"You tell us the great cities are in favor of the gold standard. Burn down your great cities and leave your farms, and your cities will grow up again. But destroy our farms and the grass will grow in every city of the Union."—From Wm. J. Bryan's speech before Democratic National Convention.

"I am for McKinley, Russell and Gold," says Oscar J. Spares, one of the Republican candidates for Elector-at-Large.

"I desire to meet Mr. Russell on the hustings of North Carolina. I want the people to hear us and decide between me and what I represent, and what I think he represents. With their decision I shall be content. If elected Governor of your State, I shall see that every man, no matter what his station in life or what his politics, is given every privilege granted him by the Constitution of North Carolina."—Cyrus B. Watson, Democratic candidate for Governor.

HELPING THE ENEMY.

There are some Southern Democrats who do not favor the free and unlimited coinage of silver at 16 to 1 or any other ratio. They call themselves "sound money men," without stopping to ask the question what "sound money" really is. The silver dollar is sound money now. Will coining more of them make them unsound money? Why are they sound money now? Simply because they bear the stamp of the Government and are declared by law good and lawful money to pay in exchange for articles purchased and to pay debts. We are told that they are sound because the Government maintains the parity between silver and gold, but this is not true, in the sense in which they mean it. The parity is maintained between the greenback, which is simply an evidence of indebtedness, and gold or silver because it is redeemable in gold or silver, but silver coins are money and are not redeemable. The Government does not exchange gold for silver nor obligate itself to redeem silver, but declares the silver it coins to be money in every sense that gold is money, except that in accordance with the methods of the Treasury, but not in accordance with law, it will not pay debts due to bondholders or to holders of Government notes. But in law silver is money as good and sound as gold. If it cease to be sound it will simply be because the money handlers whose interest it is to keep money scarce will conspire against it to depreciate it and thus make it what they call unsound money.

In order to secure what these Southern "sound money" Democrats call sound money, some of them say they will not vote for Bryan and Sewall, but will vote for McKinley and Hobart, although they confess that there will be two very large-sized pills for them to swallow. Well, they will be large sized pills for a fact, for the Southern Democrat who swallows them will have to swallow a whole apothecary shop with them. We admire the stomach that can survive that feat without becoming sick unto death. When they swallow McKinley, they have to take not only the high protective tariff against which Southern Democrats have been fighting for twenty five years, but they have to take him with his Force bill record from which the South escaped only after some of the hardest parliamentary struggles on record. They must take the Republican party with its record of trusts, monopolies, sectional legislation, &c., in all of which there is not one friendly action to the South, nor one act to indicate any friendly interest in the country lying south of the Ohio river, which the Republican party managers and statesmen never looked upon as an integral part of the Republic.

The gold standard Democrats know this, and yet to prevent the free coinage of silver they are willing to swallow it all, to restore to power the party against which they had been fighting for years, and again give it supreme control of national affairs.

But they say they will not vote for Republican State tickets, because they recognize the necessity of keeping our State affairs in the hands of Democrats, whether they be for free silver Democrats or gold standard Democrats. This speaks well for them in the resolve to protect their States from Republican rule. But if they considered a little it wouldn't take them long to discover that in voting to restore the National Republican party to power they are building up and strengthening the Republican party in the South and making the capture of these States by the Republicans a much more difficult thing to prevent than it otherwise would be. Take North Carolina, for instance. Suppose all the Federal offices in this State were filled by Republicans, who would act as party organizers, campaign hustlers, vote buyers, money contributors and bootle distributors, wouldn't we have a harder task to perform in fighting that party? We have had some experience of that in the past when the post offices, the internal revenue, and even the courts were run in the interest of the Republican party, and the experience we have had ought to be a warning that we shouldn't forget.

The Democrat who votes for McKinley may not intend it but he practically casts a vote to strengthen the Republican party in the South and to help the Republicans in their efforts to capture States in the South. So even of them the party are so evenly divided that it does not take much to turn the scales either way, and this is especially true since a third factor has come into play, and always renders the result of conflicts doubtful until the ballots are counted. The Southern "sound money" man who would regard the turning over his State to Republican rule as a calamity should seriously ponder before he assists in bringing that about by voting to put the National Government into the hands of a party which will do its utmost to build up the Republican party in South when it gets in.

