With the profoundest sorrow we announce the death, at his residence in this city, on Sunday, at 7 o'clock a. m., of Wilmington's most prominent and respected citizen, the Hon. GEORGE

DAVIS. The sad event, though not unexpected, has cast a gloom over our city and is felt as a general bereavement, for it has fallen to the lot of but few men to have held such an unbroken hold upon the hearts of his fellow citizens, during a long and eventful life, as was the case with him whose passing away has filled every heart with sorrow. And he was worthy of such almost unprecedented esteem and affection, for he was gifted with the highest attributes that can adorn and dignify our human nature, was a type of the loftiest manhood, one who so bore himself in his public and private carriage that all the world could say, he was indeed a man. His actions were governed by principle and his motives were always pure and disinterested.

The distinguished gentleman who has just passed from our midst, who was one of the first of North Carolinians, was a native of Wilmington, the third son of the late Thomas F. Davis, a very promia family distinguished in the annals of tion. the Cape Fear section for intelligence and virtue. He was born in the year 1830, and consequently had reached the ripe age of seventy-six years. His early education was obtained in the best schools then existing in the State, and he was so apt to learn and so well prepared that he entered the University of the State the youngest among all of the students and graduated with the highest honors of his class.

Adopting the profession of the law, he soon became a prominent leader at the bar and acquired a large and lucrative practice which suffered no diminution during his long and varied career, but on the contrary, increased with advancing years. He early embarked upon the stormy sea of politics and was a leader of the old Whig party during the days | Dr. Carmichael. The choir then sang or to the war. His speeches on the hustirgs during the campaigns in which he was engaged, and the many addresses he was frequently called upon to make before crowded assemblies, were marked by great intellectual vigor, and the melody of his voice, his graceful gesticulation and polished periods commanded the attention of all; while his reasoning powers carried convicton to every mind.

Though in a helpless minority politically, he could be found in the front of the fight, inspiring his followers with enthusiasm by his impassioned eloquence, his powerful invective and fertility of resource, and commanding the respect and admiration even of his opponents by his chivalric bearing, his generous courtesy and high sense of honor. He was always more than equal to every demand upon his powers, and soon established a reputation as an orator, and jurist co extensive with the State, and so, when troublous times approached and men's hearts were failing them for fear, they instinctively turned to him with the most abiding faith in his integrity, his patriotism and his ability to guide and direct them in the right

And thus it happened, in 1881, without action on his part and without his knowledge that such a thing was conemplated, he was appointed by the State of North Carolina one of the Com missioners to the Peace Congress which assembled that year in Washington City. He labored earnestly with others in that Congress to effect a settlement of committee of three to prepare suitable the difficulties which convulsed the country, but his efforts were vain; fanaticism rode rampant over truth and justice, and reason seemed dethroned in the minds of the Northern mejority. The Congress accomplished nothing. Upon his return from Washington an immense meeting of citizens was held in the Opera House, before whom he appeared to give an account of his stewardship, and did so in a speech so convincing in argument and so pathetically eloquent, that the vast assemblage gave utterance as with one voice, "Well done, He moved that a committee be ap- thou good and faithful servant." From pointed to investigate and report upon | that period until death, he linked his fortunes with the Democratic party and there was no truer or more uncompromising Confederate in all Southland

In 1862 he was elected to the high position of Senator in the Congress of the Confederate States by the Legislature of North Carolina, and that like his first appointment came to him unsolicited and unexpectedly. He served out the term for which he had been elected, and at its termination the Legislature again, without his knowledge, unanimously presented his name to President Davis for a position in his Cabinet. He was tendered the Attorney-Generalship, which he accepted and held until the collapse of the Confed-

who had not learned the art of rising to position by pandering to the passions of the multitude or practicing the wiles of the demagogue. No man in North Carolina stood higher than he, for he was known of all men to be able, pure and incorruptible, whose aspirations were of the highest and truest; and who could not stoop to hypocrisy or deceit. An accomplished orator, a profound jurist, and a noble spe cimen of that highest type of a true manhood, a Christian gentleman, at the ripe age of seventy-six years he goes down to the grave crowned with honors, with not a blot upon his escutcheon, and leaving

The members of the choir were Mrs. Jas. Calder and Sophia McPherson, sopranos; Miss Elsie Calder, alto; Mr. A. S. Holden, baritone, and Mr. E. P. Boatright, organist.

Upon leaving St James' church, the W. L. I., of which Mr. Davis was an honorary member, led the long procession, followed by the Wilmington Division Naval Reserves. They marched out in a downpour of rain which continued while the mourning assemblage which had gone to the grave to pay their last tribute of respect to the memory of the deceased saw the remains tenderly laid away in the quiet shades of Oakdale. The rain kept up while Rev. Dr. Strange performed the last sacred rites, and the floral decorations, which were very handsome. were laid upon the new-made mound During the funeral services, all the offices of the Atlantic Coast Line were closed, and the officials attended the funeral. Mr. Davis was for a long period leading counsel for that corporation, and for many years was called on to preside at all the annual meetings of the stockholders. The delegation from the A. C. Y. M. C. A. Auditorium. The "Brotherhood Star Course" gave one of the most enjoyable entertainments to the members and friends of the Course last night in the person of Mr. Frederick D. There was scarcely one in the audience but what was well pleased and highly delighted with the impersonation of the characters of "Oliver Twist."

