A Boston man died recently and left his widow $350,000. He didn't forget his son-in-law, either, but left him something for a rainy day. It was a nice umbrella.

Kansas Republican papers are scoring ex-Senator Ingalls because he has declined to take the stump for the Republican ticket. Mr. Ingalls is making too much money lecturing to waste his time on a job like that.

The Union League in New York subscribed $40,000 in one evening to help elect Fassett Governor. The Times thinks that this is "quite enough to beat him." This money is intended to be put "where it will do the most good."

The California orange growers are whopping mad at Porter because his census gives California 300,000 orange trees when a census by the State Board of Agriculture shows 4,000,000 orange trees, 1,000,000 of which are in bearing.

Ex-Governor Steele, of Oklahoma, is mentioned as the probable successor to G. B. Raum, when he retires from the Pension Office. Tanner and Raum both achieved pretty hard names while they were in, but Steele will go in with one.

It is said that Mr. Harrison don't want the next Republican convention held in Chicago because Blaine has the bulge on that town. If he is hunting for a place where the Harrison fellows have the bulge he will have to go out in the woods.

The heathen Chinee is crawling into Texas by way of the Mexican border. During the past week fifteen were scooped who had just paddled across the Rio Grande. They were hustled off to San Francisco to be shipped back to China

In his address at the State Farm ers' Alliance, at Dade City, Fla. Wednesday, President Rogers struck oil when he referred to the dissensions arising chiefly from the admission of persons who sought membership "for the purpose of office or political influence."

When Charles S. Parnell died there was of money contributed for the Irish cause, $200,000 deposited in the Bank of France in his name. According to the law of France this money will be inherited by his widow and his oldest brother, John H, Parnell, who lives near Atlanta. But as it belongs to neither, if put into their hands they will doubtless turn it over to the successor of Parnell.

THE MORNING STAR.

VOL. XLIX.--NO. 27.

WILMINGTON, N. C., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1891.

The Boston Globe remarks that when the Republican managers want to bring out a crowd in Boston they announce Tom Reed, which a Republican contemporary construes as a tribute to Reed and a recognition of his power before the people. When he always announces his greatest curiosity or monstrosity. The fellows who are running the Republican menagerie know this, and ex-Czars are not to be seen every day,

Gov. McKinney will recommend the establishment of county cemeteries in Virginia, to be maintained by the public authorities. A contemporary which favors this idea thinks the Governor should accompany it with a word in favor of better public roads, for no considerate man would like to be carried to the burying ground over the average Virginia road, especially in wet weather.

free gratis, &c.

Mr. Joseph Manley, of Maine, a particular friend of Mr. Blaine, says Mr. B. does not wan't the Maine delegation to present his name in the convention, but if it is presented by some other delegation, and he receives the nomination, he will accept, which is to say, that it is Mr. Manley's opinion that if a duck got a good chance it would swim.

One of the Institutions. Richmond State. The Wilmington (N. C.) MORNING year. The STAR is a fine paper, and the State is glad to congratulate it on BRUIN BIT THE DUST.

He Had Killed, Dragged Away and Eaten a Hog and Before Giving Up the Ghost Caused Several Dogs to Fail to Arrive at Roll Cail.

One hundred and fifty pounds, with hide on, innocently pendent from a hook in Kelly's stall in Front Street Market, a hog bear was conspicuous vesterday.

The brute was loveable and popular in death, as evidenced by being the cynosure of many observers, who handled his huge forearms and manipulated his three-inch claws with tender familiarity and brave impunity. Bruin had been brought from his native Onslow jungles where he was killed yesterday morning by Mr. S. E. Ottoway.

Some time during Wednesday night Mr. Ottoway heard one of his hogs squeal and early next morning had sought the cause of the commotion in his swineherd. He soon discovered the loss of a large sow and saw where she had been stricken down and dragged off into the swamp. So, gathering neighbors and dogs, pursuit was at once made on the trail. Before proceeding far, the head, feet and clean bones of the hog were discovered, where his ursine majesty had made his royal feast on the pork. From thence the dogs voicing their gleeful information that they were on his red-hot track, still further penetrated the swamp and the huntsmen, angered at the temerity of the bold marauder, followed with renewed zest.

Soon the deep-mouthed, welcoming intelligence was bayed that Bruin had been brought to bay, and when the hunters came up he was seen calmly sitting in the crotch of a tree. Mr. Ottoway fired a big load of buck-shot at the cardiac region of the big black brute, but he didn't tumble out of the tree; he calmly eased himself down backward and took his seat at the root of the tree, ready for business. Several of the younger dogs rashly sailed in, eager for the fray. They got it in the neck and will resemble to the call of the hunter's horn no more forever. It required two more shots to bring him down, and it was calculated that he had destroyed at least 1,000 pounds of pork. He was so full he couldn't run and this accounts for the short chase.

New Propeller for Street Cars.

S. H. Shaw, a Kansas man, has in vented a street-car motor which consists of a spring eight feet long and twelve inches wide, which is wound up in barrels twenty-six inches in diameter. Eight of these are put under each car. The outer edges of these barrels form sprocket wheels, from which run endless chains connecting with sprocket wheels on the car axles. Each spring is two-horse power, making sixteen-horse power to each car. These, it is estimated, will drive a car four miles. They are under the control of the driver, can be disconnected by the turn of the wheel, and in running down grade the springs are partly rewound. On a road four miles long a winding station, requiring an engine, would have to be set up at each end.

