Half Holidays.

Thursday's excursionists taxed the capacity of the boarding houses no littie. A good many who could get no place to sleep, had started out to spend the night sitting up in front of the Bonits house. One finally stretched out across the floor of the office, while six others, three on a side, pillowed their heads on his body, and all slept soundly till morning.

One of our liberal hearted business men expresses his willingness, if others would do so, of observing the weekly half-holiday through the entire year, as, he says, his clerks need the rest and recreation and he would get better service from them, while they, feeling that their employers were more interested in CHRISTIAN EDUCATION.

Rev. Dr. Kilgo's Lecture at Grace M. Church Lest Evening.

D., President of Trinity College, and one of the champions of Christian education. greeted a large audience at 8.15 o'clock last night from the rostrum of Grace - See in the commercial columns M. E. church. His hearers were in the main such as coincided with him in his views, but there were some-not very many-upon whom the artillery of the worthy Doctor's logic and the fires of his eloquence were quite useless. They held opinions altogether the reverse of his, and while they granted his eloquence they were sure that if his logic was good his premises were wrong.

The congregation sang "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," and Rev. G. L. Fisch led in prayer. The Rev. R A. With introduced Dr. Kilgo as a recognized leader in the movement for Christian education. hind-foot saved the day and the cash

Dr. Kilgo said that he was gratified to be able to speak to the audience upon a subject-that of "Christian Education"-which must occupy and will occupy the minds of many people until they come to a proper solution of the question involved. Christianity is not an ordinary reli gion, and Christian faith is not an ordinary impulse It is the final religion. and carries in it every issue of life. This makes it the awfullest body of truth known to men, and gives it the absolute spirited that Gilloway from the claim upon human thought. If Chris-

Education should aim to elevate the buman race and fit it for all the relations possible to it. On this position think I will find universal agreement. But when it is attempted to analyze the proposition, it is apparent at once that it is not a fundamental truth. By what means is the race to be elevated? What are the possible relations of man, and how is he best fitted for them?

There are those who claim that education is all important-the primary factor in human development. It is not There is always a doctrine of life that is more fundamental and which gives shape expected to-day. Mr. A. H. Brenner to all educational aims and methods. Bewill be the consignee. Two bales of wond this idea no education can go, and new cotton came in last year on the for it will all education exist. In Sparta the State was the supreme idea; in Athens, art. in Rome, government; in America citizenship in Scotland, reli-

There is something of truth in the idea that education is the primary factor in human development, but it is a dangerous half truth. It fails to settle anything. If education is to elevate the race, what fundamental doctrine of the race is to determine its methods?

This is and has been the question at issue in the educational history of the centuries; it has been, and is still, a struggle between religion and human philosophies to fix this primary doctrine

But to-night we are concerned about Christian education, or an education that is limited to the doctrines taught by Christ. Christian education is essentially and radically distinct. If it is not so, if there is not such a thing as Christian education. then there is no Christian church, no Christian Sunday school, no Christian Bibie, and you might as well take your boy out of the Sunday school and come out the church yourself. It is necessary to call attention to some of the false notions of Christian education. There is a class of men who have little sympathy with it, but at the same time are forced to patronize it, and it is not surprising that they should interpret it as a meaningless farce.

Christian education is not to be confounded with moral education. Morality moves on an entirely different basis. Christian education is not being educated in the neighborhood of piety or under Christian inflaences. Nor must it be confounded with an occasional companionship with members of the church. Companionship with Pythagoras or Newton would never have made a mathematician of a man. The donation of a B.ble on graduation day is not enough to meet the claims of Christ. There is so much of downright religious stupidity. For how much are we indebted to Christianity? It has redeemed the home and revealed the child life. Search Shakespeare for a trace of the child and won will look in vain, but look into the Book of books for the best portraits of childbood. What a calamity if this treasury of truth and purity is snatched by the ruthless hands of the scheming politician. Woman owes all she is to Christianity. Compare the situation of woman in Christian countries with ber situation in India China Persia and what was her situation in Sparta? Nine hundred and ninety-nine of the women of our land who hold college diplomas hold them from Christian schools and colleges.

The speaker had recently seen figures North and South Carolina, spending showing how grossly illiterate the peohalf of his time in one State and half in ple of North Carolina arc. And so they are, but illiteracy is not the sole or the main cause of crime. A negro is never an Anarchist. It is the shrewd, well-educated man that wrecks a bank or plots against his government. Illiteracy is not the cause of crime nor education its cure.

