The New York Tribune wants silver men to "lay aside the wild ranting about the crime of 1873.' Of course it does. It doesn't like to hear about it.

U. S. Senator Squire, Republican, gold standard man, has after due deliberation announced that he will support free silver and vote for Bryan and Sewall.

For a man who weighs only 120 pounds and is running only as an extemporized attachment, it seems to us that Tom Watson is taxing his jaws too much.

Republican headquarters in New York the other day brought the encouraging information that the "silver sentiment is diminishing" in his State. Why, had it got a grip on old Vermont, too? With this intelligence they are now doubtless hoping G. H. Hall, Red Springs, were among of their advertisements, which must be the arrivals in the city yesterday.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., says he s going to work and show the old man he is no darned kid, and besides that he married a girl who is willing to take the chances with him if he does start in life a poor man. Inasmuch as Con. has $2,000,000 in his own right the probabilities are that if he be reasonably industrious and she reasonably economical they can manage to get along without calling on the old man.

The New York World propounds the following: "Even admitting that there can be '200 cent' dollars,' isn't it better for a wage-worker than a 53 cent dollar?" Well, on the presumption (a mere presumption) that there can be a 53 cent dollar, this will depend on whether the wageworker can get the "200 cent dollar" and how many of them he can get.

At 4 o'clock sharp the boats lined up for the start, the following yachts being in to "do or die," viz: Idler, Dr. Robt. Strange, Captain; Mabel, Capt. Ed. Metts; Ripple, Capt. George Chadbourn Francis Marion, Capt. Harriss; Sprite, Capt. H. B. Peschau; Nixie, Capt. Moore. After the starter's pistol was fired, the Mabel, at once took the lead and maintained her position, rounding the buoys the first and second times ahead, although closely pushed by the Francis-Marion, Ripple and Idler, but on the third and last time around, the good old Idler crawled up and showed her beels to the rest of the fleet. The Mabel and Francis-Marion stuck closer to her than her "paternal relations," and it was thought by some that the Francis-Marion would have come cut victorious except for an accident to her throat-block. The Idler made a beaut fal finish

Dick Bradley gets a 'goose egg," but will do better next time. Mr. M. J. Willard gave the canoes the signal to start.

Quite a number of ladies and gentlemen witnessed the races from the wharves of the Clarendon and Carolina Yacht Clubs.

NORTH CAROLINA AT GETTYSBURG

Longstreet's Account of the Charge of Pickett, Pettigrew and Trimble on the Third Day of the Battle. The account of the third day's battle at Gettysburg given by Gen. Longstreet in his Memoirs is a complete refutation of the misrepresentations of certain writers and lecturers who have sought to glorify the Virginians who took part in that great battle by disparaging state-The ru'es of the Long Island racing ments concerning North Carolina sol-Langstreet says Gen. Lee's plan was > divisions of his (Longstreet's) corps-McLaws, Hood and Pickett. Longstreet thought that it would not do; that the divisions of McLaws and Hood were holding a mile along the right of the line against 20,000 men who would follow the withdrawal of the two divisions strike the flank of the assaulting column and crush it; that 30,000 men was necessary for the work; that the column, as he (Lee) proposed to organize it, would have only 13 000 men; that it would have to march a mile under concentrating battery fire and a thousand yards under long-range muskerry. Gen, Lee then concluded that the divisions of McLaws and Hood could remain in the defensive line, and the assault shou'd be made by Pickett's division of Longstreet's corps, Heth's division, and Lane's and Sciles brigades of A. P. Hill's corps. Pickett had three Virginia brigades-Kemper's, Garnett's, and Armistead's. They were tresh troops, had not been in action. Heth's division, commanded by Brigadier General Pettigrew, consisted four brigades, Pettigrew's (North Carolina); Brockenborough's (Virginia); Archer's (Alabama and Tennesset); Davis' Mississippi). With these troops were Scales' and Lane's North Carolina brigades, under command of Maj. Gen. Trimble. These troops had been in the battle the first and second days, and had ustained severe loss. As the commands reported for the :ssault, P.ckett was assigned on the right, K-mper's and Garnett's brigades to be supported by Armistead's; Pettigrew's division on Pickett's left supported by the brigades of Scales and Lane under command of Gen. Trimble. Gen. Scales being wounded on the first day, his brigade was commanded by Col. Lawrence of the 84.h N. C. regiment. Gen. P.c. kett's was the division of direction. The assaulting column numbered about 17 .-000 men. of which Pickett had about one third. 'Pickett said, General, shall I ad-

