SUNDAY MORNING, JULY 14. IN THE END IT MEANS FEUDAL-

In discussing the Trust question the discussion has turned mainly upon the effect the trusts will have on the prices of articles controlled by them, the prices they may charge for what they sell and the prices they will pay for what they buy. The successful Trust, that is, the one that succeeds in preventing competition, will have a practical monopoly of the market not only on what it sells but on what it buys, for having no competition it can make its own selling and buying prices and the man who wants to buy what the Trust has to sell, or the man who wants to sell what it wants to buy must be governed by its prices for he can't help himself. This was the case when there were numerous Trusts each interested in one line of goods, but it is much more the case when these Trusts consolidate, go under one management and the management controls a great many articles. As an illustration, we have the combination known as the United States Steel Company, with an alleged capital of $1,000,000,000. It controls about everything in the line of iron and steel manufactures, with iron mines, coal mines, ships to carry the iron from its mines on the Lakes and railways to transport its coal to its furnaces and its manufactures to their destination. Since then another great combine has been formed with an alleged capital of $100,000,000, composed of the leading manufactories making agricultural machinery-reapers, mowers, thresher, plows, cultivators, etc., covering the whole range of farm machinery or implements. Such a combine as the Steel company can, of course, put its own price upon its manufactures and the buyer must pay it, because the protective tariff practically closes our ports against the manufacturers of other countries and there can be no competition from abroad. This agricultural machinery combine can make its own prices, and lay tribute on every farmer in the country because the protective tariff gives it a monopoly, too, and prevents competition, even if this machinery were produced in other countries. It so happens that this country has the prestige and the run on this kind of work, and the manufacturers have not only a good home marhat but a fine and growing market in other countries.

With a practical monopoly of the home market before, although there might have been some competition between the several manufacturers which kept prices from becoming exorbitant, with this combine the monopoly will be absolute and it can make its own prices. What is true of these two combines is true of all. The system if carried out and made permanent means the control of all the great manufacturing and productive industries, by a comparatively small number of men, and this means more to the American people than the matter of prices, which is a very serious one, especially to the wageearner, who is dependent upon his day's labor for his daily bread.

It means that these combines will not only have the power to levy tribute upon the American people, but it means that they will have absolute control of the wage-earners employed in the respective industries controlled by the. Trusts now control nearly every industry in this country which employs skilled labor and some that do not, so it might be said that nearly all the labor of the country not employed on the farm, or in non-productive callings, is in the employ of Trusts and controlled by them.

This presents a serious problem for the present and the future, more serious for the future than the present unless the Trusts are scotched. Before these Trusts were formed there were many employers, and if a workman was dissatisfied with his place of work he could quit and get work somewhere else. If he failed to give satisfaction and was discharged he could go to another employer and apply for work. | ing up the crops in grass, while in He was not dependent upon one feel the necessity of keeping in the growing. Now the excessive warm the good graces of that one, and weather and droughts in some secimplicitly obeying orders whether he liked them or not. With but one employer to give him work his independence is practically gone and he must meet the requirements or lose his job, and that will mean that tions threaten to injure the crops seriously. With all this there have been frequent storms and falls of hail that did much damage to fruit, berries, vegetables, &c.

If labor wins it may be treated with respectful consideration; if the Steel Trust wins its rule will be imperious, and the men in its employ will not dare to express an opinion if they dare to have one.

ILLINOIS BOXERS.

We do not know what the sect known as Dowieites believe in, but they do not seem to be in high favor in the section of Illinois where they are the most numerous, although they attract a good deal of attention and are greeted with more or less demonstration wherever they hold

A few days ago they had a meeting on one of the streets of Evanston. It seems they anticipated a demonstration of some sort and brought a guard with them to protect the men and women participating in the meeting. They were speedily surrounded by about 1500 Boxers, and when one of the elders mounted a camp stool to preach he was saluted with a shower of eggs of ancient date, decayed fruit, vegetables, etc. But the men and women who accompanied him prayed and sang while the eggs, fruit and vegetables added variety to the performance.

The Boxers began to crowd the prayers and singers, and fearing "a riot" the Mayor ordered a fire engine out and it played for all it was worth on that crowd, making a special target of the Dowieites who, not withstanding the drenching, continued to pray and sing. And then the police came along and arrested three or four of the principal Dowieites, but none of the Boxers.

It does not appear that the Dowieites struck anybody or retaliated in anyway, but the leaders were arrested and the preaching elder-was held on a charge of "inciting a riot." Here is what the Boxers did to the prisoners while being escorted to the station by the police, as told all the warships in the harbor of

"As the squad of police with their prisoners walked down the street toward the police station a block away a portion of the mob threw stagnant water upon Piper and three of his lieutenants by means of squirt guns. The men were also struck by seids which burned their clothing. During this time many eggs struck Piper and having been drenched with water he was in a deplorable condition. "At last the station was reached.

number of other Dowieites were arrested and taken to the court room of the Evanston station. Piper was charged with disorderly conduct and inciting a riot. It is probable the others will be released."

Stagnant water and acids squirted on prisoners in charge of police, prisoners whose only offense was preaching something the Boxers didn't like and praying and singing on the streets. Were any of these acid squirting Boxers arrested? If so, or if any attempt was made to arrest them or protect these prisoners the dispatches do not mention it. And all this was in a suburb, not of Pekin, but of the American city, Chi-

We think Dowie, who poses in the role of Elijah, is an arrant fraud and that his followers are deluded innocents, but as far as we know they are not accused of any immoral or lawless teaching and therefore ought not be subjected to such persecution by American Boxers with the assent and connivance of the municipal authorities. Such conduct is more disgraceful to an American community than the outrages by the Chinese Boxers were to the Chinese communities in which they were per-

OBJECT LESSONS FOR THE FAR

In urging the importance of diversified farming in the South and the raising of all the food stuffs needed on the farm, we have frequently referred to the danger of trusting to one crop, no matter what it is, and to the uncertainties that beset the farmer from the time he plants to the time sells. This year we have, by way of illustration, some striking object lessons bearing both upon the diversification of crops and the uncertainties we speak of.

