- It is a good time to lay in a supply of firewood. The receipts are lager and prices low. - The first mosquito of the season put in his appearance at the STAR office last night and sang his summer song to unwilling listeners. - The weather was warm yesterday, but the Weather Bureau people said something about a cold wave that might strike us this evening.

- Police officer Geo. Gafford and Mr. B. F. King are said to be Democratic candidates for aldermen in the Fifth Ward; also, Mr. Ed Northrop and Dr. Hanby.

- The STAR stated yesterday that the retail liquor license tax was not included in the school fund as given in Sheriff Stedman's settlement. It was included in that fund. - The "disorderly conduct" with which Mr. R. S. Rouse was charged in the Mayor's Court Tuesday as reported in the STAR, was striking a negro who was impudent to him. - Some very good photographic pictures of Mr. Henry Newman, "Our Own Commedian" were displayed in the lobby of the Opera House last night and attracted much attention.

- The fishing shanty of Messrs. Dave Willis and J. M. Moper, about twelve miles down the river, was destroyed by fire early yesterday morning, with all their provisions and clothing.

- A postal to the STAR from Wooten, N. C., says Mr. E. W. Wooten of that place, while plowing, was struck in the stomach by the plowhandles and seriously hurt, suffering much pain and being unable to walk.

- A meeting of the Laboring Men's Central Democratic Club was held last night and an organization perfected. But just before the meeting closed a motion was carried to request the newspapers not to publish the proceedings.

- The attendance at the meeting of the Republican Club in the First Ward last night was so small-only ten members being present-that nothing was done in the matter of recommending candidates for aldermen in that

A citizen writes the STAR complaining R.-41 bales cotton, 36 casks spirits of the reprehensible conduct of some of the young people last Tuesday night, who under the pretext of carrying valentines, were guilty of many disorderly bale cotton, 2 casks spirits turpentine. acts, some of them of a most outrageous Carolina Central R. R.-14 casks nature. At Mr. Heinsberger's residence on North Third street, the fence in front of the house was torn up and removed to the edge of the sidewalk. In various parts of the city gates were taken off and placed in adjoining lots, door-bells casks spirits turpentine,127 barrels rosin, broken and other damage done. The citizen referred to says: "Ringing door bells, removing gates and leaving premises exposed, especially flower gardens upon which a good deal of time, labor and expense has been bestowed, throwing rocks, &c., against doors, may be fun to those who are engaged in it but it is no sport to those who suffer damage or pecuniary loss from it, and we regret that parents allow their boys and often their girls to romp the streets at night to engage in this sort of passtime, oftentimes not knowing with whom they are associating. We understand a good deal of this sort of sport was indulged in on Tuesday night under the pretense of carrying valentines and that our city authorities endeavored to prevent it and break it up but the greater part of the damage was done before the night squads of police came on

Grand Concert. If the people of the city of Wilmington love good music, they will show it by attending the concert next Tuesday night by the Schubert Quartette of Chicago. This company was here last year, and it may be safely said that few companies have received higher praise. Those so fortunate as to hear them clamored that they should be secured this year also, that they might hear them again and bring their friends to hear them. The privilege of hearing Mr. Geo. H. Lott's wonderfully rich bass is alone worth the price of admission. The box sheet will be open Monday morning.

The Withdrawal of the Day Train a Mistake-The Question of Improved Service Under Consideration.

Referring to the mail service on the Carolina Central Railroad, the Lumberton Robesonian says this : "We learn that in obedience to a recent law ordering at least one last day train, the Carolina Central will put on a day train about the first of March. Our mail facilities since the day train was discontinued were miserable. all of the daily papers being from twenty-four to forty-eight hours old when they reach

The STAR does not know that the law requires it; but it does know that independent of that the officials of the Carolina Central have had under consideration for several weeks the question of restoring the day train that was withdrawn some months since.

There is no sort of doubt that the discontinuance of the day train was a mistake so far as a net reduction of expenses is concerned. Of course, the expenditures are smaller, but so are the receipts.

As a matter of fact, that portion of the Carolina Central between Wilmington and Hamlet is a "dead weight" on the Seaboard Air Line under the present schedules, and the sooner the managers realize this the better it will be for their pockets.

Put back the day train, retaining the present night train, run the Carolina Central, as far as possible, as an independent road relying mainly on its local business for support, and it will result in improved business for Wilmington and much better traffic for the road.

Stealing Trash Barrels.

The latest development in the thieving line is stealing the trash barrels from private residences. A negro appeared on the premises of one of our citizens a few days ago and offered to purchase the barrel at the back gate in which trash was deposited for the street carts to take off, which was declined. A few days after a colored man appeared upon the premises and proposed an exchange for another barrel equally as good and larger. Thinking that he needed the barrel for some special purpose, the trade was made. It turned out afterwards that the man had stolen the barrel from the premises of a neighbor. This barrel was given to the owner and another procured, which disappeared a night or two afterwards. It is thought these barrels are stolen and sold to vendors for the shipment of clams.

THE LATE JNO. M. ROBINSON.

Further Particulars of His Honored Career -His Varied Accomplishments.

