HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

FRIED SQUASH, Cut a crook-neck squash in slices and soak them in cold salted water one hour. Wipe them dry, dip them in batter and fry brown in a little butter, or dip them in egg, roll in fine bread crumbs and fry in boiling hot fat.

PICKLED CAULIFLOWER. Very small and imperfect heads can be used for this purpose. Take six small ones and cut them up. Take also one pint of small white onions and two small red peppers. Dissolve a cup of salt in one quart of hot water and pour over the cauliflower, draining off the next morning. Boil two quarts of vine-gar with three tablespoonfuls of mustard seed; add the vegetables and boil half an

Turn them out on a sieve before the fire. sprinkle with Nepaul pepper, the grated peel of a lemon, a grate of nutmeg, and, lastly, a sprinkling of lemon juice. Lay them rather thickly on nicely cut pieces of fried bread, sprinkle over the top some lobster coral and surround with a border of chopped green parsley. Serve on a dish neatly papered.

PINEAPPLE PIE. Prepare the pineapple, chopped fine or grated, and otherwise made ready for a compote. Have a shell of nice pastry spread with a little apple sauce-just enough to glaze the crust. Fill the pie plate with pineapple and orange, strips of pastry across. Bake the pie about 45 minutes in an oven quite hot for the first fifteen minutes and a very little more moderate for the last half hour. When the pie is removed from the oven dredge it with powdered sugar and set it back in the oven just long enough to allow the sugar to melt. Serve ice cold,

GOOD FOR WILMINGTON.

The River and Harbor Bill Safe-Likewise the Quarantine Appropriation. The announcement that the River and Harbor bill practically became a law yesterday, is good news for Wilmington. The annexed paragraph, which appeared STAR yesterday, explains the matter: "The River and Harbor bill is practically a law, inasmuch as it cannot now be returned to the House, in which it originated, with a veto within the requisite ten days, which expires to-morrow. as the House of Representatives has adjourned until Monday." It will be recalled that an impression

President might veto the bill (though Senator Ransom does not seem to have thought so); but it seems that the bill is now a law, whatever the President - Brig Richard T. Green cleared | may do The STAR rejoices that this is the case, as it secures for the Cape Fear river improvements a very large sam. It is especially gratifying, too, that in the conference report on the Sundry Civil bill the item of $25,000 for a quarantine station at Southport was retained. It will be remembered that the House objected to this, among other items, in the Senate bill, and a conference was ordered with the result mentioned

This is a matter of vital importance to Wilmington.

The Naval Reserves Keep Up a Lively Racket Afloat and Ashore-Fat and Saucy and Enjoying Hard Work-Borubbing Decks and Working the ashes and wheel them to the dock worked manfully and when through the long and tiresome job were black as negroes and tired out. Last night Southport was alive again and never before have we seen so many ladies on the garrison since the cruise began. Several ladies and gentlemen visited the ship, as it is now easier to board, and were shown around through every department. Music, both vocal and instrumental, was had on shore and every Southport girl and Naval Reserve seemed to have had a big time.

[Special Star Correspondence.] ON BOARD NANTUCKET, Aug. 18. Yesterday afternoon the boys who voluntarily offered their services to hoist

A gale came up about 12 o'clock and rain poured down furiously, soaking a number of sleeping beauties. The officers called all hands to place side awnings, which was heroically responded to by two-thirds of each Division who worked about two hours in a hard pouring rain. The boys, after drying their clothes, spent a sleepful and quiet night with the exception of a little life and fun by the tin-pan brigade.

The night whistlers put in some pretty good work until Hodges was yanked out of his hammock by Lieut. Morton. It was found out for the first time since the cruise began that the Brigadier-General was not the man who captained all the rascality, therefore he stands vindicated. The seventh day of the North Carolina Naval Reserves' cruise opened under glowing auspices. The boys were fresh, and ready to do number one service at the guns on board the Montgomery. They are fat, saucy, and enjoy hard work. The morning began by the boys scrubbing the decks, as usual, and the decks are now scoured and are clean, in the telegraphic department of the presenting the appearance of a parlor. It is the pride of every Naval Reserve on board, and brings praise from the officers to do their full duty. After an elegant breakfast, the mess divisions reported on deck and were given a couple of hours of liberty. At ten o'clock all hands were called to fall in, and embarked in their small boats for the has prevailed to some extent that the warship Montgomery, where the boys in vesterday, his uniform being the only their usual merry way worked hard all clean suit aboard. So he was properly day manning the heavy guns and receiving instructions from the officers of the ship, which were entertaining and instructive. It was enjoyed and listened to attentively by all the divisions. Lieut. Commander Morton is receiving praise from the boys on every side for the kind and clever way in which he gives his commands to the seamen. He also allows the boys as much liberty privileges and shore leaves as he can consistently. Lieut, Barnard is military-like in every respect and shows the Naval Academy training of several years ago.

