Judging from France's poor success in securing the co-operation of the other Powers for the protection of foreign residents in China, these Powers are more intent on watching each other than in protecting their people from the blood-thirsty Mongolian.

President Harrison's brother-inlaw says an agreement has been entered into between the President and Mr. Blaine that neither is to talk politics until after the Minneapol's convention. If all the politicians would strike a trade like this what a long needed rest this country would have.

Senator Cullom, of Illinois, the man who "wouldn't throw a Presidential nomination over his shoulder," when asked the other day about his prospects, replied "I am doing nothing and expecting nothing.' The Republican who "does nothing and ext ects nothing." must be of an enviably happy frame of mind.

When the band played the Star Spangled Banner in the theatre at Washington the other night the President and his family, who were in their box, stood up until the air was finished. About the fourth of March, 1893, the Democrats will play something like that; he'll be in a box, too, and he'll not only stand up but he will walk out.

When death pulled the strings and Dom Pedro, the exiled Emperor of Peru, passed from the stage last Friday, it was the exit of an actor who had played well his part. Although an Emperor he was always a man in full sympathy with the people and never forgot that he was one of them. He had lived well and died a kingly man, though an uncrowned Emperor. In losing his crown he never lost his manhood nor his love for his people nor his country.

- Savannah News: One of the most level-headed and careful watchers of the market said yesterday in speeking of cotton, "No, I do not expect the receipts to fall off before January. They will continue at about the same rate at present. Consequently I am not calculating upon any unusual advance in prices. still stick to my estimate of 7,500,000 bales for the crop, however, and have made several wagers on that basis. Everything has tended to a rapid marketing of the crop this year, the splendid season for harvesting and the necessities of the farmers chiefly. After Christmas there will be a marked falling off and a corresponding advance in prices." A number of wagers are being made on the Bay as to whether the crop will be 7,500.000 bales, 7,750.000 bales or 8,000,000 bales or over, odds being asked on the highest and lowest. Almost a Fire.

An alarm, sent in from box 31, corner of Sixth and Campbell streets, about 3 a. m. yesterday, called the Department to a supposed fire in the grocery store of C. E. Smith, corner of Eighth and Campbell streets.

- The claim for insurance presented by the Wilmington Cotton Mills on account cf damage by fire-noticed in the STAR-amounts to $2,608, and will be adjusted this week by Smith & Boatwright, insurance agents.

- Mr. Frank Gause's roan gelding, in the second heat in the gentlemen's driving race, Friday, made a mile in 2.48, under a dead pull. He is a young, untrained horse, but a flyer. This is from the time-keeper's record. - The Clyde steamship Pawnee reported in collision off Sandy Hook, returned to New York Friday. Her cargo was transferred to the steamship Croatan to sail vesterday for this port. The Fanita sails to-day as an extra

-No new developments have been made in the affairs of the First National Bank, Mr. Alden, the examiner, is still at work, and nothing definite can be ascertained until his report is made and on that report will depend the "appointment of a receiver.

- Rev. R. C. Beaman, who will go to Trinity M. E. Church, Durham, next year, will preach his farewell sermons in Fifth Street Methodist Church to-day, morning and evening. Holy Communion will be administered after the morning service.

- It is estimated that several hundred visitors came in the city yesterday on the A. C. L. roads alone, which shows that Welcome Week continues to draw. You may break, you may shatter the vase if you will, but the scent of the roses will hang round it still.

- The State Board of Agriculture have definitely decided to make an exhibit of the resources of the State at the World's Fair at Chicago. What amount they have appropriated will be learned later. It is learned that the Attorney General advises that it will be legal for the Board to extend such aid.

Williams & Robinson, wholesale and retail carpets, &c., sold goods to people they never heard of before, some of them right at the gates of Charleston. No money was ever better invested. Bound to repeat next year on a bigger fashion. They are enthusiastic adyocates of an annual W. W.

