RAILROAD NOTES.

- The traffic in south bound freight has increased at a wonderful rate lately. and extra trains have been put on, on both the Richmond & Danville and the Seaboard Air Line. On Saturday there were three south bound freight trains on the latter road for points between Monroe and Atlanta and beyond.

- The railroad mileage of the world at the beginning of 1892 was 385,805 miles, according to a statement of the late railroad congress at St. Petersburg. Of this total 167,755 miles were credited to the United States, but this is nearly 3,000 miles less than the actual total which Poor places at 170,602. It is probable that the figures for the other countries are rather less than over the correct amount, being based on returns generally behind the times, but the total is immense and the figures are wonderfully suggestive.

The dwindling list of narrow gauge railroads in this country has again been decreased by the widening to standard gauge of the East Line and Red River railroad in Texas. For some years this little road has consisted of both broad and narrow gauge, having 32 miles of track of standard width and 121 miles of 3-feet gauge, but a few hours' work the other day sufficed to widen the narrow track and retire from service the rolling stock which was devised in the days not so long ago, when the narrow gauge was rapidly growing in mileage and a great trunk line system was in contemplation.

Capt. Alexander Home-How Things Look in Robeson. Capt. S. B. Alexander arrived his home in Charlotte Tuesday night from Robeson county, of which he and Mr. Sol. C. Weill, of Wilmington, have just completed a thorough canvass. Capt. Alexander, the Observer says. speaks hopefully of the situation in that section. Hs says things looked dark when he and Mr. Weill began work, but there has been a marked improvement within the past four weeks; the Democracrats have waked up and are working with might and main; the lukewarm are getting "hotter" in the Democratic cause, and altogether he thinks Robeson will be found on the right side when the general roll is called. On the 10th of next month Capt. Alexander and Mr. Weill will begin a canvass of Richmond county and all the counties beyond

A Small Fire. Fire broke out yesterday morning about two o'clock in a small frame building on South Front street adjoining the market house and occupied by Mr. Hiram Moore, dealer in fruits, vegetables and other country produce. Mr. Moore's stock was almost completely destroyed, but the loss is probably covered by the insurance, amounting to $400. The building is owned by Mr. C. H. Von Kampen and was not insured. It could probably be replaced for less than $100.

CANADAY'S CHECKERED CAREER.

Some Further Particulars Concerning His Checkered Career-His Suicide Not a

In the following, from the Philadelphia Times, some additional particulars are given concerning the late W. P. Canaday which have appeared in no other paper we have seen :

Another note was left by the suicide, said to have been addressed to a Miss Moore, which note the police have and will not make public until the inquest. Miss Moore is a young lady of excellent family and good reputation, whom Colonel Canaday knew in North Carolina. She is a daughter of Judge Moore, for many years on the bench of one of the higher State Courts in North Carolina, and is living here with her sister, whose husband is assistant curator of the National Museum. Colonel Canaday was a Confederate soldier and came into public life with the advent of Mahone and Riddleberger from Virginia. He was the Southern manager of Senator Sherman for some vears prior to that period, and was chosen Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate upon the earnest solicitation of Mr. Sherman. He was a close political friend of Mahone and Riddleberger for some time, and then they became enemies. It was he who took charge of Riddleberger at one time when the latter arose in an intexicated condition and insisted upon speaking on the floor of the Senate. Riddleberger threatened to kill Colonel Canaday for his interference, and never forgave him. Canaday's trouble with Mahone grew out of business relations.

Mahone was one of the Senatorial pool which invested largely in creosote works at Wilmington, N. C., managed by Canaday, and which made a dismal failure. The mismanagement of Canaday. referred to by the Senator as "dishonesty," was the direct cause of Colonel Canaday's retirement as Sergeant-at-Arms. During the campaigns of 1880 and 1884 will speak at Richlands October 13th, Colonel Canaday almost carried North Carolina's vote in convention in his pocket. He cast it solid for Senator

After the campaign of 1854 he began to lose cast with his own people, and finally lost all political prestige. When he returned to private life here and opened an office for law practice in the executive department and before Congress he had lost all political power.

Nearly all of the old Senatorial friends he once had had deserted him except John Sherman. When Colonel Canaday left the Senate's employ he owed quite a number of individual debts, "borrowed money," to employes of the Senate, and his creditors there added their mite to his rapid decline in public favor. The Colonel became almost an outcast. He had little practice. seemed despondent and was by many incerely pitied.