MINOR MENTION.

One of the favorite and stereotyped assertions of the organs of the goldites is that the agitation of the silver question is an attempt to array the masses of the people against the wealthy class. During the tariff agitation a similar charge was made and the tariff organs were in the habit of dilating upon the great outrage the Democratic anti-high tariff advocates were perpetrating in attempting to array the masses against capital invested in our manufacturing industries. If there be really any conflict between the masses and the wealthy class the men who represent the wealthy class in the present political contest are doing all they can to array the wealthy class against the masses and to convince the masses that there is really a conflict of interests which the man of wealth accepts and acts upon. The spokesmen of the managers of the campaign for McKinley make the bold boast that they will have more money for use in this campaign than they ever had, for they will have not only the rich manufacturers (who expect to be paid back when the Republican party comes in power) to draw upon, but also the money lenders, bond buyers and gold speculators, who are straining every nerve to defeat the candidate of the Democratic party and thus retain control of the money system of the country. In carrying out this programme of wealth against the people, Mark Hanna and his co-laborers make no secret of the fact that they are relying upon the money of the rich to defeat Bryan and Sewall, and they are bringing into active service men who have never heretofore figured openly in political contests. In Illinois Mark Hanna appointed a committee to collect campaign funds whose aggregate wealth is over $50,000,000. During his recent visit to New York he appointed a similar committee, consisting of about one hundred and forty men, whose fortunes range from $125,000,000 to $1,000,000, whose combined wealth runs over $55,000,000. This programme will doubtless be followed in other States, demonstrating the fact that these party managers are arraying the men of wealth against the masses and that they are relying upon the money of these men to elect their candidates.

There is in the city of New York what they call a "Democratic Honest Money League," which was organized for the single purpose of defeating the Chicago ticket. This league is a fraud, for it is neither a "Democratic" league nor an "honest money" league. It is simply an ally of the Republican party selling under false colors to deceive Democrats who believe there is something in a name. The animus of this league is shown by the statement that it was organized for the single purpose of defeating the Chicago ticket, which means that they will accept McKinley and Republicanism with all that this implies, if they can thereby defeat the Chicago ticket, because they and the money manipulators whom they represent could not dictate the platform of the Chicago Convention and name the candidates who were to stand upon it. They, doubtless, have the matter

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.

—Greenview Relief: We regret to hear that Mr. T. A. G. Ross, of Chicago, died a few days ago. Mr. Ross was a gallant Confederate soldier who lost one of his arms on the battle field. —Kinston Free Press: Mr. R. Frank Hill, of New townships, about two and a half miles from Kinston, died suddenly last Tuesday, leaving a wife and several children. He was in Kinston Tuesday morning and sold some tobacco here. Mr. Hill returned home about 1 o'clock. About 6 o'clock in the evening he told his wife he felt badly and would go into the corn crib and take a nap. One of the family went to call him to supper and found him dead.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Several thousand miners in Michigan have been thrown out of employment in order that they may see the error of their way and vote for McKinley. This mode of campaigning is an excellent running mate for the policy of the rural doctor who used to throw his patients into convulsions in order to cure them of minor disorders.—N. Y. Journal, Dem.

A favorite argument to those opposed to free silver coinage is that England and other European creditor nations will flood this country with its bonds and demand payment in gold. But suppose they cannot get gold, would it be good business sense in them to assist in reducing the value of a silver dollar to fifty cents? Would it not, on the contrary, be the part of wisdom to maintain the integrity of the coin in which they would perform be largely paid?—New Orleans States, Dem.

—"One does not find many gold-bugs up here in Minnesota. Almost everybody is for silver," writes a correspondent for a Chicago paper. It is also said that in Wisconsin there is only one Democratic daily newspaper for "sound money," and concerning this the Boston Herald says: "Wisconsin used to be the bright spot in the West among several States that had yielded more or less to the free silver heresy. Her United States Senators invariably, and we think nearly if not quite all her Representatives in Congress have been sound money men. It is one of the signs of the times that would seem to call for explanation."—Augusta Chronicle, Dem.

