showing. Capt. Green and a Meat Thief.

Capt. Robert Green, the city's clever detective, rounded up a meat thief in great shape yesterday. Capt. Green has the happy faculty of looking at a "coon" and telling when he has broken the eighth commandment. Yesterday morning he was peregrinating in the vicinity of Bront and Red Cross streets and fell upon George Robertson, who carried a suspicious looking sack upon his shoulder. Capt. Green addressed an inquiry to the negro as to the contents of the bag and received an insolent reply. He quickly brought the negro to terms and an investigation revealed that the meat was stolen from the Jno. R. Turrentine Company. Capt. Green's prisoner was given a berth at the station house until this morning, when he will be tried.