"The effort to sprak the order failed, and I could only indicate it by an affirmative bow. He accepted the duty, with seeming confidence of success, leaped on his horse, and rode gayly to his command, I mounted and spurred for Alexander's post. He reported that the batteries he had reserved for the charge with the infantry had been spirited away by Gen. Lee's chief of artillery; that the ammunition of the batteries of position was so reduced that he could not use them in proper support of the infantry. He was ordered to stop the march at once and fill up his ammunition chests. But, alas! there was no more 'ammunition to be bad.

"The order was imperative. The Confederate commander had fixed his heart upon the work. Just then a number of the enemy's batteries hitched up and hauled off, which gave a glimpse of unexpected hope. Encouraging messages were sent to the column to hurry on. and they were then on elastic, springy step. Gen. Pickett, a graceful horseman, sat lightly in the saddle, his brown locks flowing quite over his shoulders. Pettigrew's division spread their steps and quickly rectified the aligument, and the grand march moved bravely on. Gen. Trimble mounted, adjusting his seat and reins as if setting out on a pleasant afternoon ride. When aligned to their places, solid march was made down the slope and past our batteries of position. Confederate batteries put their fire over the heads of the men as they moved down the slope and continued to draw the fire of the enemy until the smoke lifted and drifted to the rear. when every gun was turned upon the infantry columns. The batteries that had been drawn off were replaced by others that were fresh. Soldiers and officers began to fall; some to rise no more, others to make their way to the hesp.tal tents. Single files were cut here and there; then the gaps increased and an occasional shot tore wider openings; but, closing the gaps as quickly as made, the march moved on. The enemy's right overreached my left and gave serious trouble. Brockenbrough's brigade went down and Davis' in impetu ous charge. The general order required further assistance from the third corps if needed, but no support appeared Gen. Lee and the corps' commander were there, but failed to order help. "Col. Latrobe [a staff officer] was sent to Gen. Trimble to have his men fill the line of the broken brigades, and bravely they repaired the damage. "The enemy moved out against the supporting brigade in Pickett's rear. Col. Sorrel, another staff officer, was sent to have that move guarded, and Pickett was drawn back to that contention. Col. Fremantle ran up to offer congratulations on the apparent success, but the big gap in the ranks grew until the lines were reduced to half their length. I called his attention to the proken, struggling ranks. Trimble mended the battle of the left in handsome style, but on the right the massing of the enemy grew stronger and stronger. Brigadier Garnett was killed. Kemper and Trimble were desperately wounded. Gen. Lane succeeded Trimble, and with Pettigrew held the battle on the left in steady ranks. Pickett's lines being nearer, the impact was heaviest upon them. Most of the field officers were killed or wounded. "Gen. Armistead, of the second line spread his steps to supply the places of fallen comrades. His colors cut down, with a volley against the bristling line of bayonets, he put his cap on his sword to guide the storm. The enemy's massing, enveloping numbers held the struggle until the noble Armistead fell beside the wheels of the enemy's battery. Pettigrew was wounded, but held the

"Gen. Pickett, finding the battle broken, while the enemy was still reinforcing, called the troops off. There was no indi-cation of a panic. The broken files marched back in steady step. The effort was nobly made and failed from blows that could not be fended. Some of the files were cut off from retreat by fire that swept the field in their rear. Our men passed the batteries in a quiet walk, and would rally, I knew, when they reached the ridge from which they started.

CYRUS B. WATSON.

The Democratic Candidate for Governor Addressed the People of Goldsboro Yesterday on the Political Situation and the Financial Question-Ex-Gov. Jarvis Made a Short Address. [Special Star Telegram.]

