VOL. LIV.-NO. 101. WILMINGTON, N. C., TUESDAY, JULY 24, 1894.

LOCAL DOTS

THE COUNTY TICKET.

The full and emphatic expression of public sentiment since Saturday last impels the STAR to express its honest conviction that the ticket as nominated by the County Democratic convention is in great danger of defeat, as it will not receive the united support of the Democratic party. The objections are not to the ticket as a whole, nor do the objections come entirely from those known as Regular Democrats. There is much dissatisfaction all around. It is urged that while some of the nominees are entirely unobjectionable, the ticket as a whole is not a strong one, and that some action should, be taken looking to its reconstruction.

The STAR believes this to be absolutely necessary to complete success; for it is now evident that a part of the ticket is confronted with an opposition that is deep-seated and determined. It is but a fair statement of the situation to say that the disappointment is general, and that many of the Reform Democrats themselves are very much dissatisfied, while some of them say openly they will not support the ticket in its entirety.

There is surely a common ground on which all loyal Democrats (whether known as Regulars or Reformers) can meet and unite on a ticket that will command the support of every true Democrat in New Hanover county.

It will not do to say that the expressions of opposition to a part of the ticket are but the ebullitions of passion, and the natural results of disappointed ambition. To dispel that illusion it is only necessary for one to walk the streets and interview the first hundred Democrats he meets. Ask two hundred business men, casuslly seen, what they think of the ticket, and the result will convince the most sceptical that if the Democrats of New Hanover hope to carry bly do their praying there out of this county in November, they must get together" and present a ticket that will, in its entirety, command the undivided respect and support of the party.

Withdrawal of Capt. Alexander-Its Probable Effect on the Nomination.

The announcement of Hon. S. B. Alexander that he will not stand for renomination in the Sixth Congressional District adds fresh interest to the campaign, and its influences on the chances of the other aspirants will be the subject of much speculation. Especially will this be the case if Mecklenburg should place another strong candidate in the

There can be little doubt that Alexander's withdrawal will add materially to Bellamy's strength in Pender, Brunswick and Columbus. In fact, as the fight now stands, his friends claim that of the 114 votes to which New Hanover, Pender, Branswick and Columbus are entitled in the nominating convention, he will receive not less than 90 on the first ballot, which will be increased to 100 on the second ballot. From the counties of Mecklenburg. Richmond and Robeson they claim at least 40 votes from the start. This would give Bellamy 140 votes, or within 31 votes of the nomination. 171 being the required majority.

Should Adams continue in the field he will receive, on the first ballot, all of Union (37 votes), reinforced by a few votes from Mecklenburg. Lockhart will get Anson (81 votes) and parts of Mecklenburg and Robeson. LeGrand and McNeill will divide Richmond (85 votes). with the preponderance in favor of Le-Grand, and both these candidates will receive some votes from Robeson and Mecklenburg, with possibly a few votes from Columbus for McNeill.

All the indications favor the conclusion that Bellamy will be the leading candidate before the convention, and that his chances, after the first ballot, will be much better than those of any other candidate.

If the Laurinburg base ball team is up to expectations, a good game of ball may be expected this afternoon, and as the xpenses of the visiting team are pretty heavy it is hoped that there will be a good attendance, to encourage teams visiting Wilmington. The Naval Reserves have added to their team to insure a good game on their side. Negotiations are also pending looking o getting the Charlotte team here for Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, when good ball will surely be seen.

If these games prove a financial success the Wilmington boys think that they can get some of the crack clubs here, and by drawing from the best talent in town can put up some good games for our ball lovers to see.

WILMINGTON, N. C., July 23, 1894. To the Public:

The announcement by Hon. A. M. Waddell in the Democratic county conention on Saturday, in connection with the appointment of delegates to the Congressional convention, that it was the ourpose of the delegates in control of the county convention to present my name to the convention at Lumberton for nomination as the Democratic candidate for Congress, was not to me unexpected, for at a caucus of those delegates the night previous this action was agreed upon unanimously.

It is not that I do not appreciate the compliment of this proffered support of political associates that I am led to deline, after reflection, to become a candidate. Their support I cordially appreciate. But it is well known that anoth, gentleman in this county is an active and leading candidate. If at this late day! enter the race, it means a divided support from New Hanover, mutually emparrassing, and productive of party di eord. We have suffered enough to the detriment of party and c unty by similar conditions in the past to make it the duty of every Democrat to avoid a renewal of personal differences that subserve neither individual nor party advantage. More especially is this the case after a local contest, which we have just had, that should be followed by a quick reunion of party strength. I can give no better assurance of my disinterested connection with the recent move ment than to decline, however generously tendered, the proffered support of its accredited representatives. While not without those political aspirations natural to us all, I have no taste to promote them by personal contentions, but prefer to abide the time when they may come without having to divide the support of my own community. As it is, not having before been a candi date, while the gentleman referred to has been prominently before the people for sometime, with an equal support from his county, I consider it my party duty to take the action indicated by this card. In doing so, I desire to express my grateful appreciation of the interest it manifested by friends in my behalf.
