Whest Declined on Steady Liquidating--Corn Closed Lower in Sympathy With Wheat-July Lard Closed Higher-Ribs Lower.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. CHICAGO, May 1 .- Most of this wheat found its way back into the hands of the elevator people, but there was a good proportion of it handed out to people who owned it, by reason of their holdings in May, but who did not really want it and therefore were constrained to liquidate. If there had been any news of a bullish character received perhaps these parties would have carried it for a while, but the absence of anything encouraging prompted immediate sales. July wheat opened at 64c; sold between 641%c and 62% @63%c. closing at 62% c -14c under yesterday. Cash wheat was steady early, but was detrimentally influenced by the weakness of futures later.

Corn-Deliveries of corn were moderate, much of it coming for sale. Trading was not extraordinarily active however, and no great weakness was witnessed until the price of wheat took its final plunge, when the feeling in this market responded and a decline resulted. There was a lack of confidence displayed and the inclination was to abide by the action of the leading grain. July opened at 30 1/2 c. declined to 29% c. closing at 29% @29% c-%@%c under yesterday. Trading in cash corn was at steady prices, but a nominal loss at the close was quotable.

Oats-When the other grains set in to decline, there was prompt response in this market. July oats closed 1/20%c under yesterday. Cash oats were steady early, but nominally weak at the close.

Provisions-The hog market contributed the weakness which prevailed in product early, and wheat extended further depression at the close. It was a notable feature that lard instead of declining with pork and ribs, held firm and actually recorded a gain at the close instead of showing a loss, as the other commodities did. Packers and professional traders express the opinion that with the continued heavy receipts of hogs, there is little hope for product July pork closed 25 cents lower; July lard 21 to 5 cents higher, and July ribs 5 cents lower.
