their editorials and the ads. Hiram S.' Thomas, a boss colored waiter of New York, who is said to "Hattery." be worth $200,000, has caused a flurry in Brooklyn by going into a tony part of the town and buying a residence. The bon-ton white folks don't want him in that bailiwick, and they don't know how to keep him out. The property owners are trying to buy the house from him, but he will not sell unless they pay him a big profit on what the house cost The theatre-hisser has been sustained by a New York Judge, who has decided that the man who pays his admission fee has as much right to hiss a performance which he doesn't like as others have to pound the floor and applaud. That Judge would also hold, no doubt, that one man would have just as much right to throw a cabbage or a bunch of onions as another has to throw an armful of flowers. Mathan Straus, who has been nominated for Mayor of New York by Tammany, is the philanthropist who has established those coal, milk and cheap food stations in that city, which have enabled so many poor people to get the necessaries of life at a price that they could afford to pay. The poor of the city will doubtlhss show their appreciation of his benevolence by giving him a rousing vote for the office which he did not seek. He is not only benevolent but is a man of fine ability.
