HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

The Number of Miles Travelled by a Typewriter's Hand During Six Hours. Some fellow who had become disgusted with the 34-puzzle, has worked out this for the entertainment of type-

INTERESTING CALCULATION:

"Few people imagine the amount of labor involved in a day's typewriting, or realize the distance the hand travels in that length of time. The highest rate of speed ever attained is 200 words a minute. This is supposed to be the result of the most rapid movement the human hands are capable of. The person making this record maintained this speed for only four consecutive minutes, and has never been able to exceed that Assuming the words averaged six letters apiece, 1,200 letters a minute were written. It is estimated that to make each letter the fingers are raised to a height of two inches from the keyboard, Two inches added (for the descending movement) make the fingers travel four inches before each letter is struck. So this expert's hand in writing these 200 words traveled 4,800 inches, or 400 feet during the minute in which she wrote the 200 words. But this is unusual, of course. Very rapid writing is a speed of seventy-five words a minute, and this rate is too fast for comfort, Practical work is ten pages of legal paper an hour. Each page contains 800 words. Six hours' steady writing can be regarded as an entire day's work. This is a speed offifty words a minute, and the practiced worker writes during the day sixty pages-18,000 words, or 108,-000 letters. If her finger travels four inches to make each letter, during the day it travels 432,000 inches. This provides for the perpendicular movement only, and it is fair to increase this distance by one-third , to estimate the distance the hands travel over the keyboard in a horizontal direction. The total sum in inches is 575,000. This is equivalent to 48,000 feet, or a little over nine miles a day. In a week the hands can cover fifty-four miles and in a year's steady application to business over 2,800

"I am surprised at such a resolution t this late date, when the bicycle is recognized everywhere as a vehicle of practical business utility, as well as pleasure. It is perfectly proper to prohibit riding in the Capitol Square and Monroe Park They are not drive-ways. But in the other parks bicycles should be accorded feet 4 inches; a fall of 5 feet 3 inches in the same privileges as other vehicles:

"Many a man who cannot afford a horse and buggy finds health and recreation on his bicycle. Is it just to prohibit the use of the public parks to him and accord them to his wealthier neighbor? The large majority of wheelmen are very considerate of the rights of others, and they should not be made to suffer for the thoughtlessness or carelessness of a

In ten years' riding I have never hurt a single pedestrian. Regulations as to speed on streets or the carrying of lamps by night and bells in the day would meet with no objection from the 'cyclists, but to prohibit them the use of the parks would certain-

The League of American Wheelmen composed of some thirty thousand members throughout the Union, has tested this very matter of wheelmen's rights to the highways in numberless cases, and the highest courts all over the United States have repeatedly decided that the bicvcle is a vehicle, and as such is enitled to all the privileges of other ve-

Summer Necessity,

Justice Crutchfield yesterday morning decided the much mooted Sunday ice question, says the Richmond Times, and has won the gratitude of hosts of hot babies, sick people, and sweltering numanity of Richmond generally. The Justice had looked carefully an horoughly into the legal side of the matter during the past several days. So when the cases of Edward Powell, Andrew Bray, and Trice & Co., all of whom were reported for having sold ice last Sunday, were brought before him yes-terday morning, His Honor discharged the dealers, saying that in his opinion ice was a necessity in the summer time, and he would therefore discharge any and all persons brought to the Police Court for selling it.

SERVING TOMATOES.

Now that tomatoes are becoming large and finer, browned tomatoes will be found very appetizing. Take large round tomatoes and halve them; place them, the skin down, in a frying pan, to which a very small quantity of butter and lard been previously melted; sprinkle them with salt and pepper and dredge well with flour. Place the pan on the hot part of the fire and let them brown thoroughly; then stir and brown again, and so on until they are quite done. They lose their acidity and their flavor is superior to stewed tomatoes. A delicious tomato salad is made by dipping rather small, even-sized tomatoes in scalding water, removing the outer skin immediately and placing them whole on ice. Then make a mayonnaise, and when the tomatoes are perfectly cold.

It has always been the custom to sell eggs by the dozen, but only custom can be given as a reason for the practice. There is no justice in paying as much for 12 small eggs as for 12 large ones, and the injustice would seem very clear if we had not become habituated to it Common sense is at last coming to the rescue, and a movement is making headway which proposes to substitute the pound for the dozen as the unit of measrement. The new system will be faire all round. Eight Plymouth Rock eggs will weigh a pound, while 10 or 12 Brown or White Leghorns are required to turn

CAPE FEAR BAR. The Depth of Water Sufficient for the

ing the Telegraphed Statement from

The statement in the press dispatch rom Washington, D. C., (published in the STAR) that the U.S. cruiser Montomery had been ordered to Southport nstead of the Raleigh, because the draft of the latter was greater than the depth of water on the bar at the mouth of the Cape Fear river, occasioned no little comment yesterday from persons who are well informed as to the condition of the river and harbor, and the depth of water on the bar. Capt. Jos. Price, harbor master, in a note to the STAR, acquaintances of the family are invited to attend.

FARRIOR—On Thursday night, Augusi 9th, in Kenansville, at the fesidence of her mother, Mrs. Mary Farrior, Miss HETTIE A. FARRIOR, departed this life after a short illness.

She was a consistent and active member of the Presbyterian Church at this place. Her place will be hard to fill in the church and social circle. She will be sadly missed by the poor of this community to whom she always lent a helping hand. It was a pleasure to her to administer to the sick and those is need. She leaves a mother, several brothers and sisters to mourn her loss as well as a large circle of friends. Obedient to the commands of a bleeding Savior she died under the inspiring hopes and faith of a heavenly inheritance. Her remains were followed to the grave by a very large concourse of weeping relatives, neighbors and friends to await the resurrection mourn. Till then ye codars that adorn her tomb wave gently, and ye morning winds wave softly over To correct the impression of the Naval authorities at Washington that the depth of water on our bar is not sufficiet for an eighteen-feet ship, I will state that the Norwegian barque Anna went to sea on the 21st of May last drawing nineteen feet four inches. There was considerable sea on the bar at the time. J. PRICE, Harbor Master.

To the above, the STAR would add this: The soundings of the pilots show 21 feet 5 inches on the bar at high tide, and the channel is known to be the straightest on the Atlantic coast. If then, the cruiser Raleigh draws but 18 feet (as is understood), she could cross Cape Fear bar at high tide with three feet of water to spare.

But is it a fact thet the order of the naval authorities to send the Raleigh to Southport was countermanded because "it was found that her draft was greater than the depth of water over the bar?" That is what is stated in the Associted Press dispatch from Washington printed yesterday; but, on the 6th, it was telegraphed that the order sending the Raleigh was countermanded, "owing to the necessity of completing the vessel;" and. again, on the 7th, it was telegraphed that the cruiser Montgomery would probably be sent "instead of using the Raleigh, which is not yet completed."

So, it is clear that the failure of the Raleigh to come is not because she cannot cross our bar, but because she is "not completed," and the Government wishes to have her in commission for foreign service at the earliest possible moment.
