It is said that the distillers of Kentucky have decided to double the output of whiskey. It seems that they are anticipating a larger input.

It is said that newspapers spread between the covers of beds or worn in the lining of clothes will keep out the cold. Some editors make their papers very warm.

As a dispenser of patronage the Mayor of New York city isn't a cipher He has control of a dozen or so appointments the salaries of which range from $25,000 to $5,000 a year, aggregating about $70,000.

A Wisconsin Bishop says one of his parishioners told him the people liked him because he was "so darned common," which was another way the parishioner had of remarking that he was a darned uncommon bishop.

It is said that Charles de Lesseps, son of the old man, has made some revelations in regard to the Panama Canal which will create another big sensation, and involve prominent men in this country as well as in France.

Those weather prophets who were predicting a mild winter were about as far from the mark as the Republican prognosticators were before the election. The freeze out struck the Republican party in November and later struck the country generally.

Some elephants are not as particular as they should be on what they feed. One died at Baraboo, Wis, a few days ago, and an autopsy re-- vealed the fact that he had died from lunching too freely on a big iron chain which proved too much for his digestive powers.

When Jerry Simpson is at home in Kansas he plays the farmer racket and dresses in plain style, but in Washington he cuts a swell in fashionable attire, and swings a silverheaded cane. The silver-headed cane is the solidest thing about Jerry. He himself is of the bogus build.

The Chica Inter-Ocean, Rep., remarks that "The Senatorial contests culminating with the birth of the new year constitute the last ditch of the campaign of last year." From the way the Republican machine managers are performing they seem to have discovered that they are in it.

It seems that this world can never be at peace. It is now announced that a great beer war is raging in St. Louis, between home brewers and the English syndicate brewers. The consequence is beer has gone down fifty per cent., and continues to go down in the usual way. The trouble has been brewing for some

WILMINGTON, N. C., WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 11, 1893.

A Missouri editor contends that Hon. H. M. Williams should have the honor of carrying the electoral vote of that State to Washington "because he is an old Democratic war horse, with collar marks on his shoulders, the hair worn off his sides where the traces rubbed, but no marks or scars where he was chafed by setting back against the breeching." Such a daisy puller ought to have "the pull" on it, even if he didn't present a very picturesque or æsthetic appearance. He is evidently

A German writer says there is altogether too much high education in Germany and as a consequence all the professions are overstocked with men of highly cultivated brains who can't make a living by their brains and who don't know how or are too proud to do it with their hands.

St. Louis trots out the champion 'multum in parvo" girl who managed to crowd 9,100 words on an old style postal card and then had to take a microscope to read what she "writ." She might have written more but she exhausted her vocabulary when she reached the 9,100 mark.

Queen Victoria is going to make Prince Ferdinand, of Roumania, who is going to marry one of her grand daughters, a Knight of the Bath. As he will have to shell out about $2,-000 in fees, he will find it a pretty costly bath.

The plate glass trust has fixed up its business for another year, and embraces all the leading factories in the country. Senator Sherman, who talked so vigorously in the Senate about Trusts, should try his hand at smashing it.

Northwest Storm Signal - Wind Thirty-six Miles an Hour- A Cold Wave on the

The northwest storm signal was displayed here yesterday at 2.20 p. m., on instructions from the chief of the Weather Bureau at Washington, D. C. The same signal was also ordered up at Jacksonville, Fla. Savannah, Ga. Charleston S. C., Morehead and Washington, N. C., Fort Monroe and West Point, Va.

The morning report from the Weather Bureau stated that the storm was then central over New England, and there were heavy northwest gales and snow along the coast and over the lake region. A cold wave of great severity was rapidly approaching from the northwest; zero weather then prevailing from Cleveland, Ohio., to St. Paul, Minn.

During the morning and forenoon the wind was strong from the southwest, the velocity reaching 86 miles an hour About noon the wind got around to the northwest, but with diminished force Clear weather prevailed throughout the day. The minimum temperature, reported by the Weather Bureau, was 80

"Bryce's Pocket Practice."

The STAR has received from the author, Dr. Clarence A. Bryce, of Richmond, Va., a copy of the neat little book referred to in the annexed extract from the Richmond Times:

We have received a copy of "Bryce's Pocket Practice," a complete and condensed work on the practice of medi-Clarence A. Bryce, M. D., of this city. This, as its title shows, is an exceedingly useful little book, as it discusses all manner of disease and its proper treatment. It is an excellent work to have in the family, especially when it is hard to procure a physician.

- Messrs. A. M. Chinnis, Phœnix Gus M. McKeithan, D. A. Bennett, T. J. Hickman and Jos. Gore, of Winnabow, Brunswick county, were in the city yesterday visiting wholesale merchants.

Still Gossipping and Guessing.

