GRAIN AND PROVISIONS. Wheat, Corn and Oats Closed Righer But

Markets Were Not Active-Lard Unchanged-Ribs a Shade Lower. By Telegraph to the Morning Star CHICAGO. November 2.-Higher prices for wheat were in favor to-day. Although an advance of 21/2 was recorded for the day, it was nevertheless not an active market in the strict sense of the term. What the election would bring forth was the question and a great many traders loaded up in the hope that a boom would follow the announcement of the name of the winning candidate for President. The market received its first encouragement from Liverpool, from where 16 %d advance was reported at the opening. The closing prices at that place was even better, 20 21d gain over Saturday being quoted. Routine news had practically no effect, a slight reaction followed by a full recovery succeeding the posting of an in-crease of 1,395 000 bashels in the visible supply. December wheat opened from 7816781c. sold between 7816 and 75c, closing at 74%@75c-21/c higher than Saturday. Cash wheat was strong and 1%@2c higher. Corn rose in price a little, the only explanation for the advance being the stronger wheat market. May corn opened at 28%c, advanced to 29%c, closing at 291/ @291/c-1/c higher than Saturday. Cash corn was stronger and Mc higher.

Oats-The market was lamentably dull. May oats closed 1/6 1/5c higher than Saturday. Cash oats were strong early, but later lost their vim and closed only steady.

Provisions-A stronger hog market gave a lift at the opening, but free offerings and a limited demand soon resulted in an easier feeling and lower prices. Trade was moderately active. January pork closed 21/2c higher; January lard unchanged, and January ribs a shade lower.

Democrats Claim Seventy Thousand i rity in the State. By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

ST. Louis. November 2.-Never before has Missouri been so thoroughly canvassed and campaigned. The registration is the highest ever known and the vote will certainly pass all records. The Republicans have fought hard and aggressively and their claim of a coming victory is not campaign bravado, but is born of confidence. The Democrats, aroused from apathy by the vigorous front of their opponents, have set their squadrons in every school district and feel assured of vic-The Republicans are strongly abetted by the Palmer and Buckner Dem ocrats, while Bryan will receive the united support of the Populisis and the straight and shape, bearing the names of Mc-Democrats. The only development Kinley and McCool, the Republican to day was charges and counter-charge by both parties of intended fraud. BALTIMORE, November 2.—Louis McLane, chairman of the committee with which a majority of the common stock of the Seaboard & Roanoke Railroad Company is pooled, has addressed a circular letter to the stockholders officially announcing that Thos. F. Ryan, of New York, and associates have proposed to purchase the stock pooled under the agreement of October 2d at $125 a share in cash. This removes all doubt as to the price agreed upon. It is believed that the transaction will be closed by the middle of the month.

THE PEARL BRYAN MURDER. Signs Pointing to a Confession by Jackson and Walling.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. COVINGTON, KY., November 9.-Signs are pointing to a confession by Jackson and Walling,or at least to a getting at the truth of the murder of Pearl Bryan. For two weeks Jackson and Walling have been kept in separate cells, and a bitterness is growing up between them. Yes-terday Walling said to Turnkey Muerier, 'Why should I be punished for a crime I did not commit? I did not murder Pearl Bryan. Jackson is the man who cut her head off."

CLOSED HIS CAMPAIGN.

BRYAN'S TOUR THROUGH THE STATE OF NEBRASKA.

Addresses Made at Many Places to Large and Enthusiastic Audiences—His Speech at Lincoln to a Large Gathering of His Towaspeople.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. LINCOLN, NEB., Nov. 2 .- William] Bryan began the closing day of his memorable tour early this morning. He has said frequently in his speeches that he would be found preaching the doctrines contained in the Chicago platform up to the very eve of election, and today saw the fulfillment of that promise, A special train, to which was attached the private car "Idler," the one in which Mr. Bryan has travelled for a month, left the Burlington station here at 6.45 this morning for the final journey of the Democratic candidate pefore election day. Mr. and Mrs. Bryan, with a number of the national nominee's Nebraska supporters, occupied the "Idler," while others of lesser note were on board another coach. Chairman lames T. Daniman and James O'Shea, of the State Central Committee, were in charge of the trip. Among others on board were George E. Hibner, George W. Berge, Col. L. C. Pace and William M. Morning, all Silver Republicans, who dropped off at specified places along the route to make speeches in support of Bryan and the State fusion ticket.

