COCKRAN ON SLAVEHOLDERS. -- Will you submit to this conspiracy between the professional farmers. the farmers who cultivate the quarrels of their neighbhrs, farmers who labor with their jaws, Populist agitators of the West, and the unreconciled slave-holders of the South? This is a conspiracy between professional farmers, who want to pay low wages, and the unreconciled slave-holders, who would like to pay no wages at all. - (Extract from the speech of Bourke Cockran, delivered in New York August 18th.)

THE HOME MARKET.

In his letter of acceptance Mr. McKinley laid great stress upon the more truth it might have been "home market" which would supply farmers with consumers to buy the reform, for which the Democratic products of the farm, and thus bring prosperity to them. It is not more silver we need, according to him, but more mills, the opening of the mills, he would have us understand. which were closed by the Wilson

Mr. McKinley is neither truthful nor honest in his statement, for as a lit in a most offensive way. Hon. matter of fact many mills were started up after the passage of the Wilson bill which had been closed since the financial and business collapse of 1893, and another fact is that under the Wilson law there has been an increase of $70,-000,000 in our manufactured exports over the corresponding period under the McKinley law. Under the stimulus of free raw material or of material on which the duties were materially reduced, the factories started up and rushed things until they overstocked the market and then they had to contract the output. In the meantime they exported more than they ever did before in the same period, showing that under the Wilson law, with untaxed or less taxed raw material, they could compete with foreign manufacturers, with whom they had not been able to compete under previous Republi-

One reason, and the principal reason, why they overstocked the mar- tration, in the Sound Money State ket was because the low prices of firm products crippled the capacity of the tarmers to buy, the consequence of which was that they bought less and the manufacturer fire both barrels at the unmistakable suffered. It was not the Wilson tariff, which Mr. McKinley ealls free trade in a "modified form," but the stringency of money which prevented the free and profitable sale of manufactures that caused depression in the manufacturing industries.

But Mr. McKinley is still playing the "home market" fake on the farmers, or trying to play it, as it has been played by the high protectionist for years. Mr. Blaine wasn't banking so much on the home market, which is a very good thing, for he told the committee when they were laboring on the bill which bore Mr. McKinley's name, that there wasn't a clause in it that would "open a market for another bushel of American wheat or barrel of pork." Yielding to his energetic persistence they finally added a reciprocity supplement more with the or pork. We tried under McKinleyism and previous Republican tariffs the advantages of the so-called home market, which has always proved a delusion and a snare to the American farmer. In verity the home market which the protectionists have in their eye is the monopolistic home market the protected manufacturers will have when foreign manufacturers are practically excluded, and the home manufacturers have nothing to fear from foreign competition.

and manufacture only so much as may be profitably disposed of; but the farmer cannot do that. He plants, sows and reaps and cannot tell what the harvest will be until he gathers or reaps. If the crop be small the prices may be high, but he may not have enough to pay him for his work and investment, but if his crop be large then there will be a surplus for which he must seek a market in other countries. There he must find sale for the surplus that the home market cannot consume. Haven't we had for thirty-odd years, with the exception of the time in which the Wilson tariff has been in operation, this so called "home market"? If not, why not? And with thirtyodd years of this kind of ne plus ultra market shouldn't the farmers of this country be pretty well fixed and pretty well able to stand a little setback from the Wilson tariff, which Mr. McKinley seriously tells us played the mischief? We are not disposed to understimate the importance of the home market for it is a good and should be our best market, and with our 70,-000,000 of people it ought to be able to consume all our farmers raise and leave but little if any surplus for shipment abroad. But it can never do this while enterprise and development are cramped for want of a sufficiently expansive volume of currency, and while a comparatively small number of men can control the volume of money we have and contract or expand it as their interests may dictate and thus affect the value of everything bought or sold. We want a home market, but a home market with the shackles off, a home market in which every one will have a chance, not a home market for the benefit of the favored manufacturer, in which every one else will have to pay tribute to him. We tried that kind of a home market for thirty years and we fail to see where any one but the protected manufacturer was benefitted by it. It is late in the day for Mr. McKinley to be playing that old fake.

