That Checker Contest, Referring to the series of games now in progress at Asheville between Mr. H. C. McNair and Mr. John A. Murdoch for the checker championship of North Carolina, the Citizen reproduces what the STAR said about Mr. McNair and the rabbit foot, and adds:

"John A. Murdoch, who is to play Mr. McNair, has no rabbit foot, but for years has carried three rings from a raccoon's tail, and what he will do for the rabbit foot will 'be a plenty.' Then, this is the issue: Can the left hind foot of a graveyard rabbit beat three rings from a raccoon's tail? Well, the STAR is content with that; but we positively protest against the introduction of even "a hair of the hide" of Vanderbilt's

P. S .- There is a rumor here that out of four games thus far played Murdoch has won three. If the report is true, it is evident some sharp Asheville real estate broker has traded McNair an eligible town lot for that rabbit toot.

Mr. Merritt W. Dixon returned yesterday from New York, says the Savannah News, where he has been for some time on business, and incidentally be has been giving much attention to the condition of the lumber markets.

Mr. Dixon said yesterday that the prospect for the lumber business this season was quite encouraging. Especially were large orders expected from railroads in almost all sections of the country. Many of the roads have let their rolling stock run down until much of it is in such condition that repairs are absolutely necessary. Orders for this purpose, he said, are constantly being filled, and while prices have not materially advanced, the mills have a good Dream." was indeed most comical and many orders to fill, and they are almost all quite busy. Newspaper Thieves. It is a fact beyond dispute that newspaper thieves follow the carriers of the STAR (on Sunday especially) and steal many of the papers soon after they are left for city subscribers. It will be easy to capture and punish some of these thieves if these to whom they offer to sell papers will assist in the work. When they attempt to sell a paper without the words "For Transient Sale" stamped on the margin, it may be taken as almost conclusive evidence that the paper has been stolen. Of course, if people will continue to buy the unstamped papers the thieves will continue their wo k.

Their Performance in Newbern Christmes Night, and What Was Thought

The Newbern Journal gave the following notice of the performance of the Wilmington boys in that city: The Wilmington Minstrel Troupe, consisting of about thirty of Wilmington's clever young men, arrived on the 19 o'clock train of the W., N. & N. road Tuesday (Christmas day). A number of the Newbern boys met them at the depot and escorted them to Hotel Albert, where, after about five minutes recess. they assembled by bugle call for the street parade.

THE PLAY AT NIGHT. Considering the several engagements at the different churches, etc., they had a very good house-most of the seats on the lower floor being filled. The stage setting was very pretty, and Mr. Robert W Vincent took his part as interlocutor most admirably.

The first part opened with chorus "Carolina," and consisted of solos and witty hits by the end men, all receiving loud applause. The second part opened with a one-act farce entitled "Who Stole dat Ham," by Messrs. Croom and Marshall.

The cornet solo by Mr. Robt. Wes cott was very highly rendered, and being called back, he gave the audience the naval bugle call. He was encored Mr. Henry Newman, the comedian

Mr. Henry Angel was good, both on the end and in his impersonation of the ante-bellum darkey. His singing was one of the features of the show, he hav ing thoroughly mastered the negro dialect. Mr. Johnson Graham, with Mr. Angel, we think needs mention for his very clever end work—familiarly known as "Coxey,"—he was indeed a veritable "Coxey," tho' in black face. Messrs, John Marshall and Henry Howard made a very clever hit as "Parson Johnson and Parson Jones"-a clever pair, The tableau, "The Soldier's Dream, was one of the most beautiful specialties that we have ever seen from amateur or professional, and this feature reflects credit upon Ensign Morrison, ot the Wilmington Division, who originated and perfected it for the minstrels.

Messis Marshall and Croom, youngsters in their teens, gave a tumbling performance that was remarkably good-as fine as any we ever saw by amateurs, old or voung. . The closing feature, "The Darky's carried the audience away loud in their praises of the performance. THE BANQUET. After the performance the minstrels were tendered a "Light" Banquet by the Newbern Reserves at the old Newbern engine house. The room was hand-

The Weather-Low Temperature-A Trace of Snow.