AURORA, NEB, November 9.—Several hundred people were waiting in the crisp morning air at the Burlington station is Lincoln to see the candidate off.
They cheered when Mr. and Mrs.
Bryan with their little daughter Grace, who wil make the trip with them, appeared, and sent up parting shout as the train moved off. A more beautiful day could not have been selected, for the day was clear. The sun was bright and the atmosphere had a crispness that made one feel good. At the very first stopping place Mr. Bryan was reminded that the opponents of the Chicago ticket in his own State were active. This was at Seward, reached at 7.85 o'clock. Gold badges were displayed there in large numbers, but Mr. Bryan was not interrupted in his fifteen-minutu speeches. The Republicans had also arranged a counter display at York Yellow ribbons were very noticeable there among the crowd of two thousand but did not number in their wearers more than a sixth of the entire audience The cheering was very hearty when Mr. Bryan ascended the platform erected for speaking purposes. It was intermingled with some shouts for McKinley. Mr. Bryan said some of the people out in Nebraska seemed to be very much afraid that it wou'd become popular to have a President from the West. He could not understand how a farmer could be in favor of the gold standard, and went on to tell his reasons for making the statement, substantially as in his previous speeches. It was very evident that the Repub-lican State Committee had been as active at Aurora in the distribution of yellow ribbons as it had been at Seward and York. Badges of similar design candidate for Governor of Nebraska, were worn at all three places.

A couple of thousand people gath ered to hear Mr. Bryan at Aurora, where he spoke from a stand erected in an open field. Considerable cheering for McKinley was interjected with the enthusiasm of the Bryanites.

The extreme westernmost point of his ong campaign tour was reached by Mr. Bryan at Grand Island, whence he turned eastward again and returned to Aurora, on his way to Hastings. Grand Island furnished the largest crowd of the day up to that time. It was a gath ering composed largely of farmers, and although the town is considered a Republican stronghold, the audience was plainly in sympathy with the Demo-cratic candidate. The display of Mc-Kinley McCool badges was not as large proportionately as at the other places mentioned. Mr. Bryan spoke from a stand erected in a field, occupying most of the half-hour stop in his address. At LINCOLN, November 2.- A keen east wind blew fiercely through the ranks of those who gathered to hear Mr. Bryan at Hastings. It was there that the Democratic candidate crossed the path of John P. Irish, his old opponent in pint debate, who is campaigning on the trail of the Democratic candidate through Nebraska. Col. Irish reached Hastings on his special train just before Mr. Bryan left that place, and the Republican meeting began when the silver meeting was over. People had gathered from far and near to hear the nominee. Ten thousand of them, mostly farmers, made up the assemblage that greeted with wild cheers his appearance on a temporary stand. The audience was plainly in sympathy with his views and showed its intensity of partisan feeling in shrill shouts. Gold badges were few and far between. White ribbons bearing the word "Bryan" in two inch letters an enthusiastic throng and it heard one of the principal speeches of the day.

Stops of five and six minutes only were made by the candidate's train at towns and villages between Hastings and Lincoln, with the exception of Crete. where ten minutes were spent. Harward, Saxonville, Sutton and Grafton turned out good sized crowds. About a thousand people, with a sprinkling of orange among them, were at each of the two last named places, and hearty shouts were given for Mr. Bryan. As the train drew out of Sutton, a number of small men, women and children. It was truly boys ran after it, shouting for McKinley at the top of their voices. Mr. Bryan started to speak from the rear platform of the "Idler" at Fair-mount, where a crowd of 2,000 awaited him, but one of the local reception comhim, but one of the local reception committee persuaded him to make his address from the more preferable temporary stand, about which most of the throng had gathered. "It's the worst Republican hole in the country; you must go," said the committeeman, and Mr. Bryan went. A brief speech, that was almost fierce in its delivery, was made by the candidate at Exeter. The line of demarkation between his supporters and the opponents there was well defined. To his left were the people wearing white badges inscribed "Bryan"; to his right, a strong display of

Mr. Bryan talked a minute or two to those whose ribbons showed their interest in his cause, and then turned quickly to the people whose breasts bore evidence of sympathy in another direction. To these he said that in voting for a gold standard they forgot the feeling of pride that must come to every American in reading the pages of history devoted to the revolutionary

