GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Wheat, Corn and Osts Closed Higher-Pork Lower.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. CHICAGO, June 30 .- Wheat had a rally to-day which put shorts in a thinking mood and served to revive the hopes of the bulls on, that grain. The end of the month and the approaching holiday led to some cleaning up, which helped along the good work. SPOTS AND FUTURES.

New York Sun's Review of the Cotton Market. By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, June 30 .- The Sun says: Cotton declined two to four points; recovered the loss and advanced three to four points, but lost part of the rise, closing one point higher on most months, with the tone barely steady. The sales were 86,300 bales.

To-day's features: It was a light day in the speculation. What there was of it showed a slight decline at first, owing to rains in Texas, a decline in Liverpool, as well as more or less local and Southern selling. New Orleans sold to some extent and a leading house here is said to have sold September, though apparently not on a large scale. The latter transactions showed a rise of five to eight points from the lowest figures of the morning. It is said that Southern cotton mills will probably decide to curtail the production fifty per cent. for the next three months and it is also stated that there is a prospect that mills representing four million spindles in New England will sign an agreement to close their mills for four weeks during July and August in order to reduce production. Be this as it may, the statistical position is strong, the price is considered relatively low and bears are not at

CONFEDERATE REUNION.

GREAT GATHERING OF VETERANS IN RICHMOND, VA.

Thirty Thousand in the City and More on the Way-First Day of the Convention-Addresses of Welcome-Committees Appointed on Credentials and Resolutions-Mrs. Jefferson Davis' Reception.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. THE CONFEDERATE AUDITORIUM, RICHMOND, VA., June 80 .- The sixth annual convention of the Confederate Veterans met this morning in the vast and gaily-decorated auditorium erected for the purpose at the Exposition grounds in this city. Intermingled with he Confederate colors and battle flags are national flags, and just above the presiding officer's seat are two large star-spangled banners. Around the gal-leries are the coats-of-arms of all the late Confederate States. Just above, on another tier, are banners on which are inscribed the names of all the famous battles of the war, and intermixed with these are large star-shaped designs bear-ing the names of all the famous Confederate Generals. The auditorium, which can seat over ten thousand people, was comfortably filled and presented a handsome appear ance when at 11 o'clock the arrival of Gen. John B. Gordon, Commander-in-Chief of the Confederate Veterans, was greeted by cheers, and the band played "Dixie." He was then presented with a gavel, which Gen. Gordon announced was made from a tree cut on the battlefield of Chicamauga. He opened the convention by introducing Chaplain J. W ones, of the Confederate veterans, who made an eloquent, impressive prayer.

which was followed by the band playing "Nearer My God to Thee."
On the stand were seated all the dignitaries, among them Gov. O'Ferrall, Mrs. Gen. George E. Pickett, now of Washington; Mayor Taylor, of Richmond; Gen. Peyton Wise, Gen. Stephen D. Lee, Mrs. Gen. Gordon and daughter, ex Minister to Spain J. L. M. Curry Gen. French and numerous others. At the conclusion of the prayer, Gen. Gordon proceeded to introduce Gov. O'Ferrall, who was on the programme to welcome the veterans to Richmond but that gentleman bad barely begun to speak when a cheer broke forth from the far end of the auditorium and the venerable form of that gallant old soldier, Gen. Wade Hampton, was seen limping up towards the stand. His progress through the audience was greeted by the wildest cheers, and when at last he reached the stand, Gen. Gordon announced him as the "brave commander-in-chief of the Confederate cavalry,' which called forth another round of cheers and "rebel yells." Order being restored, Governor O'Ferrall was reintroduced, and he welcomed the veterans to Virginia. "Veterans and The Governor said: comrades-You were enlisted in those bands who wrote their names in glory's skies and carved them deep in the Temple of Fame; who made the cause of the South so imperishable and the renown of her armies so fadeless. You endured hardships which no human imagination could describe. Your exploits equalled | the house, these of the heroic age in Grecian legends, and your devotion was not surpassed by Leonidas and his three hundred at Thermopylæ In the path of duty no danger daunted you, no suffering subdued you, no force appalled you, and no defeats disheartened you. True as the dial to the sun, firm as the rock on the mountain crest, resolute as the lion aroused in his lair, with unblanched cheeks and steady nerve, you obeyed every command; however rained the missiles of death. The greater the peril, the stiffer were your sinews; the fiercer the battle, the hotter was your blood. No Grecian phalanx, no Roman legion, were ever adorned with badges more honorable than those you wear upon your manly breasts. It was neither conquest nor power for which you fought; t was in defence of home and country: The rights for which the founders of this Republic struck were no more sicred to them than the rights for which you struck were dear to you. If you were rebels, so were the fathers of constitu tional liberty of a hundred and twenty years ago, If you fought to sever your connection with a union whose bonds were galling, so did the men now immortalized in song and story when they snapped the cord of British allegiance grim-visaged Might, it came to you by ancestral inheritance; or if foreign born, you imbibed it from the air you Pointing to the statue of Lee, he said: Just in front of us, astride his noble war steed, is the great captain of the Nineteenth century, unsurpassed in legend or tradition. How thankful are we that human hand has been gifted with the skill to convert inanimate matter into ington, shall ride immortal And shall ride abreast of time; Shall light up stately history And blaze in epic rhyme, Both patriots, both Southerners;

