For murders and suicides among children France seems to take the lead. Nine murders of boys and girls under 10 years of age, committed by boys under 14 have been reported within the past tew months. The suicides are almost as numerous. The disposition to suicide may be born in them for there are no people in the world who commit suicide with more deliberation and method than the French.

A New York doctor says he frequently gives bread pills and sugar pills to people who have nothing to do but quarrel and find fault with their livers. It would be a good thing, perhaps, if there were more bread and sugar pills administered and fewer livers in this world. Some people have no business with a liver anyway, for they don't know how to treat the poor thing.

Dr. Buchanan, convicted last week, in New York, of the poisoning of his wife, pronounces the verdict a monstrous failure of justice, and thinks that with such verdicts the public will lose confidence in juries. Possibly the jury may have been wrong in this case, but the public will not rear up much on its hind legs at the verdict. As disreputable a wretch as Buchanan was, by his own confession, deserves capital punishment on general principles.

When Fred Zimmerman, a denizen of Chicago, was taking a short cut home one night last week, he was confronted by five foot-pads, one of whom stuck a pistol under his nose and ordered him to throw up his hands. Being of an accommodating and then the f. p's. proceeded to go through his pockets, a familiarity on short acquaintance which he construed as an insult. Reaching out he grabbed that lone pistol and went for the quintet with such impetuosity that they couldn't stand the pressure, and instanter took to their heels and left him in possession of the lot. He made a pistol by the operation and the foot-pads made

O'Roop "in the Soup."

The contract for carrying the mails between Wilmington and Southport, by steamer for three years, from June 30th, 1893, to July 1st, 1896, has been sub-let to Capt. John W. Harper. It will be remembered that this contract was awarded to Mr. H. O. Roop, of Georgia, who fondly hoped to sub-let it at a healthy profit. Misther O'Roop tried all his persuasive arts to induce some "fresh" young fellow to take the contract off his money-making hands at an advance of two hundred dollars; but he failed ignominiously and finally, in a fit of desperation, he planked down a very handsome bonus which soon found way into the capacious pockets of Capt. Harper. So, the contract is now arranged as it should be. And Mr. O'Roop is now "in the soup;" and "don't you forget," he had to sub-let it.

The Grand Jury Drawn-The Case of the Ex-President of the People's Bank of Fayetteville-Internal Revenue Cases

The United States District Court, Judge Seymour presiding, reassembled yesterday morning at 10 o'clock.

The grand jury was drawn and empannelled as follows: W. H. Chadbourn, foreman; John S. Cain, L. O. Foneville. Ir., Jas. B. Dudley, Geo. K. Knox, John W. Perdew, S. VanAmringe, Rufus Register, T. F. Bagley, John Leach, Frank Sessoms, C. L. Taylor, Robert F. Durham, F. H. Cotten, W. P. Weymss, Jesse Soles, J. D. Congleton, W. J. Cromartie. W. J. Currie was sworn as officer in charge of the grand jury. The first case called was that of E. F. Moore, ex-President of the People's National Bank of Fayetteville, continued from the last term. Defendant is charged with embezzlement of funds of the bank. Affidavit was submitted by defendant's counsel for continuance of the case, on account of the absence of Jno. H. Robinson, one of the witnesses, and for other causes stated in the affidavit. The Court. however, refused to continue the case to the next term and ordered that it be transferred, to be tried at Raleigh, Thursday, June 8th next.

The case of Florence Lamb, charged with retailing liquor without license, was in the hands of a jury when the court took a recess about six o'clock until 10 a. m. to-day.

CAROLINA CENTRAL CATERPILLARS

The Baltimore Sun Grows Facetious-It

Talks About Karolina Sentral Snakes, The Baltimore Sun of yesterday perpetrates, editorially, the following joke: The South Carolina whiskey, which is subjected to careful government inspection, sold by regular appointed government officials in original packages, each bearing official certificates, is having some peculiar effects. One of the strangest is in reducing the apparent size of resultant snakes. Some of this South Carolina beverage recently got across the line into North Carolina and an original package or two fell into the hands of an engineer on the Carolina Central Railroad. The effect was prodigious. When the engine-man arrived in Clarkton from Wilmington he reported that for ten miles the railroad was covered two inches deep with caterpillars. It seems that the South Carolina whiskey not only made the snakes look small, but made them appear wooly Under the new liquor law of South Carolina the smallest drink which can be bought is a quart and it was thought by somethat it was to this fact the enormous number of snakes was to be attributed. But this explanation of the matter is manifestly incorrect, since it has been the uniform experience of thirsty sinners that the bigger the drinks the bigger the snakes. So it must be conceded that there is some peculiarity in the granger government whiskey of the Palmetto State which not only reduces the size of the snakes, but makes them look like caterpillars.

Ordered to Vacate the Docks. It is the general opinion of people who have given thought to the matter that the order issued by the city authorities directing the Chief of Police to close the dock at the foot of Princess street and other docks on the river front to vendors of firewood from the country, is a mistake, to say the least. Whatever the purpose of the order may be, its effect, unquestionably, will be to enhance the price of wood to consumers, and thus entail distress and suffering upon poor people in the community. It may be said that the increased cost to consumers will be small; but to pinching poverty a nickel in time of need is a fortune-and pinching poverty is always in need of that nickel.

What a Small Ad. Did. Mr. J. Hicks Bunting gives the following as his experience in advertising in the "Business Locals" of the STAR. FAYETTEVILLE NEWS BUBGET.

