MOON'S PHASES. The Morning Star

BY WILLIAM H. BERNARD. WILMINGTON, N. C.

FRIDAY MORNING, AUGUST 10 NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC TICKET

For President : WH.LIAM J. BRYAN, of Nebraska. For Vice-President: ADLAI E. STEVENSON, of Illinois.

WHY WELLINGTON DESERTED M'KINLEY.

Senator Wellington, Republican, of Maryland, is opposed to the reelection of McKinley and gives the following reasons for his opposition: "I am unalterably opposed to the re election of President McKinley.

Bryan is a better man in every way than McKinley, and I regard his election as essential to the preservation of the Republic. "I regard the Philadelphia platform our fathers. It is not the Republican-ism of Lincoln, but an endorsement Wellington, but all the Senators it had been the professed object of my mistaken folly to advance. Conof the inimical policies foisted upon the country by McKinley. "I am anti imperialist. I do not talk one way in Congress and another way on the outside, nor do I talk one way and act another. I am not like old Hoar-able to appeal to the past and the future, and then stultify myself. I see only the present. The past is gone and the future can take care for itself; but I'll help take care of the present. 'I am convinced there is a secret alliance with England beyond any doubt. You remember the cry that was raised against Cleveland of subserviency to England. There was not one-quarter the ground for it that there is for the same cry against Mc-Kinley. He would not dare do a thing that would be unacceptable to England, for he is nothing more than an English proconsul

President McKinley has betrayed me. I was opposed to the Paris Peace Treaty and would never have voted for its ratification of my own volition. I told the President so, and he induced me to vote for it by solemnly pledging me that it was not the intention o himsel or the Government to forcibly hold or permanently acquire the Philippines. °

He further said that his personal desire was to restore law and order in the islands and then submit the matter to Congress, with the idea of having it grant absolute freedon and self-government to the Filipinos. With that pledge from President McKinley voted for the treaty. Without it never should have done so.

"The resolution I offered in the Senate, and which was the basis of my speech on the Philippine question, provided for exactly what the President himself told me he desired to bring about.

Bryan is absolutely right on the great issue involved in this campaign, and, with the money question at rest for four years, he is a bigger, a better and a safer man than McKinley. Even if the money question were not settled, Bryan is a man of too much sense to undertake to tamper with the currency, Bryan is certain to be our next President, and I shall be glad to see him elected.

"McKinley is totally unfit for the office of President, because he is so weak and vacillating that he can't stick to an opinion over night. If he could know his own mind and be consistent for twenty-four hours at a time he ming do, but such a thing is impossible with him, and for that reason he if unfit to be President."

This is a vigorous arraignment and it is a true bill. It is true on the several counts, outside of the charge that Wellington was betrayed by McKinley in voting for the Paris treaty. That rests on the veracity of the Senator, and is doubtless true for there is corroborating testimony in Mr. McKinley's record on that question. Every one who has read Mr. McKinley's utterances as the Spanish war progressed and at its close knows how he changed front, contradicted and stultified himself, how he permitted himself to be influenced to do one day what he had declared the day before should not be done. He admitted that when the Peace Commission was sent to Paris there was no intention | dwindling, as is the Nile, and threatof asking for anything more than a base of supplies at Manila, or in some other good harbor.

The thought of gobbling up the archipelago never entered his head archipelago never entered his head end. The law is inexorable." nor the heads of his advisers until after the commission arrived at Paris. It was an afterthought township, Kansas, the only townwhich they have tried to defend on ship in the United States which the ground that this Government gave Palmer and Buckner a major- after measles induced serious lung had put itself in such a position that securing possession of the whole group was a necessity and having secured possession of the group, they try to justify war on the people of the islands on the ground that this she promised to marry the control of the ground that the ground the islands on the ground that this she promised to marry the one who even if it cost $5.00 a bottle. Hun-of the gun, if that supremacy was contested.

Mr. McKinley and others speaking for his administration have virtually admitted that if they anticipated the change of events that has followed the making of that treaty it would never have contained that disreputable and dishonorable purchase clause. Judge Day, of Ohio, president of the commission, says the purchase clause was practically forced upon the commission, and the only reason why they assented to it was their desire to close up and end the war at once, to avert possible complications and contingencies, as if he expected there might possibly be interference by some other governments if the war this country with some other power or powers. That was his statement the nature of an apology for that shameful bargain.

But Senator Wellington was not the only Senator betrayed. All the Senators who opposed the ratification of that treaty and afterwards voted for it were betrayed, if not directly by the President, by those who spoke for the administration, some of whom were in the confidence of the President. They were implored to yield their opposition, to vote for the treaty and let it go through that we might close up the business with Spain and have an end to the war, after which a resolution might be passed declaring the purposes of this Government, to assure the people of the Philippines that we had no grabbing designs on their country, but that we intended to deal with them as we had dealt with the Cubans, to be their friends, help them on the way to self-government and when they get started let them manage their own affairs. That's what they said they would do, but they didn't do it. They broke faith with the Senators, and passed a resolution with a string to it which made this Government the judge as to when it should withdraw its forces from the islands, if ever. The fact is, the whole course pursued since the destruction of Montejo's fleet has been one of treachery as a grave departure from the faith of and dishonor, and not only Senator sult only in injuring the cause which who were induced to yield their opposition and vote for that treaty, the people of the United States and the people of the Philippines were betrayed. It was a monstrous, unparalleled betrayal.