The Baltimore Sun of yesterday has the following sketch of the late John M. Robinson, which contains some details not given in the STAR yesterday, and will be read with interest by the many friends of the deceased in this section:

Mr. John Moncure Robinson died at an early hour yesterday morning at his home, 1002 North Charles street, of rheumatism complicated with an affection of the kidneys. Mr. Robinson was born in Philadelphia, August 22, 1835. He was a son of the late Moncure Robinson, who went to Philadelphia from Virginia, where he was one of the originators and promoters of the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac railroad. John M. Robinson, after passing through a regular course at the Virginia Military Institute, continued his studies at the Lawrence Scientific School and Harvard University. He further studied civil engineering, and, as a part of his course, he served as engineer on a locomotive between Philadelphia and the Susquehanna river.

Mr. Robinson attached himself to the ngineering corps of the Confederate States when the civil war broke out, and while in active service rose to the rank of colonel and served as a staff officer. He was first attached to General Wise's forces, on Roanoke Island, but later served in Virginia under Generals Breckinridge, Jones and Loring. Twice he successfully ran the Federal blockade when he was sent to Europe to buy suppiles for the engineering bureau of the Confederacy. Just before the close of the war he was in charge of railroad transportation for the Confederacy. Mr. Robinson was for some time superintendent of the Seaboard & Roanoke Railroad, and at the time of his death was President of the road and of the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad Company and Raleigh & Augusta Railroad Com-

The flags on all the shipping of the river and harbor transportation offices of Baltimore and Norfolk, Va., were put at half-mast when the news of Mr. Robinson's death was learned. Mr. Robinson was a nephew of the late Mrs. Barton Haxall, of Norfolk. He leaves four brothers and three sisters, who are Dr. Beverly Robinson, Randolph Robinson and Charles M. Robinson, of New York and Moncure Robinson, Mrs. Sidney Biddle. Mrs. Harry Boyer and Mrs. Charles Chauncey, of Philadelphia. Mr. Robinson married Miss Champe Conway, daughter of Dr. Conway, of Richmond, Va. He came to Baltimore in 1864 with his wife, who survives him, with eight children. The children are Lota, Nellye, Champe, Moncure, Florence, Agnes, Randolph and Mary

Jeffreys Lewis supported by Harry Mainhall and her own company of players, under the direction of Mr. Arthur C. Aiston, filled their special engagements at the Opera House yesterday, playing "Forget Me Not" in the afternoon, and "La Belle Russe" at

In the afternoon there was a fair-sized audience present, and many expressed themselves as being very much pleased; but at night, probably on account of the bad weather, there was not so large a house and some of the severer critics did not like the play. The play itself is not of the class that is generally appreciated, although some of the company were fair artists. Miss Jeffreys Lewis was applauded in the third and fourth acts and Miss Ida Verner, Harry Mainhall and Hereward Hoyte took their parts very well.

EVANGELIST PEARSON.

WHOLE NO. 8,055

Dr. Pritchard Says No Man Ever Got Hold of His Conscience as Mr. Pearson

Rev. Dr. T. H. Pritchard, who contributes a column or more of religious matter to the Charlotte Observer every Sunday, gives the following as his estimate of the Rev. R. G. Pearson:

"I have heard many eminent evangelists-Earle, Hudson, Harrison, Wharton, Needham, Moody and others-but the greatest preacher of them all, by long odds, too, in my humble judgment, is the Rev. R. G. Pearson. I have heard the great preachers of the world-Spurgeon, Parker, Farrar, Beecher, Fuller, Simpson, Durbin, Talmage, Broadus, Storrs, John Hall, Lorimer, Ellis, Hawks, Henson, Bishop Atkinson, Hawthorne, Poindexter, Miller of Charlotte-a very great man—but I am not sure but the little hard-featured Mississippian is the best preacher of them all. Certainly no man ever got hold of my conscience and shook me up like he did. I do not say that he is so great a man as many of these. Take him altogether, Mr. Spurgeon was immeasurably his superior, and I presume Mr. Moody is, in general ability, a greater man than Pearson, but he is nothing like so good preacher—and I say this after having heard both many times. I say it deliberately: The most wonderful man I have seen in a pulpit is R. G. Pearson, and the beauty of the man is, his character is as good as his preaching."

Spiritualistic Spiritualizers.

Thursday night, February 16, at the Opera House, Dr. Eddy, will give a seance for the purpose of demonstrating spirit power in the light. The following are among the demonstrations he promises to produce in Eddy's open seance. as presented by him before the leading scientific societies of England, Austria, ermany and France. A table rises and floats in mid-air; flowers are brought and passed through the audience by invisible hands; spirit slate-writing, questions written and retained by the interrogators will receive full answers. This gentleman has acquired a wide celebrity as medium, it is said. His seances are given on the open stage in the full glare of the gaslight. An exchange says: "The wonderful power displayed by Mr. Eddy can be explained by no other theory than that which he assumes, that be is capable of invoking departed spirits. Sergeant Cox, President of the Psychological Society, Great Britain, says: 'I have been an advocate of spiritualistic phenomena for thirty years, and it the manifestations of Mr. Eddy are not genuine, and if it can be proven that they are not, then I will nevermore believe in spiritual manifestations."
