THE PRODUCE EXCHANGE.

Question of Disorganization Will be Proposed at Annual Meeting Tuesday. Institution Should Succeed.

At the annual meeting of the mem pers of the Wilmington Produce Ex change next Tuesday at 11 A. M., the question of continuance or discontinuance of the organization will be considered.

This is substantially the notice that the secretary of the Exchange was instructed to give members as coming from the Board of Managers, which held its last regular monthly meeting for the fiscal year in the rooms of the organization yesterday morning.

In conversation with Col. Jno. L. Cantwell, the veteran secretary of the Exchange, yesterday, he said that the present membership of the body is only 27, four resignations having been lately received, and that the least number with which the organization can continue to exist with present expenses is 34. For the past year or more this condition has been patent and it now proposed to take some definite action in regard to continued organization or disorganization.

It is confidently believed, however, that the decision of the meeting Tuesday will be to continue and that the business men of Wilmington will rally to the support of an institution which has been of such manifest benefit to them for more than twenty years. It is believed that each individual member will put his shoulder to the wheel, figuratively speaking, and begin the new year next Tuesday with a larger membership than ever. Other business before the meeting of managers yesterday was purely routine and of no interest to the gen-

"QUO VADIS" ON EASTER MONDAY.

This Great Production Will be Seen at Matinee and Night.

Threatre goers will be transported back to the days of togas and tyrants next Monday, April 8th when E. J. Carpenter's great production of "Quo Vadis" will be presented. This drama has met with unqualified approval fellow citizens in the the city, county from clergy, press and public, and tells the story of the Dawn of Christianity in a beautiful and reverent manner. The many widely different characters in the play makes the dra matic interest exceptionally strong, while the scenic surroundings are said to be of unparalleled magnificence.

"Lygia," the beautiful hostage to Rome is one of the most interesting characters in that most interesting of all dramas, "Quo Vadis." The role as played by Miss Evelyn Archer, has attracted much favorable mention. This young actress, the daughter of a prom inent attorney of Chicago, invests the part with a pathetic grace and tenderness which can emanate only from a sincere artist and bespeaks much for Miss Archer's future.