Shall the doctrines of Christ be the fundamental aim of an education?

and an expulsion of it from education. Italy was deluged in an infidelity and vice from which it has never recovered. In Germany the renaissance was controlled for religious ends, and out of it influences that have ever cursed a nation. Are you ready to take Jesus Christ out of education after you owe him for everything that elevates, ennobles and purifies in education? People talk of a Christian State. If they mean a State in which we are alowed to pray without being hung, then China is as good as America. If they mean a State whose ethics are the ethics of Christ, then bar-rooms, Sabbath trains and divorce laws dispute the profes-

Christian education is the inculcation of the doctrines of Christ as the final doctrines of life. A college that does not teach the Bible as the sopremest text book does not give Christian education any more than a Sunday school that teaches Hostetter's almanac gives Christian education.

The foregoing synopsis is only a very ceble effort to show the line of thought pursued. Like all synopses, it does the speaker an injustice. Dr. Kilgo is an elequent speaker, but the charm of his eloquence is best felt by those who sit under the sound of his voice.

There was not quite so much of the humorous in the address as one might have expected from the Doctor's wellknown ability as a mirth producer, but the address was enlivened here and there with flashes of humor and drollery that were very delightful. His enucciation is perfect and while his voice is not penetrating except in highly wrought periods, it has a volume that carries it to every part of an auditorium.

He received a most cordial welcome here. The Methodists here as elsewhere in the State are very proud of him and the work he is doing for Trinity College, and very many, though not all of them endorse his views on Christian educa tion. And he is as fond of Methodists as they are of him. Towards the close of his remarks he paid a most glowing tribute to Methodism. "If I hadn't been well grounded in the Methodist belief." he said. "I shouldn't have married a Baptist wife."

In conversation with a STAR representative yesterday. Dr. Kilgo said that the prospects before Trinity College and particularly in the coming session, are very flattering. The principles of Christian education are getting promulated far and wide, he says. A visit to the western part of the State revealed to him that the mountaineers are thinking about the different kinds of education, and are grasping the distinctive principles which sets Christian education apart from all other systems of training.

An alumni association of Christian college men is an organization that Dr. Kilgo would like to see effected, and believes would be of great service in working for the common end to which all the colleges are looking. Craduates of Trinity, Wake Forest, Davidson, and other Christian colleges could through such an organization join their efforts.

Dr. Kilgo will leave on the 9.85 train over the W. & W. road this morning. He goes to Beaufort, where he will preach the dedication sermon at a new church there.

During the early part of the evening the band rendered one of their delightful concerts, embracing the following well known pieces, viz: "Belle of the Village" (overture); "Black America" (quick step): "Coachman" (polka); "Visions of the Past" (waltz); Gilmore's triumphal march, Merina" (#altz); "Southern Plantation Song" (selected medley). AS SEEN FROM THE GRAND STAND. Promptly at 480 o'clock Umpire Fred Pearsall shouts "play ball," and the Coast Line boys take the field, leaving, the O. A. N. crew in, to have a try at scoring. Bagg, the invincible, is strutting around in the box, coolly awaiting the signal to commence to work his puzzles, while Oldham is in his usual place, bedecked with all the instruments of war. Sweeney, the first man up, goes out, likewise Zellers and Jackson, but Tate, after making a two bag hit

The Coast Line boys now come in and the O. A. N. take their places. Zellers, he of the 95 98 fame, grabs Oldbam's toys and gently waltzes behind the pan, to await those deadly balls thrown by Johnnie Tate, the cool 'un. Schutte, Oldham and Galloway retire the side. while Stevenson. Bellamy and Myers do likewise for the opposing team, but Latta, Bagg and Motte fare no better. Sinclair scores in the third inning for the Coast Line, and Zellers, of the O. A. N., tallies in the fourth. In the fifth Taylor tallies for the Coast Line, and Orrell and Moore for the O. A. N. Things now look pretty gloomy for the Coast Line boys, but Oldham in the sixth manages to reach first, and then Galloway, with a determined look, walks calmly up to the pan and makes a long drive over left-field feace, thereby making the score even.

