COCKRAN ON SLAVEHOLDERS.

Will you submit to this conspiracy between the professional farmers, the farmers who cultivate the quails of their neighbors, farmers who labor with their jaws, Populist agitators of the West, and the unconquered slave-holders of the South?

DOCKERY DEFIANT.

The position assumed by Oliver H. Dockery in his Wadesboro speech adds another peculiar and interesting feature to the politics of this State in the present campaign.

MINOR MENTION.

We commented a couple of days ago on Senator Jeter Pritchard's sudden conversion to gold after having supported a couple of years or more as an advocate of free silver.

TWINKLINGS.

The business of egg candling, or egg testing, is not a look difficult and apparently requires no special talent.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure has done for me. For ten years I had pain in my heart, shortness of breath, palpitation, pain in my left side, oppressed feeling in my chest, weak and hungry spells, bad dreams, and a hazy vision.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.

Durham Sun: Miss Annie Dickinson died Thursday afternoon at 6.30 o'clock, of typhoid fever, at the residence of his father, W. A. Dickinson, on Wyatt street.

A very curious worm was on exhibition at Blackwell's drug store to-day. It is about six inches long, and is a formidable looking worm, too. It is green in color, has something resembling horns about the head and on the body.

During my stay abroad I had a conversation with a very distinguished member of the late Liberal Government, and he expressed a very hopeful opinion that the people of this country would not adopt the theories of the free silver party.

The question might naturally be asked why are these English gentlemen so anxious that the gold standard be maintained by this country? Isn't it because they think it will be better for England? If they thought it would be better for this country than for England would they desire to have it perpetuated, and isn't it because they think it will be better for England than for this country that they desire to have it perpetuated?

As I have said in my interview, why not let him have a talk with Hanna and find out the names of the men or corporations who or which paid William McKinley's debts?—New York Journal, Dem.

A syndicate of millionaires, headed by Mark Hanna, are preparing to expend hundreds of thousands of dollars in the approaching campaign for what purpose? To help the laboring men keep the farmers from bankrupting?—Birmingham Age Herald, Dem.

Between starvation wages on one side and exorbitant prices for food and clothing on the other, says a New York paper, "the working man is a helpless victim of the upper and nether mill stones." But how has he produced cheap food and has to pay high prices for clothes and everything else? That is the question with several million workmen in this campaign, and it requires answer.—Charleston News and Courier, Dem.

When people have not the money to pay low prices, it is a poor class of statesmanship that proposes to bring better times by raising the tariff, so that the manufacturer and merchant can charge higher prices. What good will a higher tariff and higher prices do if the people have not the money with which to buy?—Augusta Chronicle, Dem.

Mary—Has Maude's head been turned by that fortune she inherited? It is not only her nose, it has turned up about fifteen inches.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Committee man—I understand that when those fellows down at Hiker's station wanted to argue with you you dodged.

Campaign Orator—Had to. They wanted to argue with me.—Indianapolis Journal.

"You are a pretty boy," said the new Senator to the pig.

"Yes," said the boy, "I'm not a page of the Congressional Record, you know."—Harper's Bazar.

"I suppose now that you will be going home to your mother in the morning?"

"I just won't. I have tried that and it doesn't seem to do any good. I am going to bring mother here this time."—Boston Globe.

Tenderfoot—I can't understand the epithet on this tombstone. It says: "He talked Hissel to Death." How's that?

Bronco Pete—"That's right. He called Alkali like a liar."—Chicago Tribune.

"My friend," said the traveller, "have you a knife about you?"

"Naw, but you'll find a fork in the road yander."

"You're bright, ain't you?"

"Naw, I'm Brown."—Atlanta Constitution.

Of all the shavings of the world the shavings of Persia are said to possess the largest treasure in jewels and gold ornaments, it being valued at $60,000,000. The chief object of value is the old crown of Persian rulers, in the form of a pot of flowers, which is surmounted by an uncut ruby the size of a hen's egg. The diamonds in another symbol of his rank are said to weigh almost 20 pounds. There is also a jeweled saber, valued at $1,000,000, another thing that the shah prizes is a silver vase ornamented with 100 emeralds, whose equals, it is said, are not to be found in the world. In the collection there is a cube of amber which tradition says fell from heaven in the days of Mohammed and insures the possessor against bodily harm.