Mr. Losey is a talented impersonator and a man of remarkable genius in his line of work; one minute he will have listeners in roars of laughter at his impersonation of "Mr. Bumble" and his courtship and married life, and hardly before one's face is straight from the | Monroe. side-splitting laughter he will fill the eyes with tears, with that most dramatic scene of the murder of "Nancy." RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 24. The civil term of Wake Superior Court meets this morning with Judge McIver on the bench. There are not many important cases on the docket. The most important is the one brought by W. S. behind him not an enemy in the world. Barnes vs. W. T. Crawford (ex-Congressman) for libel. Mrs. Arrington says she will push her case against ex-Congressman Bann. Mrs. Arrington has each preceded him to the grave, leaving remained rather quiet since the last term of Wake County Court, but she aqnounced to-day that she would begin the publication of her paper, the "Criminal Docket," as soon as she got the

Capt. Bill Day's diamond standard is entirely new in the financial world. He has secured two new converts.

There was a prevailing feeling that the negro Henry Dowden who murdered Engineer Dodd at Weldon without any cause whatever, would be lynched last night. The sentiment in that vicinity is very high. It is one of the worst crimes ever committed in the State Dowden went from Raleigh Friday. He tried to play off drunk when captured. It is said that Mr. Banks Holt bid in Baronet at his New York sale, yaying $3,500 for him.

A Whitney boom has been started in the South and already headquarters for the extreme Southern States have been established at New Orleans. A few days ago an agent of Whitney's was in the city in the interest of his Presidential candidacy. Whitney will not be strong in North Carolina because of his gold bug policy. Some persons think that the Vance monument should be placed in Nash Square, rather than in Capital Square. Nash Square is near the depot. Treasurer Worth was asked what he thought of the new fusion between Democrats and Populists, and especially the ticket which has been mapped. "I don't think much of it," was his reply. It will be remembered that Mr. Worth was slated for Treasurer.

Col. Argo and a number of prominent will win in this State if the National Democracy nominates a gold candidate for President.

Quite a number of people will attend the Newbern Fair from this city.

The conference between E. Chambers Smith and Capt. Peebles in Washington on Democratic-Populist fusion has been talked a good deal here, though Democrats here would like to know who is the authorized mouthpiece of the party Some of Mr. Smith's friends are saying that he made the remark four years ago that Hill would carry a solid delegation from this State to the convention. Hill only got two or three votes.

Matrimonial Events.

Mr. R. D. Leslie, of Columbia, S. C., was married last Thursday night, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. J. M. Nelson, on Princess street, to Miss Lena Nelson. Mr. Claude Leslie was best man and Miss Flossie Deans maid of honor. A large number of friends of the young couple were present and a reception was held alter the marriage. The newly married couple will leave today for Columbia, S. C., which place they intend to make their future home Their friends in this city wish them much happiness.

A quiet wedding took place Sunday aight at the home of the bride's father on Dock street between Front and Second. The contracting parties were Miss Annie Benton and Mr. Jao. Motte. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Kramer, pastor of Brooklyn Baptist church. The best man was Mr. Jas. Motte, brother of the groom, and the maid of honor, Miss Manda Benton, sister of the bride. They will reside in Wilmington, corner Fourth and Brunswick streets.

Funeral of the Late S. L. Meredith. The funeral of the late Engineer Steve L. Meredith took place yesterday afternoon, at 8.80 o'clock, from Mrs. Tebie Watson's residence, corner Second and Mulberry streets. The services dezen. were conducted by Rev. A. D. McClure, of St. Andrew's church, assisted by Rev. R. A. Willis, of Grace Methodist church. The services were impressive and the following choir rendered very sweet music: Misses Annie and Katie Stolter, Mr. W. W. Hodges and Mr. H. K. Holden. The floral offerings were very pretty, and a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends followed the remains to their last resting place in Oakdale Cemetery. The pall-bearers were: Honorary-Col. Roger Moore, Capt. W. P. Oldham, Capt. Thos. Torpy, and Mr. J. T. Collins of Burgaw, N. C.; active-Messrs. C. C. Chadbourn, Geo. W. Gates, R. B. Clowe, T. E. From the ALPS to AMERICA.

WE ARE JUST PATRIOTIC ENOUGH TO u.e., and want to use, every thing we possibly can of the productions of our own c untry. The Yankees (may their tribe increase) have sicc-eded in making nearly everything that can be m de of cotton, wool, fix and silk, but there's a few O.d World industries that don't fi wrish here yet. One of these is the art of Embride.y.

To co that successfully, one must be a Swiss and live in Switzerland. We can't bring over the Alps, but here's the EVERY VARIETY SOLD IN