MINOR MENTION. One of the accusations made against the free silver movement is that it is sectional and that the effect to pay debts. That's all the Govif not purpose is to array the South ernment can do for any money. and the West against the East. With equal propriety and infinitely alleged that the movement for tariff party was contending for years, was a sectional movement because most of the beneficiaries of a high protec. tive tariff were in the East, while most of those who suffered by it were in other sections. But these gentlemen who deprecate making sectional issues are themselves doing Bourke Cockran, who poses as a Democrat, had the ineffable meanness to charge that the silver movement was mainly supported by "repudiating farmers of the West" and "unrecconciled silver holders of the South" Mr. McKinley in his letter of acceptance appeals to the soldiers who "saved the Union," and ex-President Harrison in his speech at Carnegie Hall, New York, declared that the fight now was to preserve what was won by the Federal armies which fought for the preservation of the Union. This is not his exact language, but it is the substance of what he sald on the sectional line. They both appealed to the memories of the past, and tried to stir up the almost extinguished embers of the war. But the meanest and most malignant utterance yet made in this campaign on the sectional line is the following from a speech of Hon. Don M. Dickinson, ex-Postmaster General, under Cleveland's first adminis-

Convention, at Lansing, Mich : "It is not embarrassing at all, as you suggest, to be mentioned by my fellow Democrats, but in this State my present belief is, as you know, that we should enemies of the republic. A certain half dozen unreconstructed adherents of treason in the South, defuding and betraying their people for the second time. have made an alliance with the enemies of honor, law, and order at the North.

"They mean not only the reorganization, enlargement, and packing of the Supreme Court of the United States but also the reorganization, enlargement. and packing of the United States army, They mean more and worse evil than is in the Chicago platform, bad as that is, This republic is not a failure any more than the war was in 1864, but the threat is more menacing to all that we ove in this country of ours than that of Doesn't talk about sectionalism come with poor grace from such firebrands as these?

If there ever was any doubt as to the motive that inspired the movement for the Indianapolis convenview of placating Mr. Blaine than of tion, there is not now, for it has been opening a market to American wheat | admitted by a number of the most prominent leaders in that movement. Ex-Secretary Fairchild, ex-Secretary Whitney, Hon. Don M. Dickinson, ex-Minister Phelps, Hon. Bourke Cockran, Hon. Henry Watterson, Senator Vilas, Senator Palmer, Gen. Bragg, Secretary Morton, and last but not least, Comptroller Eckels, all admit that it is the purpose to take votes away from Bryan, and thus aid in the election of McKinley, and the restoration of the Republican party to power. Whatever they may protess they are sim-The home market is a good thing ply assistant Republicans, performfor them, for they can gauge their ing in disguise as Democrats. Mr. output in proportion to the demand | Cooley, one of the delegation to Indianapolis from Tennessee, who was exceedingly anxious to have Cleveland nominated, gave as a reason for it that his nomination would "add several hundred thousand votes to the ticket in the South that would otherwise go to Bryan." Mr. Cooley coolly proposes to utilize Mr. Cleveland's name and prestige and his supposed popularity to help Mr. McKinley, for Mr. Cooley has not the remotest idea that Mr. Cleveland, if nominated, could be elected. And these men have the audacity to call themselves Democrats and to ask Democrats to co-operate with them in the effort to elect McKinley. What amazing cheek.

The only guarantee they have is the resolution of the Congress of the United States known as the Stanley Matthews resolution declaring that the Government had the moral and legal right to redeem its obligations in silver dollars, of standard weight and fineness, and the declaration in the Sherman act that it is the policy of this Government to maintain its different kinds of money at a parity. The only authority for discriminating against silver is in the arbitrary declsion of Secretary Foster to pay gold instead of silver, under the pre tence that this was the way to "maintain the parity." The stamp of the Government on the face of silver coin is its guarantee that it will take it and pay it out and that it is good

- Durham Sun: Rev. Dr. J. B Bobbitt, one of the best known ministers of the Methodist denomination in the State, died at his home in Raleigh this morning at 12 30 o'clock. He had been an invalid for five years with a complication of asthma and other diseases.

