued his annual report on the cotton crop. He writes: "In presenting the statement of the American cotton crop of the season ending August 81, 1891, I beg to state that it is based upon official reports of the various Cotton Exchanges and information kindly furnished me by railroad officials, mill owners, United States Collectors of Customs and prominent merchants. The figures are from mail advices, and their correctness may be relied upon. The commercial crop is the largest recorded, reaching the enormous total of 8,674,417 bales averaging 501.47 pounds per bale, against a crop the previous season of 7,297,117 bales averaging 498.14 pounds per bale. I am convinced that the actual yield was fully 200,000 bales more than the figures of the commercial crop. I make the crop about $2,000 bales larger than some other annual crop statements which have been issued."

Thanksgiving Services.

On Saturday night last, at the regular weekly prayer and experience meeting of business and working men, held at the Seamen's Bethel, the following preamble and resolution were unanimously adopted, and the press of the city were requested to give publication to the same:

WHEREAS, Almighty God in His great mercy has wonderfully protected us as a city for the past twelve months, preserving us from destructive storms, cyclones, floods, earthquakes, epidemics, &c., and whereas many of our citizens who sought health. rest and recreation elsewhere this summer, have been spared and permitted again in safety to return to their homes in this city, be it Resolved, That the pastors of the various churches of our city be requested to hold suitable thanksgiving services in their respective churches on Sunday morning, the 27th of September, 1891, and thanks be returned to Almighty God for His goodness to us, and His preservation of us as a city and of our

OYSTER CULTURE .

Estimated Profits of Oyster Culture-It

Bests a Gold Mine-And Will Make Investors Rich.

Dr. E. Porter, President of the Eastern Carolina Piscatorial Association, left for Stones Bay yesterday, and promises to exhibit some specimen oysters at the Produce Exchange, Thursday morning. It may be well for our business men to hear what he has to say on the subject.

In the prospectus of the above Company the profits, of oyster culture as estimated, seem enormous, as will be seen from the following extract from the prospectus:

"In three years the young oysters will so increase by growth that each bushel planted will make three bushels of fine elected stock, worth fifty cents per bushel on the grounds. But for fear we may appear extravagant to those unacquainted with the capability of these fertile lands, we will modify this statement and say that every bushel of small oysters planted, will make two bushels in three years; and if we plant only 500 bushels to the acre, we will have in three years 1,000 bushels of selected oysters per acre, which are worth fifty cents per bushel as they lie on the grounds, (these oysters in the shell usually bring from dollar and a half to two dollars and a half per bushel in the Wilmington, N. C., market, and bring larger prices in more distant markets.)

The balance sheet will then stand (at fifty cents per bushel) as follows: Dr. To 500,000 bushels of oysters planted at 19 cents. . $60,000 To incidental expenses (not considering profits made on large oysters from na-tural beds and put upon the market)$15,000

$75,000 By 1,000,000 bushels select oyster at fifty cents per

$425,000 Showing net profits, besides the spat left upon the ground as a basis for future crops, to be $425,000.

But remarkable as this estimate of profits may seem, there are men of expersence in oyster culture who say that the planting of the oyster can be done at a cost not exceeding six cents per bushel, just one-half the cost estimated in the prospectus. It will be observed, also, that fifty cents per bushel for selected oysters on the grounds is a very
