A Circus in Town-Fusionists' Claims. Dockery Beaten-Major Guthrie. Speaking in the West.

[Special Star Correspondence.]

RALEIGH, N. C., October 31. To-day Forepaugh and Sells Bros. circus is in town and for the time being business, politics and everything else seems to be forgotten. The largest crowd ever in Raleigh on "circus day" is here and the circus is the largest ever here. More than 20,000 witnessed the parade to-day.

It is interesting to note what the of fifty members in the Senate and a Senate; hence, they now admit a loss their estimated thirty five includes two Senators from Durham, Ala mance and Orange district, one from Guilford and one from Meckof a good old time majority in both branches of the Legislature. The Fusionists are bragging that they will and other counties which they say went Democratic last year, but they forget that as the negroes solidify the white people realize more and more the necessity of doing likewise.

Federal Court Prisoners.

Jailor King has his lodging house full. They are all Federal prisoners and came twenty-two strong, from Lumberton and Fayetteville, for the court which meets here to-day.

Deputy Marshal Morrisey arrived Saturday with eight of them from Fayetteville and Deputy Marshal J. breach. C. Parish brought fourteen from the Lumberton jail. Of the total number, there are six whites, fifteen colored and one Croatan, a woman, Elmira Oxendine, from Robeson county. Ed Smith, colored, also a prisoner for this court, has been in jail here for several months.

ADDRESS FROM MR. PESCHAU

To Democratic Voters of the Fifth Ward. Reasons for Retiring From the Legislative Ticket.

To Messrs, Marshall, Dowling, Biggs, Rhodes and others: GENTLEMEN-Permit me this ap-

portunity to address you, and my other Democratic friends of this county, in a friendly spirit, for I am your friend and every man who knows me well knows that when I make this statement I speak nothing but the truth. That you or many of you feel friendly towards me there can be no question. Your conduct in the past, your fidelity to me in what you believe to be a present crisis has proved beyond a doubt that you are men whose friendship any man might well be proud to claim, and I am proud to claim it. Yes, when the weight of years shall have left its impress on me Fusionists are now claiming. The best in- I know you possess a courage as unformed Democrats in the State soy questioned, a sense of duty as keen, that there is absolutely no doubt now an appreciation of fairness as pronounced as ever entered the make up of any man. And my friends, to that heart, to that courage, to that sense get some negro votes in Mecklenburg of duty, I want to address myself. For the past few days many of you have been laboring under high and continned excitement. I have no doubt you sincerely believe you have in some way been run over rough-shod. Many of you believe I have been treated unfairly. Now let me tell you that monstrous as the statement may first seem to you, none of your beliefs are in fact well founded. There has been no disposition on the part of any one, so far as my knowledge goes, to trample in any way on one of your sacred rights. Circumstances rather than individuals have regulated and shaped events in this community. Our condition has been well nigh unendurable. For months past we have been engaged in the bitterest struggle on record to rid this section of negro domination. We have more than once been on the brink itself of a race conflict. Should the same conditions exist on the 8th day of November that confronted us but a few days ago, the probabilities are that a struggle bloody in its nature and fearful in its results would engulf this town. Strenuous efforts were made in consequence to Judge Purnell and deputies Brown | tle hope, however, until recently, of and Shope left for Wilmington to hold any success. The Republican party seemed determined, and a race conflict for the momentary pain of the little and seemed imminent. Such, my friends, was the condition of affairs that confronted us Saturday morning. On Saturday afternoon I was waited upon by a committee of business men who asked me to attend a meeting of citizens at the M. C. A. I did so, and there I was informed that the Republican party had decided to put no county or legislative ticket in the field provided Mr. Kerr and I be withdrawn. In the interest of peace the meeting then asked me to resign. No attempt was made to coerce me, as many of you have understood. The meeting merely stated that in the face of circumstances they thought I should resign, and I promised to take their suggestion in consideration. Mr. Kerr, I understood, had already resigned. Did I believe by staying on the ticket I could benefit my party in any way I would have taid there, and no influence, however formidable, other than that which placed me there could have caused me to withdraw. Ordinarily, Lwould oppose any concession, and had the intention of the Republican party been to substitute a Republican in my place understood, the Democratic party at liberty to substitute any two Democrats. Whatever, my friends, may have been the reasons for Republican opposition to me and to Mr. Kerr I will not here discuss. You may decide that for yourselves, but the fact remains they did oppose me, and unless I withdrew, a full Republican ticket, they said, would be placed in the field, and a contest be made at the polls, and the result-any man who knows the condition of this community to day could easily foretell. They may have been sincere in what they suggest), but I am too much of a man to jeopardize either my party or my friends by one single selfish act that might injure it or them. The question that confronted me was should I withdraw and allow another to succeed me whose devotion to good government and white supremacy were unquestioned, or should I still hold on and by so doing not only jeopardize the whole Democratic ticket, but in addition thereto throw this community into an awful race struggle, possibly unparalleled in its horrors. If the time should ever come, my friends, to defend my home or yours, you know you will find me in the foreground. I am as determined as are you that this community shall be delivered, cost what it may, from the terrible cloud that now hangs over it. But if it can be done without the sacrifice of a single life, then, in the name of heaven, why not do it? By my withdrawing from the ticket I believe it can be done. Don't look on it in the light of a sacrifice on my part, but rather believe I refuse to be the means of bringing on any household, humble though it may be, unnecessary wretchedness and possible ruin. I regret more than I can say that Ledger. the present disturbed condition does exist in our ranks, and I shall do every thing in my power to bridge the