- Washington Progress : As the train on the Norfolk & Southern Railroad was running between Roper and Pantego about 12 o'clock Thursday night, it ran over a white man by the name of Herrington, killing him instantly. It is supposed that he was drunk and laid down on the track to sleep as a bottle of whiskey was found in his pocket. -- Greenville Reflector: The negro

Koonce, who was outlawed in Beaufort county and who caused Deputies Rumley and Thompson such trouble at James City a few weeks ago, was arrested not far from Grindool, in this county, on Friday hight. The was shot twice with a gun before he surrendered. There was much excitement when he was taken to Washington and jailed

- Charlotte News: Bertha Pruett, aged 17, occupied a cell in the station house this morning. She is from Cherryville, and was arrested on the arrival of the 8 10 train at the Carolina Central depot last night, on a telegram sent by her father, Mr. J. Pruett. He said in his telegram that he wanted her arrested for stealing $75. She is a very handsome girl, of the blond type, and made no objection to the arrest. She bitterly denied having stolen any money. The officers locked her up to await the arrival of her father. She says she just wanted to get away from home.

- Salisbury World: The citizens of Salisbury were shocked last night to hear of the death of Mrs. R. J. Holmes, which occurred at Connelly Springs last evening about 7.30 o'clock. For several years Mrs. Holmes has been subject to heart trouble, but her general health had been better than usual recently. -Mrs. J. L. Wright died last night at 10 o'clock. For some time Mrs. Wright has been in failing health, but even those who who nearest her and cherished her most dearly in her declining days had no thought that the end was so near. Sunday she spent the day with her son, R. L. Wright, and seemed as bright as usual.

CURRENT COMMENT.

- Major McKinley could not let go of his tariff hobby, and embarrassed the assistant Republicans who are masquerading as "sound money" Democrats .- Cincinnati En-

-- "Not content with urging the free coinage of silver," said Mr. McKinley, in his letter of acceptance, "its strongest champions demand that our paper money shall be issued directly by the Government of the United States" Shocking! By the way, who issues the bulk of our paper money now ?-New York Journal, Dem.

- McKinley stands for gold monometallism: Bryan stands for the coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the people are sitting as the jury. When a lawver has neither law nor evidence on his side he tries bullyragging and blackguarding the opposing counsel. The advocates of the gold standard are now trying this programme on Bryan but he grows stronger with the people all the time, and their verdict will be the most convincing answer to all the mean things that are being said .- Augusta Chronicle,

Telegraph Lines. A German expert, after a careful estimate, has announced that the total length of telegraph lines in the world is 1,062,700 miles, of which America has 545,600 miles; Europe, 380,700; Asia, 67,400; Africa, 21,500, and Australia, 47,500 miles. The United States has a greater length than any other country, 403,900 miles, and Russia comes next. although European Russia has only 81, 000 miles. The other countries follow in this order: Germany, France, Austria-Hungary, British India, Mexico, the United Kingdom, Canada, Italy, Turkey, the Argentine Republic, Spain and Chile. In point of proportion, however, Belgium leads, with 409 miles of wire for every 1,000 square miles of territory; Germany comes next with 350 miles; Holland is only slightly behind Germany, and the United Kingdom has 280 miles of telegraph for every 1,000 miles

"The Barber of Seville." "The Barber of Seville," the famous opera of Rossini, was produced for the first time on Feb. 16, 1816. According to the Italian law, which fixes the duration of the right of ownership for dramat ic works at 80 years, Rossini's masterpiece would have become public property a few weeks ago. But in Italy no opera is more popular than "The Barber," and the revenues from its production constitute almost the whole income of the musical academy at Pesaro, Italy, the residuary legatee of the composer. Owing to this fact, the government has issued a decree prolonging the right of proprietorship two years in order to save the institution financially.
