THE COLD WAVE.

What is Said About It by Cotton Men in Eogland.

Messrs. Beer, Cowell & Co., of Liverpool, in a circular dated December 12, "Our market continues to suffer from Neill's buge crop estimate of 10.250:000 bales, which seems to receive confirmation from the heavy movement, and upon which Manchester buys only from hand to mouth; so strong is the feeling that lower prices will prevail for this and the next crop that there are free and large sellers of cotton for 1895-96, before a single plow has been put in the ground."

"The price now ruling, 8 8-16d for cents on plantations. We call your attention to these figures because we believe that if ever there has been a chance to profit by buying any commodity so far as twelve months ahead without having to pay storage or interest charges, cotton now affords that opportunity." "It looks to us as though the South would buy all these new crops at the prices established (4%c.) for them by Manchester and the Liverpool speculators, instead of planting the next crop, if the theory is correct that the above quotations are below the cost of production. The quantity of these new crops sold daily would seem to indicate a strong belief on the part of the seilers that cotton cannot be raised much under ruling prices-41/2c on plantations,

Charleston Truckers Liked It. Whatever may be the opinion of the people who dodged about the city in a vain effort to keep warm and comfortable yesterday, says the News and Courier, muffled in Winter wraps and scurrying around corners to avoid the teeth of the biting wind, from the truck farmers' standpoint the freeze has been a Godsend. Two weeks more of the balmy weather that the Farmer has been giving the public for the last month would have brought the early strawberry crop to a point at which it would have fallen an easy and a sure prey to the first me andering cold snap which might have chanced to come this way. Such a catastrophe would have been a heavy blow to the trucking interest of Charleston, but as matters have fallen out this freeze came in the very nick of time to retard without destroying the plants, and thus it came to pass while ordinary mortals were flapping their arms and stamping their feet to keep their blood in comfortable circulation yesterday the vegetable men held a high carnival of satisfaction, even while their teeth chattered and their limbs shivered. They say that the freeze was just the one thing of all others that they wanted, and they would not it for many dollars.

French Produced His Gun.

Friday night about 11 o'clock as Mr. William French entered the yard of his father, Mr. W. A. French, Sr., near the corner of Dock and Fourth streets, he saw a colored man in the back yard and asked who he was. Receiving no reply, he went into the house, secured a pistol and went out on the rear piazza. Seeing the fellow still in the yard Mr. French again accosted him and asked what he was in the yard for. The negro replied with an oath, whereupon Mr. French fired a shot at him and repeated the performance as the negro fled to the rear fence over which he vaulted, apparently unburt. There is an electric light at the intersection of Dock and Fourth streets, but the man was in the shadow of the buildings when he took "French leave," and it was impossible to "draw a bead" on him.

Died From Her Injuries.

Many friends of Mr. G. B. N. Hudson, one of the workshop employes of the A. C. L, will learn with regret that his little six year-old daughter, Mamie Claudie, who was severely burned Friday afternoon last, died yesterday morning of her injuries. Her clothing caught on fire from contact with a redhot stove as she passed it. Two physicians were in attendance upon her from the time of the accident until her death, but her injuries were too severe for recovery. Savannah Naval Reserves.

It is announced that the Savannah Naval Reserves have "given up the ghost." The division organized with about 40 men, who were enthusiastic in the work before them, but after some trouble about the uniforms and the regulations which could not be properly adjusted it was compelled to disband. This is to be regretted; but it should not be discouraging to the North Carolina Reserves, who have the most efficient organization in the South. The Clubbing System.

The Charlotte Observer has some good observations on the "clubbing" system which has been adopted by some of the North Carolina weeklies. Here is an important result of this foolishness not referred to by the Observer: When a "club" subscriber gets the N. Y. World or the N. Y. Newspaper Thieves. It is a fact beyond dispute that newspaper thieves follow the carriers of the STAR (in Sunday especially) and steal many of the papers soon after they are left for city subscribers. It will be easy to capture and punish some of these thieves if those to whom they offer to sell papers will assist in the work. When they attempt to sell a paper without the words 'For Transient Sale" stamped on the margin, it may be taken as almost conclusive evidence that the paper has been stolen. the unstamped papers the thieves will continue their wo k.

Christmas Decorations at St. Thomas

As usual, the decorations at St. Thomas' Church are on a scale suitable to the season. The "Star of Bethlehem" s represented by electric lights, the work of Mr. J. W. Rielly. It is placed immediately over the tabernacle, and bamboo vines are arranged so defuly among the globes that only the light appears, and a very fine effect is produced. Mr. Rheder had charge of the decorations and has displayed very good taste. There will be Vespers this evening at 7.45, when these decorations can be seen.