The City Election-Mayor Cook-A Cow Question-Water Works-Electric Lights -A New Bank-A Colored Man's Crime.

[Special Star Correspondence.] FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., May 1 .- The city election for Mayor and Board of Aldermen resulted as foreshadowed in the STAR of Sunday. Col. W. S. Cook was elected Mayor, and a tull board of Democratic Aldermen, without opposition. Col. Cook is a thoroughly furnished ex-member of "the old Board," that is, the Board elected by an act of the Legislature under which the charter of the town has been suspended for eleven years. He is well qualified to preside over the destinies of this community, and we are satisfied that under his administration, sustained by a board of intelligent young men who are identified with the varied interests of the town, our city will take no backward steps. There are now in process of construction here a splendid system of water works, two competing electric light systems, and a new bank. The police system of the town is to be improved by the appointment of a vigilant police force-and last, but not least-the question of "turning out the cows" is to be considered. This latter is a question about which a large per cent. of our population feel great concern, and we opine that the compensation our Board of Aldermen will receive will assume the form of a "very large cursing" weekly, whether they turn out the cows, or whether they do not. If your correspondent was a cursing man, he would heap his anathemas upon them in either event. For if they do not "turn out the cows," they would deprive us of a lot of green food that our stock cannot get now; and if they do turn them out other people's stock will depredate upon our flower yards. So, we are prepared to curse them anyhow!

The election of a City Marshal and subordinate officers will take place at a meeting of the board Monday.

The colored man, Edinboro Scurlock, who burned his daughter in bed on Sunday morning, 23rd inst., was arrested last week and is now in Cumberland jail. He denies the charge and claims that he can produce evidence sufficient to prove an alibi. Scurlock is well known in this community, and has always borne a good character, and a great many doubt his guilt. He will probably be tried for the crime at the next term of the Superior Court for this county which convenes next week. The burned woman is improving, and will probably recover sufficiently to give her attention to the case when it is called.

State Board of Education in Session-City Affairs-A. G. Brenizer Appointed Delegate to the Bankers' Conference at Chieago-Decisions of the Railroad Commis

[Special Star Telegram.]

RALEIGH, N. C., May 2.—The State Board of Education met to-day and readopted the present list of books for public schools of the State for the next

At noon to-day the retiring board of aldermen turned over the city affairs to the new board elected yesterday. The election of Mayor and other officers was not gone into to-day, but was postponed till next Friday night.

Gov. Carr has appointed A. G. Brenizer, of Charlotte, a delegate to the World's Fair conferees of bankers to be held at Chicago in June. Mr. Brenizer is expected to attend and deliver an address upon the banks of North Carolina. The Railroad Commission was in session to-day and had several important cases before it. Among them was the well known case of E. P. Albea, of Winston, against the Western Union Telegraph Co. for over-charge. The case is now pending on appeal in the Supreme Court and the commission having found that the company refused to apply the rate fixed by it from their offices at Elizabeth City and Edenton, called the attention of their attorneys to the act empowering the commission to fix rates and to inform them, pending appeal.

The commission dismissed the action of Pickett against the Atlantic Coast Line, for refusal to redeem unused commutation tickets, Pickett not having carried out his part of the contract. Instructions for better station facilities at Williamston on the Albemarle & Raleigh railroad were approved by the Suppress the Croaker.

The croaker market in Wilmington is glutted. He belongs to the genus homo, and is engaged in many kinds of mer cantile and other business pursuits, and he is making the air dark with his fearful mutterings about "dull times." No one denies that trade is dull, but it is an undeniable fact that the croaker makes at appear worse than it really is. When a stranger comes to Wilmington he is sure to meet a croaker, who tells him that "business is flat," that "trade is paralyzed," that he don't see how he can "feed his wife and children during the Summer," and that he is afraid he "will have to leave Wilmington if trade don't get better very soon." The stranger catches the contagion, he thinks he has struck a dead town, and that as everything is "going to pot" he had better not buy any goods. So he walks gloomily to his hotel, pays his bill, and takes the first train for home. The croaker ought to be suppressed, He should be laughed at by those of more buoyant temperament until he feels ashamed of his nonsense. Let him understand that the trade of no town was ever improved by the gruesome lamentations of the croaker, and that it is the man of sunny disposition who makes those around him happy, and who can realize that the clouds cannot always obscure the bright sunshine or hide the brilliant stars that stud the canopy of

- Augusta Chronicle: It is reported that farmers are making every endeavor to secure cotton seed for the purpose of replanting their cotton crop, which has been very largely killed by frost. The high prices paid for seed during the winter have induced many farmers to sell.

Where will they get them to replant. - New Orleans correspondent of the Charlotte Observer: A business man in discussing the subject of cotton said that most of the cotton men in New Orleans were looking for a big crop the coming year and consequently low prices. This gentleman thought, however, that the chances were as yet about evenly balanced. "There has been a considerable drought in southwest Texas already,' said this gentleman, "and it must be remembered that we had two very phe-nomenal crops in succession, putting our ideas up to eight and nine million bales of cotton, when in reality seven to seven and a halt million bales off the same acreage is a good crop. This last year's crop was not so very bad except by comparison with those two large ones, and it is hardly fair to assume that even with a full acreage and a fair crop, the result will exceed about seven and a half million bales, and, if it turns out to be this figure, the price will be all right. It must be kept in mind, though, that in the face of this individual judgment of mine, the cotton men here all seem to incline to the idea of a big crop next year and low prices."
