It is said that Mr. Cleveland gets about two hundred letters every morning before breakfast. This proves beyond question that he is a man of letters.

Senator Stewart, of Nevada, says he is prepared at a moment's notice to make a two weeks' speech on the silver question. Senator Stewart is an able-bodied man.

Edgar Saltus has made himself solid with Chicago. He calls it "the Imperial City of the world." If he should attend the World's Fair, Edgar will have free range of the beer saloons.

There is a bill before the Indiana Legislature providing for the abolition of the convict labor system in use in the penitentiary. The opposition to working convicts in competition with labor outside the penitentiaries is growing.

It is said that a projectile has been invented in Italy which upon striking an object will get up an illumination equal to 10,000 candle power. This Government ought to buy a gross or two of these and shoot them into the Pension office.

An English seafaring man says that in the near future steamers will cross the Atlantic in four and a half days. In 1878 the horse power of the Atlantic steamers was 6,000, now it is five times as great. As the power increases, so, of course, will the speed.

John Spaulding, a mill onaire bachelor, who boards at the United States Hotel, in Boston, never has to wait long for his beans. He is the most liberal tipper on record. He has just divided $36,000 among the eight servant girls in that hasherie.

Last year California shipped 10,500,000 gallons of wine to New York alone, nearly 1,000,000 gallons more than the year before. With nice French labels it didn't take long to transform much of that wine into nice French wine, and get pay for it accordingly.

An ex-freight agent in Louisville, charged with getting away with $48,000 is out on a $2,000 bond waiting to see what the Grand Jury is going to do about it. If he don't like the outcroppings, and really got away with the lucre as charged, he can get away himself and be $48,000 ahead.

Speaking of the Senatorial contests in these "doubtful" Western States the Chicago Inter-Ocean, Rep., remarks: "If the country really wants an unbridled reign of Democracy, the Republicans will accept the situation cheerfully." The way they are hustling around and manipulating to steal Senators out there doesn't look like it.

We have had a very queer climate in the United States since Uncle Jerry Rusk has got to running the weather department. While we have been shivering with the mercury hanging around zero, and more ice in this semi-tropical section than any man ever saw since C. Columbus reported his discoveries, the farmers in Northern Montana have been hustling around doing their Spring plowing.

THE MORNING STAR.

VOL. LI.-NO. 57 WILMINGTON, N. C., WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 25, 1893. WHOLE NO. 8.04

Some of the London papers are moralizing on the fearful state of affairs in Mitchell county, where the telegraphic fakeist located that terrible battle between the lynchers and the sheriff's posse. They have probably taken their cue from the comments of some of our own papers, who jumped at it and did a large amount of moralizing without waiting to see whether it was true or not.

There is a farmer in Mississippi who didn't like tramps. One applied to him for lodging a few days ago, which he not only refused, but not being satisfied with turning his dogs loose at him, he helped the dogs and pounded the tramp until he got tired. While taking a rest he discovered that the tramp was his son, who, as a boy, had run away from home twenty years ago.

A Georgia hog has lived to the remarkable age of twenty-two years, and is still living, if we can rely upon Georgia veracity. The hog which has survived so long in a State where watermelons do not grow the whole year round, is remarkable not only for its age, but for its running capacity for which it is, doubtless, in a great measure indebted for its longevity.

We would never have known what kind of stockings Mrs. Morton, wife of Vice-President Morton wears, if it hadn't been for the announcement that a couple dozen pairs from France, which are valued at $43, are waiting in the Baltimore custom house for her to pay the $25.80 tariff duty on them.

There is talk about calling another convention of cotton planters at an early day to consider the question of a still further reduction of the cotton acreage and an increased acreage of food crops. A good idea, whether the cotton acreage be reduced or not, to discuss the food crop question.

These be fast days we live in. Machinery has been brought to such perfection as a labor-saver and expeditor that a tree can be cut in the forest and within twenty-four hours converted into paper for the printer.

Mr. Cleveland wears a 7 1/2 hat, and it isn't his grandfather's either. He wears a shoe that some of the Republican office holders next March will think weighs a ton.

"A FAIR REBEL."

The Strong Military Drama to be Presented at the Opera House To-night.

This strong military drama will be presented at the Opera House to-night. It is based on the escape of Col. Rose from the famous Libby Prison.

Not only is the dialogue good, but the scene is so well worked up that one imagines themselves back in '64. Both the exterior and interior of Libby Prison are shown by a revolving set. The manner of escape, by an underground tunnel is vividly portrayed. The other scenes throughout are perfectly given as to detail, showing that the author has made a careful study of this historical event. The story running throughout is charmingly and intelligently handled. The vein of comedy is clean. One witnessing the performance of "A Fair Rebel" gets a bit of war history in a most agreeable form; for this reason it makes much more of an impression on one's memory than reading army history could possibly do.

"The Effects of Alcohol."

Dr. Storm's lecture on the above subject at the Y. M. C. A. rooms last night was listened to by a good-sized and seemingly appreciative audience. The course of alcohol was followed through the system, its effect on the stomach after it was taken in, its absorption and entry into the blood and passage through the heart, lungs, liver and the effect produced on the brain. The talk was plain and simple and was no doubt understood and will result in great benefit to those present.

The young men composing the George Davis Literary Society have made arrangements to have medical talks on the following subjects and dates:

"Emergencies and How to Treat them," on January 30th, by Dr. W. J. H. Bellamy.

"The Care of the Sick," February 6th, by Dr. D. W. Balluck.

"The Reproductive System," February 13th, by Dr. Geo. G. Thomas.

"After the lecture of last night about twenty-five scholars of the Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium gave an exhibition game of "Basket Ball."