The candidates nominated to-day althey are not should receive your undivided support, for you must not lose sight of the fact that this is a white man's struggle and that the eyes of the town are on your section to-day, and the eyes of the world are on the town.

Don't lose heart and do your utmost to see that others do not get disheartened. I trust I shall soon find an opportunity to address you at length. In the meantime continue your good work for white supremacy.

With best wishes. Yours, very truly, GEORGE L. PESCHAU.

Quinsy, or Tonsilitis, and How It Should Be Treated. Quinsy, or tonsilitis, is an acute inflammation of one or both tonsils. The inflammation is commonly very "active," causing great pain and ending in the formation of matter. Children, and especially young adults, are most subject to the disease, for it is in them that the tonsils are most fully developed and most prone to take on inflammation. The glands gradually become smaller in middle life and have more or less completely disappeared in those who have reached old age.

The first indication of trouble is usually a chill or a chilly sensation, such as many people have come to recognize as a sign of having caught cold. This is followed by a little fever, with dryness and "stiffness" in the throat, and a little pain on swal-

The pain, which rapidly increases, is continuous, but is greatly aggravated by the chewing and swallowing of food. On looking into the throat the swollen and reddened tonsil is readily seen. When both tonsils are affected, they may often be seen pressing against each other and seemingly blocking up the throat completely. Sometimes the trouble may-apparently at least-be cut short by early treatment, but usually the inflammation goes on to the formation and discharge of an abscess. A person with tonsilitis should live on milk and broths. Indeed, there is no temptation to take solid food, not only because of the pain in swallowing, but because the appetite is lost. Gargling with a strong solution of borax or bicarbonate of soda in hot water, to which a little glycerin has been added, is very grateful. Cold compresses applied to the throat at the beginning of an attack occasionally appear to cut it short, but after the formation of pus has clearly beprevent such a calamity, with but lit. come inevitable warm applications or poultices should be used. STRANGE AUTOMATISM.

The Singular Case of a Soldier With a Wounded Brain.

Sergeant F- was wounded at Bazeilles by a ball which fractured his skull. After his recovery periodical disturbances began to be represented in his existence. the abnormal periods lesting from 15 to 30 hours, while the intervals between them -those of natural life-varied from 15 to 80 days. In the abnormal phases F-was essentially an automaton. He felt nothing, smelled nothing and ate anything, however nauseous its taste. His sight was apparently affected, for he had to feel for objects against which he stum-