This has been a year of set-backs to the Southern farmer, because early in the season excessive rains retarded the growth generally, choksome sections they caused floods employer and consequently did not | which destroyed the crops that were mplicitly obeying orders whether tions threaten to injure the crops se-

An excange speaking of a compliment paid by the German Minster in Pekin to an American officer, in which he referred to the officer as "an American subject," remarks that we have "citizens" not "subjects" in this country. But ain't we getting a pretty large assortment of "subjects" with our new acquisitions?

For Over Fifty Years MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children

FLORENCE, S. C., Nov. 26, 1900. I was first advised by our family physician in Charleston to use TEETHINA with our baby when she was but a very young infant, as a preventive of colic and to warm and sweeten the stomach. Later it was useful in teething troubles, and its effect has been found to be so vary beneficial and so free from the dangers that are consequent upon the use of drugs and soothing syrups, that we have come to regard it, after use with three children, as one of the necessities when there is a new paby in the house and until the teething troubles are over, and we take pleasure in recommending it to our friends instead of the horrid stuff that so many people use to keep their babies quiet.

Not being used to such, young Taylor killed the reptile and then sought his grandfather to come and see what it was. Many guesses have been hazarded as to where this young alligator came

These were placed on a piece of paper and put in the sun to dry to prevent them from rusting, when a goat came along and ate needles, paper and all. This morning from all appearances the goat does not need the medicine man.

- Fayetteville Observer: The crop news from different parts of Cumber land county and other districts of the upper Cape Fear section are not favorable as to corn and cotton. June was a bad month for both, and it has been impossible to recover lost ground. A citizen of Fayetteville informed the Observer reporter yesterday that in a long ride in the country, going and returning by different roads, he passed many farms, on all of which the outlook was discouraging.

- Durham Herald: Two cents was the cause of a murder in Person county late Wednesday afternoon From the best information obtainable yesterday it seems that two negro boys, about 12 and 14 years of age and first cousins, had some words about two cents and the younger one lost his life. The murdered boy was found close to the track of the Norfolk & Western road last Wednesday afternoon in a dying condition. He did not recover consciousness and died a short while after being found. There was a wound on the side of the head and other small wound on his shoulder, both apparently having been made with a small stick. Blood was running from his ears.

- Sanford Express: Crops are very small for the time of year and the prospects are anything but en couraging. — Mr. Hugh Jackson, of Gilbert, was in town Saturday and told the Express that the chinch bug had made its appearance in his section. This insect is very destructive to corn and other grain crops. There seems to be an epidemic of mad dogs in some sections of the county. A number of dogs supposed to have been suffering from hydrophobia have been killed during the past few days, but not until after some of them had bitten other dogs. — Major W. C. Adrian Harper is reported to have lost about thirty hogs. Several of his neighbors have lost heavily from this epidemic. — Tuesday night those who observed the eastern and southeastern heavens beheld a grand sight. As i swept in a southerly direction it grew in size and brilliancy, till it disappeared below the horizon as large as an average door. Those who beheld it say that the heavens were lit up and the whole night was bright.

- Wadesboro Messenger-Intelli gence: Last Sunday Jess Sturdivant, a young colored man who lives near Polkton, was visiting at the home of the mother of Cole Biles, who lives on Mr. M. A. Polk's place, also near Polk ton. Jess was "flying around" Cole's sister and was on familiar terms with the family. He asked Cole to hand him a drink of water, and when she did so he took a mouthful and delib erately spit it in her face. Cole then seized the dipper and filled it and re-taliated by dashing its contents on him. This greatly enraged Jess and he immediately drew his pistol and shot the woman, the ball taking effect in the fleshy part of her thigh, inflict-ing a painful, though not serious, wound. Sturdivant was arrested Tuesday and brought to Wadesboro and was released by Esq. I. H. Horton on a $100 justified bond for his appearance before him Monday merning.

The diners at a popular New York restaurant are said to have had the privilege of witnessing an amusing little incident one evening not long ago. An Anglicized young man seated himself at a table at which there was only one other person, a writer well known throughout the country, but evidently a stranger to the newcomer. The writer is a man whose dress is always fastidiously neat, but by no means fashionable in cut or expensive in material. When the young man took his seat, the writer glauced up at him

The monocle was dropped in a very few seconds, and then the tumbler was replaced on the table. But the young Anglomaniac's face was crimson while that of the writer remained grave and unmoved, and through the dining room rustled the sound of something that suggested repressed merri-

COTTON MARKETS. By Telegraph to the Morning Star. NEW YORK, July 13.—The cotton market opened firm, with near months two to three points lower and far months unchanged to four points mington, W. C., July 14, 1901. higher on a bad scare of shorts, which grew into a veritable stampede soon SCHOONERS after the call. Large New Orleans buying orders and brisk commission house buying, with some bull trade for European account swelled the demand on which August jumped up to 7.79 and January to 7.80. Trade for a time was tremendously active, with excitement at Springer & Co. fever heat. Strange to say, July was apathetic and unresponsive through it all. By 10.30 o'clock the worst of the scare seemed over and a turn for profits was made. Yet the market held firm and prices reacted but little. Sentiment was bullish through and through on firm Liverpool cables, a bullish review of the week by the Chronicle, an abundant stock of drouth reports from the central and