The crews which manned the guns on the Montgomery were selected as follows: First division-Mason, Veno, N. C. White, McCracken, Stone, Bray, Fesperman, Pickler.

Second division-S. W. Merrell, Harry Burr, Fred Burr, T. C. DeRosset, Anlow, ranging from 5 to twenty cents. son King, John Robinson, James Williams and James M. Ward. Fourth division-Hartsfield, Hill, Baugart, Richardson, Caraway, Salter, Lovick and Lane. The following crew was selected to race the crew from the Colfax and the Montgomery this evening: Hill and Daniel, of Newbern, Hodges, Williams, Prempert, H. A. Burr and coxswain De-Rosset, of Wilmington. It is a strong crew, and expects to win. The boys wish to thank Paymaster Latimer for a treat of twenty juicy, red watermelons. Some of the boys who thought they were coming on a pic-nic have returned home; they can't stand salt water and good eating. The gun crews which went over to the Montgomery this morning made surprisingly good shots, striking the target, which was an old wrecked ship, about six hun-still bring tears to his eyes. While Ward was out walking with his girl last night an accident happened. She wore a hat pin with a little fancy arrangement at the end which he took for a spider and struck it six times, disarranging her hair and breaking her new hat before she could explain. Wasn't he a Jonah? The boys are teasing him to death. The girl didn't know what he meant until she had run about twelve

He sat and talked with her about a half pay a visit to our city. Hope you will hour, addressing her as Miss Salt before grant permission he found out his mistake. He is not quite so fresh after his brining.

There will be a race on Monday afternoon between the gigs of the Montgomery, Colfax and Nantucket.

The tin-pan brigade is "raisin' cain. Caterer Hinton is generally the loser. "Tobe," the Newbern mu-ical phenomena, gave a concert on Garrison Green last night, and this morning several more shekels jingle in his clothes.

Hankins, Ward and Howard, being shore on leave of absence, had the pleasure of meeting some very pretty young ladies. A promenade of course followed, which wound up in a flower raid on several front-yards, but the old folks' eyes were open and the couples had to make themselves scarce.

Ward, while trying to catch crabs with chain hook sitting on hawsers, was dropped overboard in his best suit of clothes, and to satisfy his wishes a nice large crab was found in his hammock long before he went to sleep.

Freeman has completely worn out the bottom of his "shoes" going up and down to the refreshment room. He had only one pair, so he has to wear nature's own.

Shankhigh Hankins lost his comb and brush for the first time, and his hair was draped in crape, each hair standing out in the procession.

Did anybody get wet last night? No; but they were baptised head, ears and all. In the scuffle to secure dry places Fred Burr fell through one of the deadlights on Bob Bray, who was sleeping below. Bob thought the powder magazine had exploded and could be found on deck in four and a half seconds, all aglow with fright.

Frank Newsome reported for duty given the first degree by the tin-pan brigade, each member enjoying the pleasure of seeing Frank swab out the deadlight, and smear his beautiful snowwhite suit.

Joe Hinton, while sleeping peacefully on deck, was tied fast to his cot and his face blacked. The boys say they wanted him to take one more good bath. Joe was a daisy.

Albert Prempert, known as "George Howling," has not recovered from his sad misfortune yet; he is still grieving about that letter that he sent to sea. Billy Salter, the ugliest clerk in the magnificent establishment of John Dunn, Newbern, general confectioner, loves to have his name in the paper. Those crazy fellows in the Fourth division, all have blistered hands to-daywe all rejoice. Graceful Harris Lane, the son of that genial gentleman, Sheriff Lane, of Craven county, was terribly distressed when he came out of the ash-pit yesterday, for fear that his best girl would not know him when he gets back home-for he hasn't washed his face since he has been on board, as he is afraid the salt-water will hurt his complexion. Jack Scott, the clever second engineer, is far ahead of the other Reserves in his mash-making schemes, which takes with the girls. There being no stables in the town, Scott, in his usual genial way, obtained a wheel-barrow from the Nantucket's officers and treated his "best with what the boys term a moonlight street ride, with "Jack" at the throttle. Bangert, of Newbern, smokes his pipe all day and mourns his bitter fate. Nick Bray, of the Fourth Division, has a chill every morning when the call sounds to scrub decks.

H. J. Lovick, the sporty seaman of the Newbern division, dons his white flannels and makes mashes upon the reservation. He has our sympathy, in that his clothes fit so loosely. He fears that when the home people see him he will be taken for "Squib Moore," the "mite" of the Fourth.

Those affectionate and staid cousins, Dan and Bert Roberts, have fallen in love with one of the beautiful lilies residing at this delightful quiet summer home, 'Tis amusing to watch these cousinly rivals fighting, each to distance the other in their little "affairs de cour."

Lt. Roberts, the handsome and graceful Lieutenant in command of the Newbern division, is the hero of the battalion officers with the ladies; he is "rushed" to death, and the heart of that beautiful "girl he left behind him" in the "City of Elms" has need indeed to be