NEUDORF CONVENT PRISON.

Where American Female Prisoners Leave the World and Start Life Again. The women in the Neudorf Convent prison were all so kindly in their ways, so peaceful and good humored, they differed so completely from our preconceived notions of criminals, that we were puzzled to imagine how they could have brought them into prison. We had never a doubt but that their offenses were of the most trivial nature, and we said so. The superior gave us one of her odd, humorous smiles.

NEUDORF CONVENT PRISON.

"Did you notice that woman in the corridor?" she asked. "She is Marie Schneider." That insignificant looking little woman, who had stood aside with a gentle depressive smile, she allowed us to see. Marie Schneider! Why, in any other place one would have set her down at once as the hardworking wife of a struggling carter, so thoroughly respectable did she look. And she is Marie Schneider, a European celebrity with more murders on her conscience than she has fingers on her hands! "And you hear her stay here?" "We have nowhere else to put her," the superior, who had joined us, replied, "and we don't hang women in Austria."

Now she, as we soon found, the only notoriety in the place. One of the prisoners is a delicate looking girl, with large, bright eyes and golden hair—a type of beauty almost peculiar to Austrians. She has a low, cooling voice and a singularly sweet, innocent expression. "What on earth can that girl have done to be sent here?" I whispered. "I don't know," she answered, "but I'm sure she's innocent."

Several of the prisoners are in the convent for killing their own children; others for killing their husbands, or their husbands; others again for no serious crime than begging. There are all degrees of guilt there, in fact, and all ages, from girls of the tender age of nearly 10, and they are all together on terms of perfect equality, for there are no distinctions of rank there—no one is better or worse than her neighbor. When the convent door closes behind them, they have been together for years, not only with the outside world, but with their own past. They start life afresh, as it were.—Cornhill Magazine.

That was Different.

I was waiting for the postoffice at Huntsville to open in the morning and meanwhile talking a bit to the colored janitor, who was swooping and dusting, when a negro boy, about 15 years old, came along and halted for a moment to talk to the janitor. The old man looked at him sharply, but did not comply. "Say, yo'!" called the young man. "There was no reply to this, and after a minute he called again: "Boy! What yo' wants wid me?" "I wants to speak wid yo'." "Who is yo'?" "Yo' know who I is. Yo' is dum engaged to my sister Evadngeline." "Oh! Yo' has a sister, I see. Well, what yo' want?" "Kin yo' lend me 10 cents?" "On yo' word, sah?" "On do grounds dat yo' is gwine to be my brudder-in-law." "Boy, don't yo' know nuffin' 'fall 'bout philosophy?" shouted the janitor as he raised his broom over his shoulder. "My broin engaged to yo' sister engaged to a private citizen, an my standin' heah representin' de United States gov'ment, an I kin wid a gom'lin' besides an two entirely different contestahs. As yo' fucher brudder-in-law I'd like to oblige yo', but as a representative of de gov'ment I doan' know yo' from Adam, an if yo' doan' move on I'll have to smash yo' to bone dust."—Detroit Free Press.

UNCLE SAM'S NAVY.

HOW MARINES OF THE UNITED STATES ARE CARED FOR.

They Are Better Clothed and Fed Than Many Marines on Land—One of Their Tails a Reporter All About Their Surroundings and Treatment. A marine was asked by a reporter to give an account of what he received in the service of Uncle Sam and how he and his fellows enjoyed themselves on board ship. The following was his story: "The government engages marines for a period of five years. At the end of that time the marine may quit the service or he may re-enlist. There is no doubt of his being able to continue in the service if he does his job honestly. There is no worry about getting out of a job with Uncle Sam. During the first and second years of his service he gets in money, paid monthly, $13. The third year he gets $14, the fourth $15 and the fifth $16. If at the expiration of his first five years' service he re-enlists, he gets a handsome bonus. If he enlists for a third period of five years he gets $19 a month in money.

