J. S. Potter Charges That Squire Bornemann Criminally Extorted Money. Squire B. W. Bornemann's troubles seem to multiply. Yesterday the STAR told how he had been painfully injured while trying to separate two combatants, Messrs. J. S. Potter and George Roddick; was as he claimed personally attacked by Potter and fined the latter $2.10, half of it for the assault upon Mr. Roddick and the other for the assault upon himself (Bornemann). Yesterday Mr. Potter went before Justice Fowler and swore out a warrant Justice Bornemann, charging him with criminally and maliciously extorting from him $2.10 by threats to imprison him and put him in the workhouse unless he paid the amount named, and refused to allow him to give bond until trial.

THE SUPERIOR COURT.

Neither of Much Importance—Court Adjourned to Convene This Morning at 10 O'clock—Three Trial Cases on Calendar for To-day. During yesterday's session of the New Hanover Superior Court forty cases were disposed of. A large number of these, however, were continued. There were only three cases on the day's calendar. One of these, Roberts and Hoge vs. Geo. T. Bland, was continued. The other was settled and the third tried by jury.