T. J. Norton, a young white man, was arrested vesterday on a warrant sworn out before Justice R. H. Bunting by Thos. Corcoran, representing A. J. Conway & Co., of Charleston, W. Va.

charging him with embezzlement. Norton has been in the city for several months, selling laces, counterpanes and notions for Conway & Co., and the gist of this prosecution is for failure to make returns of the sales. Corcoran was dispatched here by the firm to look | Attempt to Wreck a Train on the C. C. into the matter and upon discovering the shortage took the above action. The specific charge is embezzling $202.20. In default of bond in the sum of $200 for his appearance before the Justice this morning at 10 o'clock, Norton was committed.

A Small Conflagration. An alarm was sent in from box 31 yesterday afternooon, about 4 o'clock. when the root of a one-story and an attic wooden dwelling on Red Cross between Seventh and McRae streets was on fire from a defective chimney. The Fire Department was promptly at the scene, and the flame was extinguished. The house was the property of Jesse Mc-Donald, colored, and the damage will not exceed fifteen dollars, caused most-It was noticed that the big bell wouldn't work, and the small one instead of for the cessation of the fire.

Cotton Region Bulletin.

Fair weather prevailed yesterday in the cotton belt, with the exception of the Wilmington district, where the rainfall was light, amounting to not more than a trace outside of the Weldon station, which recorded 31-100. The minimum temperatures recorded were 38 degrees at Wadesboro, 42 at Cheraw, STAR has completed its twenty-fourth Goldsboro, Lumberton and Weldon, 44

COTTON FACTS AND FIGURES.

- Receipts of cotton at Wilmington 1,188 bales; receipts same date last year, 2,188.

- Middling cotton is quoted quiet here at 7% c per pound; at same time last year middling was quiet at 9% cents.

-Futures in New York closed firm yesterday with sales of 152,400 bales; October 8.14@8.16; November 8,24@ 8.25; January 8.58@8.59.

- The Manchester Guardian says advices from Germany show that spinners and manufacturers of that country have poor trade and unless demand improves short time or a stoppage will be resorted to.

- Columbia State: Yesterday while Charleston was receiving the largest number of bales of cotton she had ever received in one day, the Alliance men of Greenville were solemnly calling upon the order throughout the South to withhold cotton from sale. Our Greenville friends are too late. They cannot check the tide of the staple. The farmers held their crops for two years and lost by it each year. Now they have to sell in order to pay their debts. The banks have already made loans to the full extent of their means. They now need to get their money back. The prompt sale of this cotton crop is necessary to all business interests, and is

- N. Y. Bulletin: There are plenty of arguments to be heard about the relative cheapness of cotton, the probability that it will attract capital as an excellent article for permanent investment and gradually cease moving as rates go down, but the hard facts of the present are that, in the face of broadcast reports of serious damage from all the ills that cotton is heir to, a range of value much lower than last season, a reduced consuming ability on the Continent, the English spinner becoming more indifferent and our own spinners fairly stocked, the arrivals are to date running ahead of movement at corresponding period for the largest crop ever

- Savannah News: The receipts of cotton yesterday were extraordinarily large-23,397 bales at this port, and 83,-603 at all the ports. Such receipts are knocking the bottom out of prices. Liverpool and other European ports are loaded up with cotton and buyers are not showing any eagerness to buy. Last year cotton growers held back their cotton on the advice of the Alliance and they lost money. This year they seem determined to get their cotton to market as ear y as possible, fearing lower prices later on. The sentiment among factors appears to be that the farmers would act wisely by holding back their cotton this year, as prices will likely be better later in the season. If they continue to crowd the market there is no telling how low prices will fall.

-The latest mail accounts give the following upon the Liverpool market. The opinion of the Post is as follows: "The size of the crop depends upon the date of frost. Last season the yield was vastly increased by the product of a considerable area of land planted late, which the entire absence of killing frost allowed to mature in the late autumn and early winter months, otherwise the yield would not have reached 8,000,000. This season there was no late planting (the price being only 41/2d, against 61/2d last year), and the plant itself is an inferior one. Nevertheless, people are afraid of entertaining smaller estimates than 7,250,000 to 7,500,000. The caution is quite justified, Moreover, if an advance in the price is to take place it would be more advantageous to consumers if it came after Christmas than before the festival. But in the meantime the crop prospects are so equiovcal that wise spinners will not sell yarn short on the basis of a price which has not been quoted at the opening of any season since 1851-forty years ago. There may not be very much in the frost reports, but where there is so much smoke there must be some fire."

Railroad. A special to the STAR from Shelby, N. C., says that Nathan Hunt, a negro twenty years old, was placed in jail there yesterday, charged with attempting to wreck a train on the Carolina Central, by putting cross-ties on the track. The engine of a freight train struck the ties, but was not thrown from the rails. The negro was captured by train hands and will have a preliminary trial this morning. The place where the attempt was made to throw the engine off was near Deep Cut, tour miles from