Emphasizing his words with vigorous gestures, he told them in a voice almost fierce in passionate feeling, that unless they wanted their children to feel the blush of shame for the action of their so far as I am personally confathers, they should not vote for a policy that allowed American finances to be dominated by foreign influences. Mr. Bryan's remarks worked his followers up to a high state of enthusiasm and they yelled with might and main. The tered through the crowd of 1,800 people at Friend. The 16 to 1 girls were there also, and assisted in the cheering that also, and assisted in the cheering that punctuated Mr. Bryan's remarks. Three hundred composed the crowd at Dorchester, which also provided seventeen of its buds for the ratio tableaux. Crete was familiar ground for the candidate. He had held a joint debate on the money question at the Chatauqua there with Col. Irish, just before the Chicago Convention, and on that occasion and other with had become acquainted with the visits, had become acquainted with the people. About fifty small boys, wearing broad ribbons of vellow, ran down the track to meet the train, giving shrill pronunciation to Maj. McKinley's name. More of them gathered around the train when it halted. A number of men and women wore the Republican color, but they were in the minority with those who displayed the white. With Mr. Bryan playing centre-rush in the flying wedge, formed by those who accompanied him, a way was made through the crowd to the adjacent base ball grounds, where the greater number of his supporters were gathered. His ten minutes speech was received with every mark of favor. At 5 o'clock the candidate's special pulled out for Lincoln, fifteen minutes late. His home city of Lincoln gave its final hearty ratification of William Jennings Bryan's candidacy during the brief halfhour he spent there this evening on his passage through this place to Omaha from his Nebraska campaign trip. Just before 6 o'clock when the sun was disappearing beyond the prairie horizon line, his special train reached Burlington station. The Travelling Men's Silver Club, the Bryan Home Guards. the Mary Bryan Club composed of women, men on horseback and several organizations composed the procession that esthe Lincoln hotel. There was nothing to mar the demonstration given Lincoln's most noted citizen. It was hearty and sincere and the candidate showed his appreciation in his speech. Mr. Bryan needed no in roduction. In the course of his remarks he reiterated the statement, made just after his nomination that if elected he would not be a candidate for a second term. It was his principal closing speech of the campaign and was delivered in a clear, strong voice that reached every person in the audience. He said: "Ladies and Gentlemen-This is the last opportunity that I shall have to address the people of Lincoln before they sit in judgment upon the issues presented in this campaign. To morrow will decide the financial policy of this nation for the next four years at least. Three national parties placed in my hands the standard upon which was written, 'Free and unlimited coinage of si ver at 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation. (Great applause and cheering.) For three months I have done what I could to present this question to the people and I have travelled from Nebraska to the Atlantic, and everywhere I have preached the same doctrine and advocated the same principles. (Applause and cheers.) Everywhere I have found those who believe with us and the zeal of the bimetallists who live along the eastern coast is as great as the zeal of the bimetallists of Nebraska. (Applause and

"They called it a sectional question when we began, but they have found out that it is not a sectional question. It is a power and the common people of all this country. (Applause)

"The Republican party started out to make the tariff question an issue in this campaign, but If you will go among any group of persons where politics is discussed, you will find what a failure they have made in getting the tariff question into the campaign. (Applause.)
"You can see how the campaign has been conducted. The Republicans have not dared to advocate the gold standard as a good thing, because their platform pledges the Republican party to get rid of it as soon as other nations will help. But as they are not able to openly ad vocate the gold standard, they help the bolting Democrats who can preach what the Republicans do not dare to preach, and they answer the same purpose. (Great applause and cheers.) "The syndicates which have been selling bonds for the Government are against me; but, my friends, they have least four thousand people heard him reason to be, because if I am elected they and the cheering was trequent, will no longer bleed the American people. (Continued applause.) They say that the corporations are against us. Yes, many of them are, and they have reason to be, because we believe that the corporation is a creature of the law. and that the Government which created it is still greater than the corporation and should compel it to obey the law. (Great applause and continued cheering.) We have felt the influence of some of these corporations. We know what it is to have them say to men who are with us, that if they vote our ticket they must be discharged and lose their bread and butter. (Continued applause.) "My friends, they know that if we succeed in this campaign there will be egislation which will punish the man who attempts to deprive another of citizenship. (Applause) "They tell us that the national banks are against us. Yes, some of them are, because, my friends, we believe that the greenback, as we have it to-day, is better than to retire the greenback and issue bonds and give the banks the benefit of interest. (Applause)