This man in his automatice dion be-gan to write a letter to his general, and while in the act of writing Dr. Mesnet interposed a screen between F--'s eyes and his hands. He went on with his writing for a time; then the words became illegible and he finally ceased. When the screen was withdrawn, he resumed the composition of his letter. Having had placed before him ten sheets of paper, one on the top of the other, he began to write. Then the topmost sheet was suddenly withdrawn, but the letter was continued on the second sheet just as if the first sheet had remained. Five times was this trick repeated, the fifth sheet showing only the signature of F-at the bottom; but when he had signed this fifth sheet he took it up in his hand and read on its blank surface the letter he had written. He also made corrections in the words he supposed he saw.

and these corrections occupied the places of the words which required eme the missing sheets. This case is very instructi teaches us that as a result of injury we may find cases of automatism which parallel the natural variety of that condition we call somnambulism. - Andrew Wilson. M. D., in Harper's Magazine.

To Strengthen the Eyes. Unless one has unusually strong eyes one must not read when one is extremely weary. Exhaustion and fatigue affect all the nerves of the body, and the optic nerve is so sensitive that it should receive particular consideration. Nor should one ever be guilty of the carelessness of reading or writing facing a window. This, too, is a cruel strain on the sight.

Washing the eyes morning and night in water as hot as it can be borne is a wonderful tonic for those useful servants which are so easily injured. When we consider how we reglect their welfare by using them by fauing daylight and insufficient artificial light, by forcing them to do work when they are weary and by denying them the rest for which they long, we have cause to wonder not that they sometimes become mutinous and refuse to fulfill our demands, but that they are ever faithful in our service. They will, as a rule, be as good to us as we are to them. -Harper's Bazar.

To Examine the Eve. If anything gets into your eye, don't rub it. Good advice, but a little difficult to follow, for one instinctively rubs the eye under these circumstances. Nevertheless, don't do so. Get some one to turn the upper eyelid gently over a thin penholder, so that he may see the ball of the eye thoroughly. If lime gets into the eye and if you see the substance at once, wash out the eye with vinegar to two parts of water. If, however, you don't see the particle immediately, simply put sweet oil or olive oil into the eye and send for the doctor. - New York

JAIL FOR STUDENTS.

QUEER PHASE OF LIFE AT HEIDEL-BERG UNIVERSITY.

Some of the Names Which Adorn the Prison Register and the "Crimes" For Which Their Owners Were Incarcerated. The Rules of the Place.

In England the student's body is committed to prison only by the civil authority. In Oxford, it is true, the vice chancellor deals with undergraduate naughtiness, principally in the form of debt and insubordination, for which he may impose a momentary penalty, but he does not deprive the defaulter of liberty. There is, or was, a legend that a certain apartment under the old Clarendon building was really the university

'quod," but for its authenticity it is impossible to vouch. Cambridge has its spinning house for female offenders—not lady students, but ladies who might prove a delusion and a snare to the mere male undergrad. There, if we except the irksome penalty of "gating" (confinement to college or lodgings after a stated hour), our academic efforts at incarceration may be said to end. In Germany, however, the academic dungeon is a very stern fact. The Heidelberg "carcer" is famous. Every reader of Mark Twain will recall his entertaining description of the place and how he contrived to visit it, even unwittingly enlisting as his guide a "Herr Professor." His pretext was to see a young friend who had "got" 24 hours and had conveniently arranged the day to suit Mark-for the German student convict goes to prison on the first suitable day after conviction and sentence. If Thursday is not convenient, he tells the officer sent to hale him to jail that he will come on Friday or Saturday or Sunday, as the case may be. The officer never doubts his word, and it is never

The prison is up three flights of stairs, and is approached by a "zugang" as richly decorated with the art work of convicts as the cell itself. The apartment is not roomy, but bigger than an ordinary prison cell. It has an iron grated window, a small stove, two wooden chairs, two old oak tables and a narrow wooden bedstead. The furniture is profusely ornamented with carving, the work of languishing captives, who have placed on record their names, armorial bearings, their crimes and the dates of their imprisonment, together with quaint warnings and denunciations. Walls and ceilings are covered with portraits and legends executed in colored chalk and in soot, the prison candle forming a handy pencil. Some of the inscriptions are pathetic. One runs, "E. Glinicke, four days for being too eager a spectator of a row." If four days were meted out to a mere spectator, what, one wonders, had been the sentence of the participators? It must have been a moving spec-

Another record (also quoted by Mr. Clemens) has the savor of a great name to it. Of course it withe son that is meant, not the father. The legend is, "F. Graf Bismarck, 27-29, II. '74." This Mark Twain interprets as a record of two days' durance vile for Count Bismarck in 1874. Had 1874 been leap year one might have been inclined to interpret the numeral "II" as February. But the "29" makes this difficult. So perhaps the humorist is right.