The Savannah and Charleston papers continue to issue lengthy "bulletins" in relation to the movements and plans. present and prospective, of the Atlantic Coast Line in South Carolina and Georgia; and while admitting that "the officials of all the roads interested are naturally very careful, in speaking of the subject, not to give away any secrets," and that "there is little more information than is contained in these rumors," continue to gossip and guess, and consequently give currency to inaccurate statements. The article in the STAR of January 5th was a complete answer to everything in the "bulletin" referred to above, except the following which appeared in the News and Courier of the 9th:

"Another question which will enter very materially into the discussion of this point is this: How long does the Coast Line's lease of the Northeastern Road extend? The Coast Line leased the Northeastern for the express purpose of utilizing it for its Southern travel, and if that road should hold a long lease of the property, it is not probable that it would seek to make the change suggested.

In reply to this, it may be stated that the Northeastern Railroad is not leased at all, but that four-fifths of its stock is owned by the Atlantic Coast Line. Charleston being the seaport terminus of the Northeastern, it is rather in the nature of a surprise that the News and Courser should not be better posted.

To Help Young Men. At the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A., on last Sunday, after a most interesting talk on Missions by Mr. George Worth, the "Extension Work" of the Y M. C. A. was spoken of. This is a work that has been undertaken by a great many associations throughout the world, the object of which is to arouse interest in work for young men outside of the city where the association is

Pledges of from one to ten cents per week for three months were asked for the object being to create by small but numerous gifts, a fund for the support of such work. The entire amount donated will be divided quarterly as follows: Thirty per cent, to go to the State committee for use in North Carolina, thirty per cent, to the International Committee for use in North America, thirty per cent, for the support of general secretaries in "heathen lands," and the remaining ten per cent. towards the support of the training school at Northfield,

About half of the number present in the meeting put their names down for small amounts, the entire pledges amounting to about one dollar per week. A small box and suitable envelopes is placed in the Reception Room to receive the weekly offerings.

COTTON FACTS AND FIGURES.

- Receipts of cotton here yesterday 758 bales; same day last year, 252 bales. - New York futures closed steady and five and six points lower than closing prices Monday; sales 180 200 bales. January opened at 9.58 and closed 9.54; February 9.68 and closed 9.65; March 9.80 and closed 9.76; April 9.90 and closed 9.85; May 9.99 and closed 9.94; June 10.06 and closed 10.01.

- Columbia State: If our farmers would only realize how petty South Carolina's cotton production is, compared with that of the Southwest, and how much cheaper than we Texas and Arkansas can make their great crops, they would not longer drag in the shallows of a tide retreating westward, but seek scope and opportunity in some other direction. In the name of common sense, let us engage in agricultural pursuits in which we can find a place near the top!

- Charleston News and Courier: The water powers in upper Carolina have in ten years advanced South Carolina to the foremost place in Southern cotton weaving and spinning. Thousands are now living in comfort, with good schools, church privileges, etc., in the numerous mill villages of our State; industrious, sober communities, sharing the profits of changing the raw cotton into yarn and cloth, with the very large capital necessary to these important undertakings. There is steady progress, too, in accomplishing these results. The last large mill erected, the Enoree, has been profitable from its completion, and its shares have never been below par, and now are in demand at $1.30. With State securities reduced to 41/2 per cent. interest, with the success achieved in cotton manufacturing companies, from the Savannah to the Cape Fear, investment in cotton mills, with assured water power and prudent business management, would seem to be entirely safe.

Mrs. J. H. Penny has at last been started to her home in Wilmington, N. C. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Lewis, who interested themselves, are entitled to a great deal of credit for the work they have done in her behalf. Mrs. Penny left last night over the Burlington R R., being supplied with transportation and sufficient funds to last her until she reaches her destination with her little boy. In addition to the balance of $1500 handed to Mrs. Lewis by the Times, the following amounts were collected by Clifford Lewis, viz: L.] Otterbourg $5 00, in addition to the $1900 previously contributed by him; United States Marshal A. H. Jones, $10 00; Order of Railway Telegraphers, by George R. Vic. Roy, $10 00. R. P. McDonald, for the County Commissioners, contributed a ticket to St. Louis. Mr. Lewis says that the successful outcome of the efforts in Mrs. Penny's behalf is due to Mr. Otterbourg, of the

ELECTRICAL TRACTION.

What a Noted Observer Thinks oi the

Trolley. Erastus Wiman, in a recently pub lished article on Electrical Traction, said: "It is true that the growth of the horse-railways helped enormously the expansion of cities, enabling the laboring class to reach outlying suburbs and thus have homes of their own, and begetting within the city a celerity of movement which otherwise would have been impossible. But whatever the street railways have done for large cities, electric roads will do ten times the amount. Not only will the celerity of action be increased four-fold, but by the expansion of the system into the outlying parts, the practical enlargement of every city in the land to almost double their present population will be achieved Within the city itself, by the frequency of service, the economy of operation, the cleanliness, healthfulness and reliability, a more perfect movement of people will be achieved."
