There is a hitch between the State authorities of Mississippi and Chief Hazen, of the U. S. conditions now changed (sunshine) and crops are being laid by in fair condition, with prospects of fine yield. Some of promised acreage has been turned to other crops. Area 7,500 acres. South Carolina-Reports from all secions note crop in excellent condition having fully recovered from the drought of Spring and early Summer. Although acreage is less than last year, under further favoring conditions promises nearly average quantity. Poor seed used in some localities will certainly lower the standard and may develop weakness in plant and reduce the yield. Area planted, 32,500 acres. Georgia-Growth retarded by dry weather, but under generally lavorable conditions of late crops are developing finely. Reports confirm greatly reduced acreage, but as planters have selected the cream of lands, yield promises twothirds average crop. Area planted 10,000

Louisiana-Planting is practically completed, although not a little is still going on. The latter crops are belated or experimental. In some sections acreage is considerably less than last year, but in the majority the area is said to be quite that taken off in 1892. Wherever less, it has been that lands might rest or to give better care to that under cultivation, hoping for equal, if not larger results. Rains have been frequent, yet the fall is scanty, only sufficient for immediate demands. This causes apprehension among those making "providence crops," and also wherever the reserve supply is light or exhausted. Bearing exceptional instances, early plantings show vigorous growth good stand, clean and free of grass. Later plantings are germinating and growing finely. Area planted, 147,-500 acres.

BUILDING ASSOCIATIONS.

Their Influence on Character-Frugality, Industry and Promptness,

Judge Seymour Dexter, of Pennsylvania, speaking of building associations and their members, says:

"He has a feeling of ownership in the association, and a voice in electing its officers. He soon finds his savings accumulating, and discovers that he has hardly missed them in his weekly expenditures. He is forming four habits - A meeting for young men will which will be important in the effect be held at the Young Men's Christian upon his future welfare-namely, the habits of saving, frugality, industry and promptness.

"If a man of family and without a home, he has learned a practical way to secure one, and his desire is stimulated It inspires hope; not alone in him, but in all his household. They are no longer content to expend all the earnings of the week in paying the bills contracted during the week. As soon as a sufficient sum is accumulated to make up the margin between the purchase price of the home and the sum the association will loan upon the property he can borrow the money and purchase the home, and his dues and interest will but slightly exceed the sum he was paying for rent. The unmarried clerk or artisan has learned a practical mode o accumulating a sum to go into business for himself. The father, already thrilty takes shares for his children, and is enabled to train them to habits of saving more easily than he otherwise could do. The influences which radiate from these associations to a community are eleva ting, and the results which they produce are in a high degree stable in their character. The most society can do for the individual is to give him the opportunity and to show him how to keep himself. "Place in the cities and business centers throughout the State many o these associations, based upon the idea of self help, saving, thrift and home building and home owning, and you have brought to pass a powerful influence for good. A man who is striving to earn, save and pay for a home, or has this accomplished, will be a better man a better artisan or clerk, a better husband and a better citizen. Hubbard, Price & Co's Weekly Letter-Accounts Regarding the Growing Crop. NEW YORK, July 19 .- To write an intelligent review of the market which exists simply as a memory of the trade, is an exceedingly difficult problem, but one that must confront every one who attempts to review even to a limited extent the cotton market during the past week. First and foremost, it must be deliberately stated that there is absolutely no speculation in cotton, based upon the idea that the price is so low that it justifies an investment of capital simply upon the basis of its value. On the other hand it is well to consider, that from the character of the advices received from Europe a large amount of cotton has been sold for forward delivery by exporters in the interior towns and markets which has not been protected by the purchase of contracts either in New York or in Liverpool. With the prospects of the crop, this is an unusual feature of the market at this season of the year, as the method of selling cotton is so simple and only involves the outlay of a cablegram, that it is a temptation for many to resist. American spinners during the past week have been encouraged by the better tone to busi ness which is apparent throughout the country, as a result of the suppression of the disorders in the West, re sulting from the action of the railroad employes. The fact that the Government promptly suppressed what appeared to be on the surface a serious condition of affairs, has had the effect of diverting the minds of people from the losses which they have incurred during the past two years and brought forcibly to their attention the fact that the coun try was still in existence and that it was possible to conduct business and earn a livelihood under present methods of law and order. Very trequently such shock is needed to change the tone of mankind, and to this extent the troubles in the West have been beneficial, although their immediate effect was to de-range all business operations. Accounts regarding the growing cro which are received from the cotton bel are of the most favorable nature, and the wonder of the trade is that their effect has not been more marked upon the values than records show. Scarcely a complaint is heard from any portion of the territory except murmurs regarding lack of rain in Southwestern Texas and too much hot weather in the Atlantic States, and predictions as to the size of the crop are freely made on an ascending scale by those who like to indulge in estimation of the crop on the 19th day of July. At the same time it is well to- note that the price of cotton to-day is pract cally the same as it was in May, and forty points below what it was in the month of February, after passing through a period when all the influences had been to depress values. It is even asserted by many that nothing but the hand of Providence can prevent the crop from reaching a large yield, but somehow the experience of the past years, even including the 9,000,000-bales crop, has been to show that at some time between this date and the marketing of the crop, some accident has happened which has caused those who pased their calculations on an enormous yield on the crop prospects existing this week in July, to regret that they had not waited until later in the season. Doubtless it is the conservatism resulting from all this experience that has prevented the good crop advices from bringing about a sharp break in the value of cotton. Therefore at the moment the situation as it presents itself is that the prospects for trade in this country for the coming year are greatly superior to what they were at this time a year ago, and that the price of cotton is about $4.00 per bale less than in 1893, with a reduction of the visible and invisible supply of cotton as a result of this year's crop. To offset this we are confronted with the possibility of a large yield the ensuing year. The solution of this combination will be found later in the season. It cannot be decided imme-

CANVASSING THE RETURNS

Of the Primary Election for Delegates the Democratic Convention of New Hanover County-A Breezy Time Over the Returns from the Fifth Ward.

The Board of Canvassers for the recent primary election by the Democrats of New Hanover county, consisting of members of the County Executive Committee-Messrs. W. R. Kenan, E. G. The meeting was organized by calling Capt. Kenan to the chair, with Mr. E. G. Parmele secretary.

It was agreed that the returns as canvassed should be signed by Capt. Kenan and Col. Strange.

Col. Strange moved that the returns rom the First Ward be taken up. Mr. Parmeie objected, and moved that some agreement be made as to the matter in the Fifth Ward where only 19 of the 21 delegates were elected, there being a tie on the two remaining delegates. After discussion it was determined to take up the returns from the wards in their regular order, beginning with the First Ward.

The returns as canvassed and signed showed the election of the following delegates:

When the Fifth Ward was reached trouble began. The chairman commenced reading the returns, and when he had reached the vote for the executive committe, Mr. Parmele presented a paper which he demanded should be inserted in the returns at this point.

Messrs. Strange, Oldham and Fowler protested in vigorous language against anything else being considered while the canvass was in progress.

After further discussion the chairman said that he would read the paper and the members of the Reform committee announced that they would withdraw if

Mr. Parmele asked the chair if he would accept the paper and the chair said that he would. Parmele-That settles it.