Gleaves Hardware Co., wholesale only, believe strongly in the vast benefits already derived and yet to accrue to the business interests of the city. Next year we will have more money and a greater show.

Rheinstein & Co., wholesale dry goods, say their books show an increased trade; the affair was a success and should be repeated annually.

S. H. Fishblate, clothier, received at least $2,500. or $3,000 more than he would have gotten without the W. W. He saw men drawn hither he had not seen in eighteen years. We just can't do without it.

Chesnutt & Barrentine, wholesale and retail shoe house, advocate a larger thing next year. No money could have been so well spent, they got customers they never saw or heard of before; their new wholesale customers out of the State were quite a feature of the week. Of course they want another.

Brown & Roddick, wholesale and retail dry goods, notions, &c., report an immense trade, the money brought good returns and we must have larger 'Welcome" next year.

E. Warren & Son and Barrentine & Turlington, fruiterers and confectioners, claim a big trade. They will have daisy floats next year.

M. M. Katz & Son, dry goods, notions, &c., affirm that the week brought them a large trade and they got more than the worth of their money expended for it. Must have another and better show with more time for preparation. Sol Bear, wholesale dry goods, reports greatly improved trade and favors another effort for next year. D. Newman & Son, wholesale dry goods, say an increased trade was attracted that would not have come otherwise; must repeat in 1892. They will have a big float and give more money next year.

W. E. Springer & Co., wholesale and retail hardware, did not expect very great immediate benefits, but are well satisfied with their trade. They subscribed liberally and favor a repetition. It brings new men who will be sure to make customers when approached by trade solicitors, as they have enjoyed spirits turpentine, 130 casks; rosin, 992 our hospitality. This year it was good;

As Others Saw Us.

With one accord they all say Wil mington's big show was immense in elements of perfection. A lady, now visiting in the city, was in Charleston during the gala week, and says Wilmington had a much better show and more visitors.

The Charlotte News says:

Parties who arrived in the city this morning from Wilmington, say that the Welcome Week was really a fine success in all respects. The crowd was the greatest that Wilmington has known since the war. The trades display that took place last night was a particularly fine feature. Capt. Robertson says that t would have done credit to Baltimore. And in the same issue :

nost enthusiastically of their trip. They were treated royally by the people of Wilmington and their stay there, though necessarily brief, was exceedingly pleas-unsatisfactory owing to the scarcity and condition of the birds, and the boys are now "red-hot" for another. They all think they can hit the birds next time; but, if they do, they will have to do some fine shooting, as the next lot of pigeons will be the regulation "blue rocks" from New York or New Jersey. There will be at least six prizes offered, and it is believed there will be, not less than twenty-five contestants. It would be judicious for those having the matter in charge to call for entries early in order that an approximate estimate of the number of birds needed

The Rice Mill Combine.

According to the Savannah News, the rice mill owners have about come to the conclusion that the proposed rice mill combine has been abandoned. The options expire to-morrow, and nothing has been heard yet from the syndicate's representatives looking to a close of the deal. It is known that Hamilton Disston and John D. Rockefeller, American capitalists, were interested in the deal. Both are large holders of Florida lands. and it is supposed they expected to inaugurate the cultivation of rice upon a large scale. Mr. Disston was in Savannah about three weeks ago upon this business, and went from here to New

Or eans. The Y. M. C. A. Bazaar.

The Bazaar at the Y. M. C. A. rooms closed last night after a most successful week. All articles left over, unsold, both fancy and substantial, were sold at auction. The bidding was spirited and the prices realized very satisfactory. When the balance sheet is struck, it is assured that over $500, clear, will be added to the fund for furnishing the rooms. The number of visitors during the six days is estimated at fully 3,000. The STAR congratulates the charitable ladies upon the success of their noble labors in behalf of so worthy an object, and the Y. M. C. Association should be grateful for the efficient cooperation of the charitable ladies compusing the Women's Auxiliary.