CANNOT BE VIOLATED WITH IMPUNITY.

There has been for a year or more a fearful famine in India, affecting to a greater or less extent an area of country containing about 50,000,000 of people. There are periodical famines in that country in which thousands die of starvation and dis ease, the result of starvation, and thousands more are saved from death by food sent to them from other sections of that country and from other countries. And so China, suffers from these periodic famines, all the result of droughts or inundations of the great rivers which submerge large areas of country and destroy crops. Russia also suffers from droughts, and so does Egypt, and so to greater or less extent do many coun tries, including our own. We have written much on forest lenudation and the necessity of caring for our forests, but there is so much to the point in the following, which we find in an exchange, that we reproduce it:

"A writer in the New York Tribune n discussing the famine in India, asks and answers these significant ques-'What causes the famine? Drought. And what causes the drought? The answer is in the dryness of the treeless plains and in the abundant moisture of the forests and jungles.' He then goes on to say that the bewildering increase of popula-tion under British rule in India has increased proportionately the demand for arable land, and to supply that demand forests and jungle have been swept away by thousands of square miles. As a result come drought and famine.

"Another lesson he says comes from Egypt. He declares that the Nile is drying up. 'Not only does it never approximate to the height and depth it knew in ancient times,' he says, but it is perceptibly dwindling now from year to year.' The reason that he assigns is that in those remote wildernesses towards the source of the great river, forest destruction is proseeding at a rate unrivalled even by our own tree-slayers.

"The third lesson, he says, is from the Congo, where the seemingly inexhaustible forests have already suffered such ravages that men are now talking about the need of protective measures. He points out also that once Persia was the most fertile land of Asia, well watered and richly wooded, and that the Sahara was the granary of Africa and Europe, but to-day they are barren sands.

"These lessons, he concludes, are directly applicable to the United States, and as a warning, he notes, that there has actually been famine in some of the Western States through the malign effects of drought. He says that some of our streams are ening to vanish entirely, as those of the Sahara have done. The laws of Nature cannot be violated with im-

MR. TOWNE DECLINES.

Hon. Chas. A. Towne, who was nominated for Vice President by the Populist convention at Sioux Falls, in May, has declined the nomination. In an eloquent letter to the committee he gives his reasons for so doing. After citing the fact that his name was presented in the Democratic convention at Kansas City, where it received a very flattering support, but where for what seem to him good and sufficient reasons it was deemed best to nominate another, he savs:

"When Mr. Stevenson had been nominated, what was it my duty to doj My name had gone before the conven-tion along with his and I had been beaten. The nomination had been made decisively and with absolute fairness. The candidate chosen was perwas protracted and thus involve sonally unexceptional, his loyalty to our principles was beyond question and his career had been a long exemplification of them. Manifestly it was given over a year ago, something in my duty to support that nomination. Acting upon this conviction, I went before the Silver Republican Convention and succeeded in persuading it to not nominate me, and the Vice Presidential question was finally referred to the Silver Republican National Committee with full powers.

Later in the night this committee placed the name of Mr. Stevenson on its ticket as candidate for Vice President

"This recital clearly develops the situation as it now is. Everybody knows that either Mr. Stevenson or Mr. Roosevelt is to be the next Vice-President of the United States. I am expected to take a laborious part in the campaign. I shall, of course, advo-cate the election of Bryan and Stevenson. The Democratic convention, be-fore which I was a candidate, nominated Bryan and Stevenson. The Silver Republican party, of which or-ganization I was the official head for nearly four years, has nominated Bryan and Stevenson. In what light should I appear before the American people if, while advocating the elec-tion of one ticket, I should be going through the ferm of running on an other? Nobody in the United States would think I had the slighest chance of being elected, and nobody would believe that I considered myself seri-ously as a candidate unless at the same time he believed me to be absolutely lacking in common sense. Whom could such a phantom candidacy deceive? What respect should I deserve, indeed, if in such a matter should attempt to deceive anybody whatsoever? I know the People's party to be composed of men most exceptionally keen and ex-pert in political judgment. So ob vious a sham could not elude their vision. Either they would resent my implied uncomplimentary estimate of them or they would be justified in forming one of me, which could re sistency and candor in politics there fore, my own self-respect, a proper deference to the People's party and a sincere regard for the welfare of the cause of political reform in the United States, all counsel that I now respect fully replace in your hands the honorable trust which your great party committed to me in contemplation of a

that which has resulted. This is the language of a man who is more anxious for the success of the principles he advocates and the cause he has at heart, than for a little cheap distinction, in leading a forlion band. What action the committee will take, whether it will put up some other dummy in place of Mr. Towne, is not yet determined, but if they decide to put up a dummy perhaps Marion Butler, who has played out in this section, might feel flattered by the distinction (?)

