With the number of tin ore mines that are being discovered, and the number of tin-plate factories the Republican editors are building there is no reason why this shouldn't soon be a tin-plated country.

> Won by Undoubted Merit. [Raleigh News and Observer.]

On the 22d inst. the Wilmington STAR entered on its twenty-fifth year. It is the oldest daily newspaper in North Carolina, has always been firm in its follows: adherence to Democratic principles, and to-day stands for the Democratic against all comers. Our esteemed contemporary has our most cordial wishes for a continuation of the success which has encouraged and sustained it through so many years, and which undoubted merit alone could have won.

Elsewhere we republish from the STAR a review of its career.

The Little Silver Cross. "The best protection a young woman can have in New York city," said a big policeman on the Broadway squad recently, "is one of those little silver crosses that the King's daughters wear. I've noticed that nowadays the professional masher will first look at the bosom of a woman's dress, and if that little cross is dangling from a buttonhole he passes her by without even a stare. It's the same way on street cars as it is on the street. The young woman who wears one of those badges has the whole carload of men to take care of her. The cross is getting to be looked on with Spirits turpentine-New York, 1,052 the same respect and deterence as a nun's garb. As a safeguard it beats the average policeman all hollow,

The Young Men's Christian Association of Charleston has opened an employment bureau on the following plan: A young man or lad desirous of obtaining a situation notifies the secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, and his name is entered on a register book. When information is received of anybody needing help the names on file will be submitted for investigation In this way several lads have already. secured work. A bulletin board will also be kept on which all applications for clerks, salesmen, etc., etc., will be THE BIRD LAW.

The Old Law With the Amendments Adopted by the Last Legislature,

There are hundreds of true sportsmen in North Carolina who would like to see the game laws rigidly enforced. The matter is, therefore, referred to again in the STAR "for greater certainty," as the lawyers say. The law, Section 2,834 of the Code, is as follows:

"No person shall kill or shoot, trap or net any partridges, quail, doves, robins, lark, mocking birds, or wild turkeys, between the first day of April and the fifteenth day of October of each year, and the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not exceeding ten dollars for each offence."

This section was amended by the last Legislature by striking out the words first day of April and fifteenth day of October," and substituting therefor the words "fifteenth day of March and first day of November." There is no excuse, therefore, for not understanding that it is unlawful to shoot, trap or net any of the birds named between the fifteenth day of March and the first day of November. The penalty for violation of this law is a maximum fiue of ten dollars for each offence And it should not be forgotten that every bird killed constitutes a separate offence. So, the law-breaker who goes into the field some fine day before the first of November, "just to practice" his "pups," and bags ten partridges, may have to pay one hundred dollars in fines, which would certainly make his birds "come a leetle high." But why any Legislature, composed of sapient sovereigns should legalize the shooting of mocking birds, the favorite song-bird of the South, at any season, is one of those freaks that no fellow can ever explain.

COTTON FACTS AND FIGURES.

- Fututes closed steady in New York; September and October 8.53@ 8.54; January 9.03@9.04.

- Receipts of cotton here yesterday 1,811 bales; receipts corresponding date

- Spot cotton advanced an eighth in this market vesterday, sales being made on a basis of 81/2 cents for middling. - Most of the cotton arriving now is of excellent grade-white as snow and free of trash and dirt; resulting from the 6 bbls. exceptionally fine dry weather. Of course such cotton brings the best - New York Journal of Commerce There was no change in the cotton goods market. Trade was fair, with some articles relatively active. Staple goods were being called for through mail and telegraphic orders to supply current needs, but there was no speculation. Agents, however, experience a growing difficulty in meeting wants as promptly

- Augusta Chronicle: In spite of fair weather and tremendous receipts, the cotton market climbs steadily upward. Bears are disgusted, and even the sellers, with bullish proclivities, are somewhat amazed at the strength of the market. I asked a factor last night how he accounted for the rise in prices in the face of the big receipts and fair weather, and his reply was that it would puzzle the smartest man in the business to tell. Cotton is a fool and frequently does just what you are convinced it will not do.

- NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 25 .- The crop statement from September 1 to September 24, inclusive, is as follows:

Port receipts 504,762 bales, against 546,056 last year; overland to mills and Canada 24,194, against 20,541; interior stock in excess of September 1 52,371, against 52,239; Southern mill takings 41,529, against 41,529; amount of crop brought into sight during twenty-five days of September 622,856, against 630,-865; amount of crop brought into sight for week 256,306, against 245,163.

- New York Bulletin: The general form of reports in regard to crop conditions continue spotted and irregular, but contain enough of an adverse character to create a growing belief in the necessity for a modification of earlier hopeful crop prospects, especially among the outsiders, which, in conjunction with comparatively low prices, generate an interesting desire. In short, speculation has turned into cotton as an attractive article, and likely to secure a portion of the success already attained on other staple commodities, as well as in the

- Charleston News and Courier: It was yesterday ascertained from a reliable source that the railroads were going to fight the reduction in cotton charges recently made by the Railroad Commissioners. The officers of the road think that the reductions are unreasonable and ought never to have been made. They feel confident that if the case is brought before a court the action of the board will not be sustained. It is understood that the fight is going to be principally made by the Richmond & Danville and South Carolina Railway authorities.

A careful estimate has been made by the South Carolina Railway authorities and upon a basis of last year's receipts at the different stations the losses to that one road by the change of rate will amount to from $35,000 to $40,000, The railroads do not feel inclined to accept such a hard blow without making some protest, especially when they receive no return benefit of any kind.

The cases resulting from the cotton question, should the Commissioners insist upon their rate, will, no doubt, be heard as soon as possible in the State

Electricity or Horse Power?

Mr. E. L. Hawks, representing the syndicate of capitalists who have been negotiating for the purchase of the Wilmington Street Railway, told a STAR representative last evening that he entertained no doubt as to the purchase, provided the city authorities would give the new company certain privileges which he thought might reasonably be granted, and which he considers essential to the success of the enterprise. The most important of these privileges is understood to be the right to run a double track on Water and Nutt streets; and on this point the representatives of the syndicate and the Board of Aldermen have not yet fully agreed. If the trade is consummated, Mr. Hawks says a first-class electric plant will be substituted and Wilmington will have a street railway equal to any in the South.

Cotton Region Bulletin. The Savannah and Charleston districts had light rainfall yesterday. In all other parts of the cotton region fair weather prevailed, the temperature continues warm. The average maximum ranging from 84 to 94 degrees, and the average minimum from 62 to 70 degrees. In the Wilmington district the average was 85 degrees for the maximum and 62 degrees for the minimum.

Southport recorded 14-100th of an inch of rainfall yesterday.

Brooklyn Baptist Church.

Rev. Mr. Jenkins preached last night at Brooklyn Baptist Church to a full house. There were several additions to the church; making in all about thirtysix added to the membership since the meetings began.
