INJUNCTION DISSOLVED.

Judge Simonton Dismissed the Bill to Prevent Railroads Cutting Rates-The Court Had No Jutisdiction. By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHARLESTON, S. C., August 31 .-Judge C. H. Simonton this morning filed his decision in the famous railroad injunction case. It will be remembered that the Court issued a temporary injunction against the Seaboard Air Line and the Southern States Freight Association prohibiting them from cutting rates or from continuing the war in which they were engaging. The case was heard at Greenville August 15th and attracted attention throughout the country. In the decision just filed Judge Simonton discusses the bill. The arguments at the hearing of the case were restricted to the jurisdiction of the Court. In closing his decision Judge Simonton said: "The temptation to enter upon the decision of the interesting points involved is very great, but there seems to be no escape from the conclusion reached. The limited jurisdiction of the Court stops us at the threshold. It is ordered that the temporary restraining order heretofore in force be dissolved and that the bill be dismissed, each party paying his own costs." NEW YORK, August 31 .- President Spencer, of the Southern Railway says I am just advised that the injunction against the cutting of rates has been dissolved and the bill dismissed by Judge Simonton in the case of Receiver Averill of the Port Royal and Augusta against the other railroads. It, is impossible to say now what will follow. Everything depends upon what action the S. A. L. will take. If they again make wholesale reductions in rates, the other lines will no doubt arrange for an immediate meeting to determine what can best be done to conserve the revenues of lines in southern territory.