CHEERED ALL ALONG THE LINE The journey of Wm. J. Bryan from his home in Nebraska to Indianapolis, Ind., where the notification ceremonies took place, Wednesday, was a series of ovations, thousands of enthusiastic people greeting him at every town and station along the line, culminating in a grand reception at Indianapolis, where thousands of Democrats from other cities and other States assembled to honor him and his associate on the ticket, Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois. This might be called the opening of the campaign, and it opens auspiciously if there be any significance in popular demonstrations, or in popular enthusiasm. The name of Bryan is even more talismanic now than it was four years ago, when he electrified the country, and aroused an enthusiasm never before witnessed in a campaign in this country; but then he appealed to and had the following of Democrats and free silver men, while now he appeals to and has the following of patriots, regardless of past political affiliations. As an illustration of this there was a meeting of anti-Imperialists held in Boston, Tuesday, where the principal speech was delivered by ex-Governor and ex-Senator Boutwell, who advocated the overthrow of the Republican party because it had betrayed and deserted its principles. Among the ringing resolutions adopted was the following: "We believe that free silver? is less serious than free slaughter; we deprecate the appeal to the pocket at home and to the cannon abroad; the doctrine that Americans can be made rich by taxation and Filipinos righteous by force, and the practice of assimilation of lower races in Asia and the malevolent dissipation of higher ideas in America. This is tantamount to a declaration for Bryan and voices the sentiments of thousands of anti-Imperialist Republicans throughout the country.

- Concord Tribune: A tenant house on Mr. Paul Stallings's place was fired Sunday night and partially destroyed. The house was occupied by a negro named Will Henderson. Fortunately the fire was discovered and the occupants were saved. A negro Dick Morris stands charged with having fired the house.

- Lumberton Argus: The crops of the vicinity of Buie, once so promising, are seriously damaged by drought. There has been only one rain since July 5th. The water mills have ceased to grind, wells and pumps are failing, gardens are parching, cotton is shedding, and coin is cut short one third. Everything is in sad need - Raleigh News and Observer:

Silas Seagraves, a white man, is in jail in Durham upon the charge of at-tempting to poison his wife. He was arrested Monday night. - Cleve Donaldson, a white boy about seven teen years of age, has been arrested for robbing the Catholic church in Charlotte. At the trial to-day Donaldson was placed under bonds amounting to $175 in all. Besides stealing a valuable communion cup from the church Donaldson was found guilty of stealing a pair of eye-glasses from D. K. Pope, Esq., and a pair of pants from the Piedmont Pants Company.

-Mitchell Mirror: Saturday evening, while reaping oats in his field near Magnette City, Mitchell Byrd was shot through and through from ambush, the ball taking effect in the left side and coming out at the right side. The shot produced paralysis of the lower limbs. After being shot Mr. Byrd was taken to his home near by and lived until Sunday afternoon. He was conscience until he died, being able to talk all of the time. It will perhaps never be known who Mitchell Bird's assassin was although it is believed to be a son of Thomas Butler, whom Mr. Byrd killed about three years ago, but this may be doubtful, as he had many enemies in that

- Greensboro Record: It is passing strange how many people are poisoned by ice cream. Almost any day you can pick up a newspaper and see where numbers of people have been made sick and occasionaly death occurs as a result of cream parties. An accident occurred in Greensboro Sunday night among the boarders at Mrs. Ellis', corner East Gaston and North Davie streets. Mrs. Ellis runs a very popular boarding house and has large number of boarders. On Sunday night they had cream and as a result about twenty af them were very sick yesterday and last night, some of iolently so. They and all in proved and no serious results are eared. Messrs. L. as opening new accounts was con cerned, but a very considerable business was done in the way of winding up old ones. This was largely due to the fact that opinions regarding the character of the government crop report to morrow have been a good deal mixed and prudence led many of the traders to close their contracts. In this way the market was active. The South, however, continued to be a pretty heavy seller and crop accounts rom private sources were generally bearish, although later in the session views were disturbed by reports of hot winds in Arkansas, excessive rains in Texas, and drouth in the Atlantic State. After opening steady at an advance of eight points to a decline of one point, following fairly favorable Liverpool cables and some foreign support, the market gave way under local pressure supplemented by South ern selling orders which were quite generous throughout the session. The opening advance was lost before noon. Again the market became firmer; prices advanced nine to eleven points from the lowest on a very active demand from the short interest. Still later prices broke eight to twelve points. Throughout the session a nervous feeling prevailed. The market was finally barely steady with August twenty points higher and other months three to four points lower.