The Bureau's predictions of a decided fall in temperature have been fully verified. The mercury yesterday from a maximum of 33° fell by 8 p. m. to 25°, and continued to fall through the night. Mr. Graham, observer at the station here, was of opinion last evening that the minimum this morning would be 16 degrees above zero. The northwest storm signals were hoisted at this station last evening in anticipation of a gale during the night or early morning. There was a slight fall of snow yesterday forenoon, and again late in the afternoon. Inspection Naval Reserves.

THE COTTON TRADE

Hubbard's Weekly Report on Conditions Affecting the Market.

NEW YORK, December 27 .- With the approach of the New Year the tendency on the part of all interested in the market has been to await the movement of January, with as small an interest in the market as possible, as this season of the year is always a critical time in the movement of the market. On one hand is advanced the theory that the price has already discounted a 9,500 000 bale crop. and with the knowledge that in all human probability the acreage for the coming year will be largely reduced, and that the use of fertilizers will be greatly curtailed, while on the other hand it is stated that the lack of speculation in all commodities in America and the fact that by the 1st of January there will be 6,900,000 bales of American cotton in sight, which, added to the visible supply on the 1st of September will furnish 8-500 000 bales for the consumption of the world during the year, leaving the remaining portion of the crop as yet un-marketed, to be carried over as a surplus either in the visible or invisible supply

These are the lines of thought which pass through the minds of members of the cotton trade as they consider the question of the fluctuations of the market for the coming year, and either of these propositions at the momer t seems to be of sufficient weight to bring about a sudden change in values, and it will probably be left to the question of trade conditions to decide whether the falling off in the last week of December is only a spasmodic interruption of the marketing of the crop, or is brought about by exhaustion of the supply. Were it not for the present trade conditions in America, where the prices of all commodities are ranging upon an extremely low level, we believe that the cotton trade would be disposed to anticipate a sharp advance as the result of the efforts which will undoubtedly be made to restrict the planting operations in the Spring, but those who think well of cotton are confronted with the fact that all other articles are similarly cheap, and that there appears in no line any anxiety to anticipate the future wants of con sumers. It is this feature which discourages the holders of cotton as they otherwise would consider the crop as having been discounted in the prices at present current. On the other hand, there is undoubtedly a slowly increasing demand on the part of many not connected with the cotton trade to invest in cotton. At the present time this demand, with no pressure to anticipate any further decline, causes steady markets and improved prices. It is felt that throughout the country there is a slow improvement creased railway earnings of all sections of the country east of the Mississippi river, but as yet this improvement in business has not led merchants to anticipate any advance in the prices of the commodities which they handle, and is considered by all as simply pointing to the slow but constant improvement in the conditions of trade. It has been this feature of the situation upon which the basis of the demand for cotton by those not directly connected with the trade rests, and the strength of this demand will be tested should the movement during lanuary increase to the proportions anticipated by close o'servers, as up to this time the spinners of the world have time is only 100,000 bales in excess of what it was last year, in spite of the fact that 1.250 000 more bales of cotton had appeared up to last week than in 1893,

ALWAYS IN THE LEAD.

The A lantic Coast Line to Put on Five New Wind-Burners The Atlantic Coast Line system, says the News and Courier, has a reputation or fast running, and in order to sustain t the management of the road always keeps its equipment supplied with every modern improvement. When the heavy Winter travel begins the Coast Line will put into service five new engines which t has recently ordered. It is believed that these engines are the fastest railroad locomotives in the South, and that they will be able to carry the Coast Line patrons from the North to the South at the rate of sixty miles an hour without trouble. The new engines were ordered in November and are ready for delivery to the company.

General Manager J. R Kenly, of the Atlantic Coast Line system, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Kenly came down to Charleston in his private car and spent the day attending to business for his road. He returned to Wilmington in the atternoon.