"That is the cash part of it, but that is not half of what a man in the service gets. The government clothes his men in the very best style. It gives a marine a black helmet and a white one. These two are supposed to last for the period of enlistment, which is five years. There is no trouble about wearing them the length of time, as they are not often used. The marine also gets one undersack cap a year, which is all he needs. He also gets a storm cap each year. That makes 12 articles of head gear. The government clothes his men in the course of five years, and experience shows that that is quite sufficient. It is nearly three hats a year, and there are not many workmen who buy as many as that.

"The government also gets one full dress coat, which, as it is not frequently used, lasts five years very nicely. He receives a fatigue jacket each year and an overcoat. He gets eight pairs of blue trousers and eight pairs of linen ones in five years, and a pair of drawers each year. A man is careful he does not need that many. He is also supplied with 30 pairs of gloves for the five years. He gets two flannel overshirts each year. He also gets two undershirts and two pairs of drawers each year. He also gets four pairs of woolen socks and four pairs of cotton socks each year. He is supplied with three pairs of shoes each year and one pair of arctic shoes each year. He also gets a pair of gaiters during the term of service. He is also given 40 linen collars and three pairs of suspenders during the same length of time. That is the outfit in the way of clothing which the government gives each marine who goes to sea in Uncle Sam's service. These articles are all of first class material, and are very serviceable. There is no stint at all. There are a few articles, like neckties and handkerchiefs, which the marine must buy for himself.

"If a man is economical with his clothing, he can save fully one-half of the allowance which he gets, and if he saves any part of it he is allowed so much money for the clothing he does not take. He is allowed to keep the service today who are taking only about one-half of what the government allows, and at the end of their five years' service they will be paid in money for the clothes they did not take. The full amount of the clothing allowed to each man for five years is $108.

"The sleeping accommodations of the men are very good. While on shore duty they live in houses and have beds, but when they are on duty they sleep in hammocks which the government provides. The sleeping quarters, both on land and at sea, are clean and well ventilated. The food is all that a man needs. Sometimes the commissary is not well supplied with food, but the commissary can see that they can get a change if they take their complaints to the proper officer. The food is very good and of sufficient variety for any one.

"The men on shipboard also get all they need for free, and medical attendance costs them nothing.

"Now this is the pay a man gets as a marine in the navy. He is well clothed and well fed. He sleeps in a good bed and has a proper attention if he is sick and draws handsome wages in cash every month.

"His work is not at all burdensome. He has enough drill to keep him in the best physical condition and give his appetite a keen edge. He has plenty of amusement. On shore he can play billiards and pool free at the post, and he may enjoy all kinds of exercise in the gymnasium. The men play baseball, handball, football. They put the hammock and the hammock together just as much as the college boys. The government also has at each post and on shipboard a library and a reading room, where the men may entertain themselves with books and papers.

"Out of the wages the men must pay their barber and laundry bills, which together amount to about $2 a month.

"Besides this the marine is taken care of in his old age. If his life has been honorable, at the age of 70 years he may retire to the Marine's home, where he will have a room to himself, a good table, three suits of clothes a year, tobacco free and $2 a month. If he does not retire until after he has been married, he may take his wife with him, and he may have a good home, where he will have a room to himself, a good table, three suits of clothes a year, tobacco free and $2 a month.

"It will be seen that Uncle Sam is not niggardly in dealing with his men. If they do their duty, they receive good treatment, and are well fed and clothed, and draw all things considered, very fair pay."—New York Telegram.

For those who have no knowledge whatever of French the fashion magazines and the menu cards of restaurants are full of difficulties. When the stranger words are ventured upon it is with fear and trembling—which the result often justifies. The following is a short list of some of the most used and worst pronounced:

Chic (pronounced)—A small rooster. Chic (pronounced)—Intransigible, but perhaps "stylish" comes nearest to its fashion book meaning. In its own home the word is slang and considered vulgar. French ladies do not say "chic" any more, but they say "mouby"—which word is really its equivalent.