True-Both rebels, both sublime. "When the work, which will be begun o soon, shall be completed, the world will behold a monument erected to an unsceptred ruler by the free will ofering of the scattered remains of his armies and descendants of his dead soldiers; by the high and the humble, the rich and the poor. Not a block will be laid by taxation, not a stone will be laid by Government donation. There were numerous interruptions by the arrival of delegates and camps who were conducted to their appointed seats, but the Governor was warmly applauded throughout his entire speech which was an eloquent tribute to the bravery and fortitude of the Confederate soldiers. He asked, "Am I not voicing your sentiments, comrades?' and was followed by a rousing cheer. Gov. O'Ferrall was followed by Mayor Richard Taylor, who as the head of the municipal government, welcomed the veterans once more to the historic city of Richmond. At the conclusion of the Mayor's address, Gen. Peyton Wise, chairman of the local Reunion Committee, formally turned over the hall to the convention and then the regular proceedings began The city is crowded as never before since the close of the war with veterans, representatives of every State North, South, East and West, and the streets are almost impassible. Banners and badges from every Southern State are visible everywhere, and the scene in the auditorium exceeded in brilliancy and enthusiasm the recent National Republican Convention at St. Louis.

people of Richmond. General Gordon introduced Hon. I Taylor Ellyson, chairman of the Davis Monument Association, who announced that all who wore the gray and women who sympathized with the Lost Cause museum to-night.

The Committee on Credentials was nnounced ty a secretary.

General Stephen D. Lee then read the report of the History Committee, which set forth that great injustice had been done to the South by partisan histories and recommended that measures be adopted to have a correct and trustworthy history of the Confederate side of the late war published. Somebody moved the postponement of the reading of the report, whereupon Gen. Jackson, of Tennessee, made a strong appeal that the reading be heard. Another veteran in the audience renewed the motion to postpone until to-morrow and quite a iscussion ensued. Still another appeal for the reading was made and Gen Gordon explained that this was the most important matter that would be brought before the convention in the fact that it made plain the actual necessity of doing justice to the memories of Lee, of Jackson, of Davis and of all the Southern leaders. The reading was proceeded with an I the report advocated a separate history for each State and the compilation of all these by a competent board at the University of the South, and invoked the aid and assistance of all the Southern universities and historical societies to this end. The report further referred to the several other reports made at previous Confederate reunions on this subject and laid particular stress on the inaccurate school histories now in use throughout the country. It recommended that the history of the South be properly truthfully and thoroughly written for the benefit of the growing youth of the South and for the vindication of its honored dead. It wound up with the recommendation that each State Legislature make a donation and establish a chair of American history and that all colleges aid in perfecting the needed history. The historical report was, on motion of Gen. Jackson, of Tennessee unanimously adopted and the committee was thanked for its labors. The committee was further authorized to carry out the objects of the report by he appointment of sub-committees. On motion of General Peyton Wise, of Virginia, an assistant sergeant atarms from each State was appointed, to The reception tendered Mrs Jefferson Davis to-night at the Confederate Museum, the former White House of he Confederacy, was an overwhelming affair. It was a success as far as the crowd of ladies and their escorts were concerned, but a failure as to management. One-fourth of the people who wished to pay their respects to Mrs Davis and her daughter, Mrs. Hayes, could not gain admission to the building. Miss Winnie Davis was detained in New York by a sprained ankle. Col. A. B. Dickenson, who represents Mr. Chas. Broadway Rouss, of New York, then read a correspondence with that gentleman which developed a new plan on the part of Mr. Rouss, who had previously offered a conditional donation of $100,000 for a battle abbey of the South. Mr. Rouss snow proposes to contribute $500,000 for the purpose, provided the South raised an equal amount and that the abbey be located in the city of Washington. This puts quite a new aspect on the Battle Abbey movement, though Mr. Rouss leaves the matter entirely with the association. Gen. Mc-Intosh's resolution was then so amended that the present committee would not go out of existence until the trustees were appointed. Report will be made to the convention to-morrow.

