FOOT BALL.

Same Thursday Between Wilmington' Eleven and the North Carolina University Team-Score, Wilmington Eight, Uni-

Versity Pour. Wiimington has suddenly blossomed forth from a mere nonentity in foot ball affairs to a star of the first magnitude. The team that she put in the field last Thursday would have done credit to any foot ball community, North or South. None of the foot ball experts in the city were astonished at the result. In fact, the players from the University were clearly outclassed. Men like Daniels, Harper, Hatch and McKoy are not picked up every day. The University players succeeded in holding their opponents, wonderfully well, considering everything, but were not even the best material that the University could furnish and when they lined up against the Wilmington team, composed of as good individual players as exists in the South to-day, they must have felt that they represented a lost cause, and the hard work that they did and the bonest square foot ball that they played redounds to their credit and they should feel that even if they did not win they fought for all they were worth.

At no time in the game was the result in doubt, the Wilmington boys seeming to "go through" where and when they

It is unnecessary to say anything regarding the playing of Harper and Daniels; their reputation as foot ball players was made long ago, and the result of a scrub game could hardly increase their laurels; but there are other and younger men who desire special credit. Hatch, especially, played the game of his life-he never failed to make a gain when called on and what is still more important, in a foot ball player, after a scrimmage when he was hauled out from the bottom, he had no broken bones or complaints, but lay there with a serene smile and the ball tightly hugged to his bosom.

To the ordinary observer foot ball appears to be a mere rough and tumble fight, but it is not. As soon as the ball is in play every man knows what he proper foot ball "sand," he does it. That is where the work of an "end" comes in. His position is not a showy one; few people see the work he does. His business is generally to break up the interference and give the backs a chance to tackle the runner. It takes a good deal of pluck sometimes to do this. When one smashes into three it is his house in Mr. J. Hal, Boatwright's pretty hard to tell what is going to happen, but the ends on the Wilmington team did it with few exceptions. The line proper was impregnable, the only touch-down made by the University being around Wilmington's left end-Sawyer's tackling was hard and low. Sawver's tacking was hard and low: Southerland carried the ball by heavy plunging into the opposing line, while the blocking of King, Savage, McKoy and Holland was excellent.

Officials - Umpires, Mr. Bellamy; Lieut. Hasson; referee, Mr. Belden; linesman, Mr. Merrill.

THE GAME, Promptly at 8 p. m. Referee Belden called the game. Captain McKoy, of Wilmington, won the toss and chose the northern goal. Williams, of University, kicked off. Harper caught the ball, raced for twenty-five yards, and Wilmington, by successive rushes, carried the ball to the University's ten-yard line, where Daniels, by a run around the right end. scored a touch-down, and on a "punt out" failed at goal. MURDER OF J. B. BONNER.

The Work of an Organized Gang-Confession of One of the Murderers. Late news from Aurora, N. C., where . B. Bonner, its most prominent resident, was murdered Saturday night, is that suspicion fell upon William Brantley and David Credle, and they were apprehended and guarded separately, no communication being allowed. Credle confessed that he was present when Bonner was murdered; that W. C Brantley did the shooting; that Uriah Bell and Sherrard Bell, the latter only 16, were also present; that there was a band of robbers, to plunder stores and people, and to murder if necessary; that E. F. Cherry and Alex Hudnell, merchants, were also to be murdered. Credle also confessed that they met Bonner face to face; that Brantley spoke to him pleasantly, then knocked him down on the sidewalk; that Bonner pleaded for his life, promising not to betray them, but offering to give them all his property, and he also begged them to spare his life for the sake of his motherless children, but Brantley said "Shoot him!" and shot him. Young Bell then shot him and all of them threw his body over the fence among the weeds, where it was ound. All four of the gang lead a real Jesse James life, and organized their robber gang on that basis. All were ed and nothing but praise is heard on all steamer under guard.

COTTON MARKET.

Rubbard Bros. Report-Speculation as the Ultimate Course of Prices.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29th. EDITOR STAR-After a sharp advance the market has developed weakness on a liquidation of the local interests which were influential in assisting the improvement and notwithstanding the light movement of the crop, the temper of the market has become decidedly antagonistic to a further advance. The reason for this opinion appears to be due entirely to local causes, as the factors of demand and supply appear to justify the maintainance of the present range of values, if the present movement of the crop is to be regarded as any indication of the ultimate yield. It is a curious feature of the situation that the South appears to be anxious to meet each advance with selling orders which undoubtedly has caused some anxiety as to the ultimate yield, as it makes many believe the crop to be larger than the movement indicates and these offers forecast a disposition on the part of the Southern holders to meet each advance above 81/4 cents with a free supply of the cotton they hold in reserve. In all the advices from the South there is no indication of any such reserves, but the constant offerings of cotton whenever the price passes from beyond that point render merchants more than cautious and on the first indication of weakness they are quick to realize upon their holdings This pervousness naturally acts as a damper on the market, but whether it is based upon more than a natural disposition to avoid the possibility of loss, which the previous bull speculation encountered, can of course be decided only by the actual outcome of the crop. At the moment all of the returns from the South point to a small crop, not exceeding 7,000,000 bales, and in many instances the indications are for a yield much less than the earlier estimates would seem to call for. The movement of the crop confirms the small crop estimates, being lighter than the most sanguine bulls believed probable, without any apparent effect upon prices or upon the demand from Europe, which continues upon a provokingly small scale. On each decline the continental spinners seem willing to become large buyers, but as soon as the market advances they refuse to follow the improvement, while the English spinners, being without reserve stocks, are daily buyers of their actual consumption, if not adding something to their surplus reserves.

This puzzling array of conflicting the markets for the past five years have been usually of one character, without the constant interruption of factors to disturb the tone of the market. It is these factors first pulling one way and then another, which disturb the market, preventing the trade from having more than a temporary opinion as to the ultimate course of prices. After several years of low prices it is natural for the trade to regard present prices as high, and spinners hold the same ideas: both well founded if the supply is sufficient, but both wrong if the conditions of the trade render the supply too small for the actual requirements without creating such a drain upon the visible and invisible supply, as may cause a per-manently higher range of values.

The Public School Building Near Farmet's Turn-Out Burned-No Insurance. [Star Correspondence.]

FARMER'S TURN-OUT, November 27 .-On the morning of the 27th inst. the public school house (white) was burned by some one not known. This makes the third public school house that has been reduced to ashes in this district. The school house had been built but a few years. It cost the county nearly two hundred dollars. There was no insurance. I think that it would be advisable for the people of this community and others to insure their school houses in the future, as some of the people seem to like to practice arson.

The school had been in session only two weeks, under management of Mr. Lee Greer, of Onslow county. The attendance was good-about fifty. It seems that the people of this community are taking great interest in their public schools. We long to see Bruns-