Great Growth of the Industry-The Number of Mills Has Increased in Fourteen Years from 180 to 405-The Capital Invested Increased from $21,000,000 to $97.000,000.

Slowly but surely the belief is growing, says the Savannah News, that the South is to be the cotton manufacturing section of this country. The great cotton mill owners of New England are finding it necessary to establish cotton mill plants in the South in order to hold their trade, and the Southern people, as they accumulate surplus wealth, are putting money into cotton mills. The announcement was made the other day that two of the strongest cotton mill companies in Massachusetts had decided to build large mills in the South to cost about $600,000.

ducement for the building of other cot-ton mil's, because all of the well managed mills pay a good interest on the money invested in them. The reason of this is that the cost of manufacturing in the South is less than in the North. Cotton costs less and labor is cheaper. For a long time it was thought that satisfactory labor could not be obtained in the South. It is now well understood that as skillful operatives can be made out of the labor to be obtained in the South as there are to be found in the New England States, and, besides, many operatives from the New England mills are seeking homes in the South. They like the Southern climate and find the labor conditions more satisfactory. Southern operatives are becoming better all the time, and it will not be long before the manufacture of the finer grades of goods will be undertaken. While the progress of the cotton industry in the South was slow for years after the war, owing to the lack of capital and the unsettled state of political affairs, it has not been slow within the last ten years. Fourteen years ago the whole South had only 180 cotton mills, with 600 000 spindles, 14 300 looms and a total cepital of $21,000,000. A careful inquiry made six months ago showed that there were 405 mills in the Southern States with 2,700,000 spindles and 62,000 looms and a total capital of $97 000 000. It is stated that besides the foregoing there are 20 new mills under construction that will require an outlay of $6 000 000 and will add 285 000 spindles and 6 000 looms to those already in operation. Surely this is a showing that justifies the South in expecting the time is near at hand when she would manufacture the greater part of her cotton crop. There has been a large and steady increase in the South's consumption of cotion. Fourteen years ago the Southern mills consumed only about onefourth as much as those of New England. half as much.

Each cotton mill that is built is an in-

The South produces fully 60 per cent. of the cotton of the world, and there is no good reason why she should not manufacture at least a third of the cotton goods consumed in the world. Her cotton, when manufactured, is worth about three times as much as it is in the raw state. A great part of the hundreds of millions of dollars annually that is added to the value of her raw material in the mills of New England and Europe could be kept at home, and the South would become the richest and most prosperous part of the world.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

APPLE PIE. Make your pie as usual, adding your spice and a little salt, and then bake. Put your sugar in a tin and water enough to make a syrup; let it cook, and when you take your pie from the oven insert a small funnel in the pie and pour in the syrup hot, and you have a moist, finely-seasoned pie, without any juice in LEMON PIE.-Grate the rind of one lemon (or if you prefer, chop it verv fine), take the juice and pulp, add one cup of white sugar, piece of butter the size of a nutmeg, yolks of three eggs (well beaten), and two thirds of a cup of sweet milk, and one tablespoonful of flour; bake as a custard pie. HOW TO COOK CRANBERRIES .-

Wash one quart of cranberries and put them in a covered saucepan with one pint of water. Let them simmer until each cranberry bursts open; remove the cover and add one pound of sugar and let them boil twenty minutes uncovered. The cranberries must never be stirred from the time they are placed on the Follow this recipe ex ctly and you will have a most delicious preparations of cranberries.

After having remained closed during the entire month of December, the Opera House will begin the latter part of the present season, 1894-'95, on next Wednesday evening, January 2nd, 1895, with a superb production of minstrelsy by the ever popular "Gorton's Original New Orleans Minstrels." This company played here last season, and the STAR of December 80th, 1893, had this to say of the performance the evening previous:

The minstrel performance given at the Opera House last night by Gorton's Minstrels was greeted by one of the largest audiences of the season, who were amply repaid for their attendance with an evening of real enjoyment in solid laughter. The performance was one that every one could enjoy. It was rich with fun of the most refined character from beginning to end, sandwiched with excellent music, both vocal and instrumental.

The troupe is a strong one throughout and the specialties were exceptional. Many of the specialties were heartily encored, and hearty laughter and applause were almost dealening at many times during the evening's entertainment. New Year Ball. Howard Relief Social Club will give their New Year's ball at Adrian Hall to-morrow night. At midnight supper will be served under the supervision of Mrs. P. N. Fick. The old year will be