A third specimen is too tragic for comment. It simply says, "R. Diergandt -for love-four days." Ungenerous successors to that sad chamber have dealt harshly with their forerunners' reputations by ingenious substitution of heinous crimes, so that certain prisoners go down to posterity as having been punished for theft and murder. The prisoner must supply his own bedding and is subject to various charges. On entering he pays about tenpence, and on leaving a similar sum. Every day in prison costs sixpence; fire and light sixpence extra. The jailer supplies coffee for a trifle. Meals may be ordered from outside. Every prisoner leaves his carte de visite, which is fixed with a multitude of others on the door of the cell. This queer album is glazed to protect the photographs. Academic criminal procedure in Heidelberg is curious. If the city police apprehend a student, the captive shows his matriculation card. He is then asked for his address and set free, but will hear more of the matter, for the civil authority reports him to the university. The Oxford regulation, by the way, is in certain cases almost identical. In Heidelberg the university court try and pass sentence, the civil power taking no further concern with the offense. The trial is very often conducted in the prisoner's absence, and he, poor wight, may have forgotten all about his peccadillo until the university constable appears to conduct him to prison. But thither, seeing he may choose his day, he always repairs cheerfully.-London Sketch.

THE DUNKERS' LOVE FEAST Feet Washing, the Great Supper and the Kiss of Peace. "The most important and the most peautiful custom of the Dunkers is their love feast, which they celebrate in commemoration of the Lord's supper, after the manner of the primitive Christians," writes Clifford Howard in describing the customs of the Dunkers of Ephrata, Lancaster county, Pa., in The Ladies' Home Journal.

"The celebration is held at nightfall and begins with the rite of feet washing, in imitation of the act performed by the Master at the last supper, when he washed the feet of his disciples. Small tubs of lukewarm water are brought in, and those about to receive the ordinance remove their shoes and stockings. The brothers then in turn, each one girding himself with a towel wash and dry one another's feet, the sisters at the same time doing likewise among themselves in their part of the

"After this follows the supper, the feast of love, which is spread on long tables and consists of lamb soup and bread and other simple viands. It is eaten in devout solemnity and reverence. At the close of the meal the brothers turn to one another and extend the right hand of fellowship and the kiss of peace, each one shaking hands with his neighbor and kissing him, while the sisters at their tables perform the same beautiful rite among themselves. The communion is then administered.

How We Use Our Lives. If you are fond of such statistics, read this table, drawn up by Gabriel Peignot: A man of 50 years, of ordinary health, of active life, of regular habit, comfortable in all circumstances of money, should give out of 18,250 days 6,082 days to sleep, 550 to sickness, 1,522 to his meals, 5,532 to work, 671 to exercise, to sports, the hunt, travel 8,803 days, and he should have consumed 27,080 pounds of bread, 6,080 of meat, 4,675 of vegetables, eggs and fruit, 31, 180 liters of wine, spirits and water. - Boston Journal.

I followed him cautiously into the hall, and when he had reached the usual point from which we did our firing he stopped, took careful aim and fired. The slight snap and shock of the gun seemed to have quite a different effect than either my voice or the bright light in the room, for on the instant he dropped the gun, made a half step forward and fell into my arms, just about as he would have fallen out of bed if he had waked suddenly on its edge. "He was wide awake in a minute and began laughing and asking me what had happened. I told him, and we at once lit the gas in the hall and examined the target. The target had been repainted after we had had our last practice, so that we could see plainly where his bullet had hit, and I assure you he had made almost a center shot. Now," concluded the physician, "in the lighted room he missed all the furniture in his way, and in the dark hall he had hit the target. Do you think he could see, or couldn't he?"