The O A. N. failed to score in the seventh, and upon taking the field sends weeney to the box to relieve Tate. On Sweeney, after two men have been put out, Schulken, Schutte and Oldham gain and cover first, second and third base, respectively. Galloway strolls gently up to the plate and the most critical moment during the entire game arrives, as the hitting power of this "Sockalexis Jennings" is well known. Oace, twice. Sweeney shoots the ball over the plate and Galloway fans at wind, and the supporters of the O. A. N. wish deep down in their hearts that this might be a repetition of the story told n DeWolf Hopper's famous recitation, "Casey at the Bat." But for the third time Sweeney shoots the ball, and there follows a crash, and the ball goes on its merciless journey far out in left field; actually hitting the fence in its anxiety to go over. Two men score on the hit and as a mighty roar goes up from the grand stand the O. A. N. team goes wild and permits Oidham and Galloway to cross the pan on errors. In the eighth, the O. A. N.'s recover and then as the Coast Line boys go to pieces score three runs, Jackson, Steven son and Bellamy. The O. A. N.'s again score in the ninth and the score is once more even. But in this same inning costly errors permit Latta to score, and the story is told. Score, 9 to 8 in favor of Coast Line.

DROWNED IN THE RIVER.

Hendricks, the paralytic vendor of teas and matches, who has been on the streets for several weeks, was drowned How the small boy did "root," and what at the foot of Princess street yesterday a voice he has when propelled by his between 2 and 3 o'clock. He was seen sitting on the steps of the National Bank of Wilmington at 2 o'clock. A with a Yellow Kid vernacular twist of half hour afterward he was stretched

It is very strange, but no one could be found who saw Hendricks fall in the river. There are usually several dravmen collected about the foot of Princess sides being a. p., cheered the boys and street, and how a man could have fallen into the river without being seen by any of them is a mystery.

George Smith, a colored boy aged about ten years, was standing on a flat and saw a man's head come up out of the water, and gave the alarm. Help was soon at hand and the body drawn up on the flit. Efforts were made. though several minutes afterwards, to bring the man to, but they were in Coroner Jacobs viewed the body, but did not deem an inquest necessary. The body was taken to Evans' undertaking establishment, and Coroner Jacobs telegraphed for information to Florence and Sumter, S. C., at which towns the deceased had been before coming to Wilmington. He received no reply to either telegram.

Hendricks will be remembered as the almost helpless paralytic who earned his living by selling tea and matches. He bought mainly of Mr. John L. Boatwright, who sold him goods at very low figures on account of his affliction. He had been in the city about three weeks. and came here from Sumter, it is thought, as the entries in the book which he carried with him, just before those made in Wilmington, were made in Sumter. He boarded at different places. but was last boarding at the Sutton House, getting lodging only. He had not been there since Sunday night.

MAY HAVE BEEN SUICIDE. It was thought by some that Hendricks committed * suicide. This hypothesis would explain partly the fact that no one saw him fall in, as he could have let himself down from a point where he could not be seen. His actions, too, would favor the belief that he drowned himself. For a good while he was seen loitering around Princess and Water streets and at different times was seen sitting on the steps of stores

He had found it hard to dispose of his wares, and was no doubt very much discouraged. He usually bought his goods in the morning, went out and sold them and came back in the afternoon to pay for them, but for the last week he had been getting behind until he owed $1.50 or more.

He may have fallen in the river while under the influence of a fit, though he was not known to be subject to fits.

Burglars effected an entrance into the store of the B. F. King Grocery Company some time Thursday night. When Mr. W. H. Sholar, one of the salesmen, opened the store yesterday morning, he saw the back door wide open. Further investigation showed that the burglar or burglars had taken a slat from one of the window blinds large enough to allow him to put his hand through and unfasten the blind. After he was inside t was an easy matter to open the door and let his companion or companions in. Candy, cigarettes and tobacco were stolen to the amount of about ten dollars. The burglars also enjoyed a watermelon feast, as the rinds of several were found in the middle of the floor. But the worst loss was from the damage they inflicted upon Mr. King's cash register. They evidently thought that the money was secreted somewhere in the interior of the instrument, and they almost completely dissected it in their efforts to get at the money.

CAPE FEAR F. E. CO. NO. 1.

Cape Fear engine, reel and horses returned from Winston vesterday afternoon, and brought back the long distance prize in the engine contest of the Colored Firemen's Association. The prize is a silver medal valued at $10. There was no contest at the time the Cape Fear engine was on exhibition practice with the white engine company of Winston on Toursday evening, August 12.h. The day for the contest, with twenty pounds pressure only on hydraut the Cape Fear engine threw water 218 feet 61/2 inches on 4 inch main pipe: on Thursday, August 18th, on 10 inch main, we threw water 187 feet, with 20-pound pressure, while the Winston engine threw water 244 feet 8 inches with 70-pound water pressure on water gauge. Steam on our engine was 90 pounds; on Winston engine was 105 pounds. The Cape Fear Company wishes to return thanks for the kind treatment received from friends and especially to the