Nearly All the Print Cloth Manufacturers Have Agreed to Curtail Production.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. FALL RIVER, June 80 .- It is believed in manufacturing circles to-day that treasurers, representing 1,700,000 spindles, have agreed to curtail production during four weeks in the next two months. Nothing definite can be given out by Messrs. SCORCHING EDITORIAL FROM A GOLD STANDARD PAPER. The Projected Raid of Whitney and the Bankers-Democrats Must Stand for the Right of the M. jurity to Rule. The following is from the Washington Post, which is opposed to free silver but has opinions it is not afraid to express:

"It appears that Mr. Whitney is to have powerful co-operation at Chicago. The banks, the bankers, the various commercial exchanges all over the country are arranging to send delegations to the convention city. They are sending them by hundreds. The idea is to make an overwhelming display of strength and influence-may we add, money? Two hundred and fifty business men are going from the Merchants' Exchange of St. Louis alone, and when we and the contingents from New York and the other great business and financial centers one is at no loss to foresee that the gathering will be like unto an Assyrian host, Certainly the importance and the interest attaching to the Democratic Convention will far exceed the measure of the St. Louis event. enormous though that may have been. "What we fail to perceive, however, is the exact meaning of this great demonstration. What do these apostles of the gold standard expect to accomplish by going to Chicago in such numbers? They can hardly intend to settle the controversy by means of a pitched battle with the silver delegates, neither can they possibly harbor the idea of buying them in open market to betray the people who have commissioned and instructed them. Are they going to parade the streets so as to impress the silver men with their great strength? They will be overlooked, lost, absorbed in Chicago's tremendous population. Is it necessary to take 5,000 gold men to the convention to argue with five or six hundred delegates? A dozen fluent speakers would do as well. What does this vast outpouring of capital and its epresentatives mean, anyhow? We have said before, and it seems a good time to repeat, that there must be no sharp practice, no intimidation, no cajolery and deceit and corrupt expedient at Chicago this year. The maority must rule in that convention or the Democratic party will die in everlasting infamy and shame. We can understand that the capitalists would contemplate such a result with cheerful equanimity if thereby they could carry the point they hold above all others. Parties are nothing to them beyond the point at which parties may be used to serve their ends. They would willingly destroy the Democratic organization if that were indispensable to the triumph of the single standard. They are going to Chicago with a purpose in which the honor or dishonor of that organization cuts no figure whatsoeyer. Hence we say again that Democrats who love their party and hold its fair fame, its welfare and its perpetuity in loval devotion and esteem, must see to it that the party's traditions are kept inviolate. They must stand together against all influences, however potent and insidious, for the right of the major ty to rule. Upon no other basis can they hope to win. In no other manner can they escape disgrace."

CHICAGO CONVENTION.

Names Suggested for Temporary Officers-Senator Isham G. Harriss May be Permanent Chairman-Leaders of the Silver Forces Preparing for the Fray.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. CHICAGO, June 30.-The National Democratic Committee will meet Monday to select the temporary officers of the convention. Among the names suggested for the temporary chairmanship are those of Senators Hill, of New York; Vilas. of Wisconsin; Gray, of Delaware, and Hugh C. Wallace, of Washington. Senator Jones said yesterday that he thought the silver men would accept the recommendation that Sedator Hill be made temporary, chairman of the convention. "I believe Senator Hill is a fair man," Mr. Jones said, "and I would have absolute confidence in his ability, justice and impartiality as a presiding officer. If he is selected, I think there will be no attempt by the convention to take this appointment out of the hands of the National Committee. It is thought that Senator Isham G.

Harris will be permanent chairman. A week in advance of the day set for the opening of the Democratic National Convention the leaders of the silver element have donned their armor and girded themselves for the coming fray. To day the Sherman House, where the white metal headquarters have been located, resounded with shouts and vells of its advocates resplendent in 16 to 1 badges, buttons and other insignia, while its register bore more distinguished names than have been inscribed in the books of the hostelry for a quarter of a century. So far none of the prominent advocates of the gold standard have put in an appearance, and consequently the silver people have undisputed possession of the field. From to morrow, however, the former will begin to be in evidence, and from then on every day will witness some new phase of a battle between the majority and the earnest, aggressive, unconquerable minority. The conspicuous features of the open ing of the war to day were the conference between the Bimetallic Democratic National Committee and the outside silver men, the meeting between Gov. Stone, of Missouri, and Gov. Altgeld, of Illinois, and the declaration of the Illinois delegation in favor of the abrogation of the two thirds rule.