"My friends, we have found men advocating honest money, who were so afraid of paying their debts in dollars that were not honest, that in order to avoid all possibility of a mistake. they have refused to pay their debts at all. (Laughter and great applause) We stand in this campaign for a reversal of the financial policy which has cursed this country for twenty years. We are in favor of restoring the gold and silver coinage of the Constitution. We are in favor of having an American financial policy for the American people. (Applause and cheers.) We do not expect the support of those who doubt the ability of the American people to attend to their own business. (Applause and cheers) We do not expect the support of those who have more faith in foreign financiers than they have in our own people. We do not expect the support of those who would rather trust the destinies of 70,000,000 of Americans to a few foreigners than trust the destinies of our people in their own hands. (Great cheering.) But, my friends, while we have against us many of these influences which are considered great and potent, we have on our side those who believe in the old fashioned idea of government-that it should grant equal rights to all and special privileges to none. (Applause.) My friends, to-morrow is the day when by your ballot you decide the Government under which you desire to live. If you desire a Government of syndicates, by syndicates and for syndicates, you have a right to it and you can cast your influence with those who are against us. (Applause.) If you still believe in the Government that Jefferson advocated, cerned this election will simply determine whether I shall remains a private citizen or occupy the most exalted position within the power of man to confer upon a fellow man. It will de-termine whether I shall remain with you to uphold as best I can the hand of the Pures they yelled with might and main. The sixteen young men on white horses and their companion on a dun animal became so filled with the spirit of the speech that they deserted the seventeen young ladies who composed the female exemplification of the silver rallying cry, and dashed after the train shouting like mad for the Democastic candidate.

my sincerity when I say so. (Applause and cries of 'We do.') I believe and cries of 'We do.') I believe that the office is attended with duties so great, with responsibilities so heavy, that the man who occupies it ought to have no personal ambitton be-yond proving himself worthy of the con-fidence of those who elect him. (Great cheering.) If elected, I shall consecrate four years of my life to the service of my country, feeling that when that is done all is done in the way of honor that can be done, and then I shall rejoice again to be a private citizen in this nation. where to be a citzen is greater than to be a king. (Great applause)

"My friends, I remember that when little less than twenty years ago I returned to this city after completing four years in Congress, you met me and extended to me a welcome which touched my heart; and I want to say to you that nothing you can do in the future can withdraw from me what you done in the past, turn against me if like, but my friends, you can never undo what you have already done, nor can you take from me the feeling of gratitude which I entertain towards those whose kindness and confidence first gave me an opportunity to become interested in public questions, the kindness and confidence of those who enabled me to begin the great fight in which I am now engaged (Applause) My friends, I want you to believe me when I say that I have enjoyed the opportunity of defending bimetallism because I believe it is a righteous cause, and I want you to believe that I would rather stay among you as a private citizen and be permitted still to raise my voice against what I conceive to be a crime against the human race than to enjoy all the honors in Christendom, if I had to join in the conspiracy. (Great applause and cheering.) And now, let me ask you that you who are interested in the result shall lose no effort to have the vote recorded tomorrow exactly as the people desire to vote. I am seeking no involuntary support. I have said, and I repeat, that ! do not want a vote unless there is be hind the vote the heart of the person who casts the vote. (Great applause). The work which lies before a President who goes into office with the desire to reform a financial policy and to drive the trust and syndicates from this land, will be hard enough if he is supported by the people; his work would be impossible if he were not supported by them. (Great cheering and applause.) I want you, if you are in sarnest, to give us a Senate and Congress, as well as an electoral vote. (Cries of 'We'll do that.') If you are in earnest want your earnestness to be maniested in a clean sweep; and then, my riends, if by the suffrage of my counrymen I am made their chief executive will promise you that no power in this country or in any foreign land will prevent the restoration of the money of the constitution among our people." (Tremendous cheering and great applause) Three stops were made by Mr. Bryan's pecial on the run from Lincoln to maha. They were Greenwood, Ashand and Gretna, and at each the candilate was enthusiastically greeted.

SPOTS AND FUTURES. New York's Sun's Review of the Cotton Market.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK. November 3.- The Sun says: Spot cotton advanced 1-16c. Liverpool was unchanged on the spot, with sales of 15,000 bales; futures there advanced one half to one and a half points. The port receipts were 59.966 bales; exports approximated 67,000 bales. Futures here advanced three to nine points, but reacted, closing steady at a net advance of three to four points, with sales of 166,500 bales. Sentiment was the principal factor in the speculation to-day ands a the sentiment was bullish, prices advanced. Fall river advances were cheerful. Manchester sent favorable reports. Liverpool was higher, with a good demand for spot cotton; shorts covered, the exports from the ports were heavy, and generally higher spot mar-kets in this country contributed to strength of the tone. Part of the improvement was lost before the close on realizing sales, but the tone of the market was firm. Silver declined 16c here.
