Mr. Heide for years past has been Vice Consul in this city for Denmark. Norway and Sweden. He was born in Denmark in 1832; was the oldest of five brothers, all but one of whom, the second brother, an officer in the Danish army who was killed in the war with Prussia, emigrated to this country. Their father was a nobleman, Baron Von Heide, and he also was killed while fighting for his king and country. The title and the estates descended to the oldest son. In 1853, when but 21 years of age, Baron Von Heide renounced his title and came to the United States. He landed in New York in 1853; in 1854 he came to Wilmington and in 1855 he went to Fayetteville, where the opening of the war found him. He warmly espoused the cause of the South and as a member of the Fayetteville Light Infantry, in the First N. C. regiment, he was present at the battle of Bethel. He was afterwards in the Confederate service with Col, Lamb at Fort Fisher, where he did true and effective service. He returned to Fayetteville at the close of the war but soon after removed to Wilmington and engaged in the grocery and commission business here. He was a member of St. John's church and had been for many years, and was also a member of the Royal Arcanum and the American Legion of Honor.

Mr. Heide married in Fayetteville, and his wife died in this city about three years ago. He leaves five children, two sons and three daughters, the latter all married. But one of his children, his youngest son, George, remains in Wilmington. His surviving brothers are Mr. Henry Heide, a former officer in the Danish army, who now resides in New York; Mr. Christian H. Heide. a truck farmer near the city, and Mr. Alex. S. Heide, a merchant in business

The funeral services will take place at 10 o'clock this morning from St. John's church and the interment will be in Oakdale by the side or his wife.

RALEIGH, N. C., June 13.

The body of Walter Fowler, an emloye of the Raleigh Cotton Mills, was found this morning about nine o'clock in Devereux branch, near the city limits. The body was lying in only three inches of water, and was discovered by young boys, who were in the meadow throwing stones at birds. The last seen of Fowler was yesterday about ten o'clock, when he was then on his way to the branch. The prevailing theory as to the manner of his death and the probable one is, that Fowler while standng near the water must have been seized with a fit or an attack of vertigo and fell over in the stream. There are no evidences of foul play, and he could not have been drowned in three inches of water unless he was unconscious at the time. No inquest was held. It has been ascertained that he was on a spree the day before. He also complained of pain in his head before leaving for the scene of his death.

A squad of thirty or forty convicts will be sent to Rocky Mount in a few days to construct a dam in that place. It is said that the ordinance recently passed by the Board of Aldermen taxing countrymen and venders of farm and garden products for the privilege of selling their goods on the four streets around the market, is unconstitutional and in opposition to the laws of the