GOLDSBORO, N. C. August 8-Hon. Cyrus B. Watson, Democratic candidate or Governor, addressed the people of this city and section in the Opera House on the political situation. His first subect for discussion, and one around which his remarks were centered, was to assault the enemy's left centre by a the financial question. He enumerated co'umn to te composed of the three he national conventions that had been held, and mentioned the fact that this question had invaded for the first time he ranks of the Prohibition party and split that party in two. The Republican convention had met, he said, and nominated men and set up a p'atform not suited to the masses of the American people, tut to the liking of the few who had put them up. He said he was present at the Democratic Convention at Chicago, and saw Democrats resist the decree of the people and sit-dumb in their seats. The same men, he said, are now trying to organize a "sound money" party. The action of the Democratic convention, he said, was so much in accod with the wishes of a majority of the American people, that the People's party and the Silver party adopted the essentials of the platform, and named Bryan to lead the people out of the wilderness. He spoke of the Vice Presidency entanglement and said it would be adjus ed at the proper time by the Democratic and Populist committees. He said that when a Democrat was found who was not willing to work with the Populists, or a Populist was found who was not willing to work with the Democrats for the reliet for which the American people were clamoring, he was either a McKinley man or was carrying Republican money in his pecket. He spoke at length of the great influence of the money power and said he was not afraid of its buying the free men of North Carolina, neither white or colored: but it was the unemployed in the big cities of the North, whom starvation was staring in the face, and for whom the chilling winds of Winter were horrors from which they

RALEIGH NEWS ITEMS. Cause of Postponement of Meeting of the Republican State Committee-The City's Water Works-Chicken Thieves - B. pablicaa Headquarters.

[Special Star Correspondence.] RALEIGH. N. C., Aug. 7. It is stated by a gentleman who is well informed that the postponement of the time of meeting of the Republican State Executive Committee from the 11th to the 15th was done at the instance of those Republicans opposed to fusion. The Populist State Convention, which meets of the 13th, will have done its work when the Republican Executive Committee meets. It is said that an effort is now being made to have the committee meet here on the 11th at the time previously set, so that there can be a conterence with the Populists. The City Aldermen took steps last evening looking to the purchase of the water works system. The water works company was permitted to establish a plant here on the condition that the city have the privilege of purchasing it ten years after its establishment. The ten years expire in December. The Raleigh police ran upon four negroes early this morning, who were carrying a heavy chicken coop through one of the suburban streets. There were twenty-five chickens in the coop. Two of the darkies were nabbed.

It is not likely that the Republicans will make their headquarters in Raleigh. A wel!-known Republican says they will be located at Greensboro. He said that t had been decided by the leaders not to have the headquarters here, because the Raleigh newspaper men told everything that happened.

A NEW STEAMBOAT

sunched on the Savannah River-Named in Honor of M. jor W. S. Ccok, of Payetteville, N. C

[From the Savannah News.] "I christen thee W. S. Cook" spoke Miss Ida Schleglewich, of Hardeeville, vesterday, as she stood on the bow of Capt. W. T. Gibson's new Savannah river steamer and broke a bottle of Mumm's extra dry, while the boat slid gracefully into the river. The launching took p'ace at Purysourg, at 2 o'clock. A large party of ladies and gentlemen from Hardeeville were present and Capt. Gibson did the entertaining on the occasion. All sorts of nice things to eat and drink were spread before the guests, and Purysburg as seldom had such a gala day. The boat is named after Maj. W. S. Cook, one of the most enterprising river steamboat men in the South. He resides at Fayetteville, N. C., and is financially and Savannah as well as other rivers in the South. Capt. Gibson was accompanied by Mr. W. B. Farr, of this city, who was on poard at the launching of the steamers Ethel and Maggie Bell several years ago. The new hoat drew 11 inches when floated in the river. The shaft, boilers, are yet to be added, after which, Capt. Gibson calculates, that the draft will be interested in the boats on the Cape Fear

The Cook sits beautifully upon the water, and is satisfactory to her owner in every detail. It is expected to bring her to Savannah in about ten days, when the boilers will be put in, and every arrangement made to begin running by Sept. 1. - Mr. Hugh O. Wallace has re-