His suicide to-day, while shocking, was not a surprise. His public career was checkered, and yet it was not without redeeming features. He was a steadfast friend, but unfortunate in his calculations. He was energetic and painstaking. Everybody here knew him, and at one time there were few men in Washington who wielded more power. He was a great admirer of Senator John J. Ingalls, of Kansas, and it is probable that up to his last hour there were few men who would have gone farther to have done him a personal kindness than the great orator from the grasshopper

To Reside in Wilmington.

The Raleigh News and Observer says Mrs. T. R. Fentress and daughter, Miss Blanche, left yesterday afternoon for Wilmington, which city they will make their future home, with Mr. Robert L, Fentress. Their many triends regret to part with them, but congratulate the people of the "City by the Sea" on the accession of two such worthy and noble Christian ladies in their midst as permanent residents. Mr. H. L. Fentress is an old Raleigh boy and has been in the drug business at Wilmington for ten years, and has been quite successful.

Schooner Lorenzo Lost.

The small coasting schooner Lorenzo, Capt. Moore, plying between Wilmington and Tar Landing on New river, in Onslow county, sprung a leak while on her trip from Wilmington Tuesday last, and sunk in New river. She had a quantity of merchandise on board, which, with the vessel, is reported to be a complete loss. The Lorenzo is owned by Col. S. B. Taylor, of Catherine Lake.

OPERA HOUSE.

George Wilson's Minstrels Last Night. The famous George Wilson Minstrels gave their refined performance at the Opera House last night to a large audience. To say that every one was pleased would be the least that could be said.

Almost from the beginning to the end

the audience was kept in a continuous roar of laughter and applause. The company has probably the finest minstrel show that has ever been given in Wilmington. It is evenly balanced and well supported by a collection of the best blacked artists and comedians that can be well collected together on the American stage. It would be useless to try to do credit to each individual member of the troupe. George Wilson, of course, was the principal and leading attraction during the whole evening. The singing was fine beyond comparison. Mr. Charles Goodyear, Mr. Wilson's popular assistant, is worthy to have the honors divided between himself and Mr. Wilson.

The trio-Wilby, Pearle and Keys-in an exclusively new specialty introducing marvelous and startling athletic feats was beyond description great. The trapeze comedians, Barso and Roberts, elicited great applause.

Latel and Grevi, the "musical champions," in their musical creation entitled "Bill and I," showed well their wonderful musical talents which have won for them the great reputation they enjoy.

The performance ended with Chas. Goodyear's original skit, "Bi-chloride of Gold," composed of several members of the troupe and capping the climax.

The curtain fell amid deafening applause, and everybody went away saying that Geo. Wilson's Minstrels was the biggest show of the kind that has ever been presented in our city.

The jokes were all new, spicy and refined, which is something unusual to minstrel shows. Wilmington theatregoers will ever welcome Geo. Wilson and his troupe.

SUPERIOR COURT.

The Case of Griffith vs. Prempert Occupies the Time of the Court-A Verdict for Defendant. The hearing in the case of Mrs. Sarah Griffith vs. Mrs. Lizzette Prempert (suit to set aside a mortgage alleged to have been procured by fraud by John C. Davis) was continued yesterday and argued by Iredell Meares, Esq., for plaintiff, and Messrs. Junius Davis and E. S. Martin for defendant. The case was given to the jury near sundown, and a verdict was returned about 10 o'clock for the defendant-Mrs. Prempert. The following is the record made in the case of W. S. O'B. Robinson, Receiver of the First National Bank of Wilmington, vs. Fannie G. Pollock, a large stockholder in the bank, and whose property in Wilmington had been attached to secure assessments made upon her shares of stock, viz: Battle and Mordecai, attorneys for the defence, enter a special appearance for the defendant and move the Court that the attachment herein be vacated and the action be dismissed, because the order for publication of summons for the defendant was made and publication commenced before the expiration of thirty days from the time the warrant of attachment was granted. After argument of counsel for both parties, His Honor overruled the defendant's motion. Defendant excepted. Therefore, said Battle and Mordecai enter a general appearance for the defendant, and sixty days after the adjournment of the term is allowed the defendant to an-
