

COTTON IN WEST AFRICA

Some time ago we called attention to the efforts being made by the Germans to grow cotton in the territory owned by Germany on the West coast of Africa. We noted the departure of four negroes of this country to instruct the natives in farming generally and in the cultivation and handling of cotton in particular.

Three of these negroes were graduates of Tuskegee (Ala.) Institute and were selected by Booker Washington on account of their special fitness for the work.

The fourth, also a college graduate, was from Tennessee, and was selected to act as superintendent on account of his special fitness.

They took with them a supply of agricultural machinery, and of seed, to begin their experimental farming. The following letter from one of them appeared in the St. Louis Republic and will give some idea of the work they had before them, and what they had accomplished up to the time the letter was written, May 15th.

"As to my work here, I am getting along very well. I find it very hard, however, to get material to work with. This country, like all other unsettled countries, is yet without modern machinery. The saw mill, the cotton gin and, in fact, all modern machinery, is yet to be introduced.

Some of the things we have done since we reached Lome we thought we had to do. I found it very hard, however, to get material to work with. This country, like all other unsettled countries, is yet without modern machinery.

cially interested in its prospective possibilities as a cotton producer, and one of the competitors of the Southern cotton growers. It is needless to say that at least some of the European nations would hail the time when supremacy as a cotton producer were wrested from this country, and fields on the other side of the ocean would supply Europe's demands for raw cotton.

The present Emperor is ambitious and commercially aggressive, while the German manufacturers having achieved the success they have within the past quarter of a century have been inspired to continued effort to attempt more and even greater victories.

The American cotton grower would do well to keep his eye on the German possessions in West Africa and note the progress made in cotton culture. It may and probably will be some years before enough is produced there to materially affect the world's markets, or antagonize American cotton, but it is only a question of years when with this cotton area, and the cotton area of Southern Siberia, and South America, our supremacy will undoubtedly be challenged and we will at least be confronted by competition that it will take all our resources to meet.

In the meantime he will be a wise cotton planter who turns his attention to diversified farming, which is the only sure farming after all.

There is scarcely a day now that the wires do not bring accounts of assaults by negro fiends on white women, not unfrequently followed by murder. Three were reported in the dispatches published yesterday, two of these followed by the murder of the victims: One brute, a murderer of a young woman in Texas, paid the penalty with his life, at the hands of avengers, while the murder of a young woman in Missouri by a negro who became enraged at her resistance, which foiled him in accomplishing his beastly purpose, resulted in the driving of every negro out of the town, save a few who have good reputations.

In our own State there were recently two assaults in Mecklenburg county in one day, one of the victims white, the other a colored child, and notwithstanding the prompt arrest and conviction of the negro who assaulted the white woman, there was another case, right in the city a couple days after, when a negro lying in wait seized and tried to strangle one of two white women who were on their way home. They scream frightened him and he ran away.

Every way has been tried to strike terror into the fiends who perpetrate these crimes. Hanging and even burning at the stake have failed to awe them, for instead of lessening these crimes are becoming more numerous, and their perpetrators bolder. They commit them, as in Charlotte, right under the shadow of the jail, where one fiend is waiting to swing from the gallows into eternity.

Some of the critics who have never been subjected to the ordeal that Southern communities are written homilies on and profess to be greatly shocked by the summary vengeance wreaked upon these malefactors when caught, but they suggest no remedy, and have none to suggest, save "let the law take its course," but if they lived in the South and had a mother, wife or daughter assaulted, and in addition, as is frequently the case, ruthlessly murdered by a heartless fiend, they would not stop to write lectures, or to denounce the "savagery" that called for and wreaked vengeance on the guilty.

Speedy vengeance, outside of the forms of law, may not, and it does not stop these crimes, but what might be the condition of affairs if they were not so avenged? Would a white woman or a female child be safe anywhere outside of their own home? As it is they are not always safe in it.

There is still much speculation as to the prospective yield of corn in this country this year. Of course the estimates can only be approximate, for much depends upon the conditions that may prevail between now and early Fall, when the crop in the great corn States of the West matures. If the growing conditions be favorable the yield may be considerably larger than at present anticipated; if unfavorable, considerably smaller, while there is always danger from frost when the crop is backward. The following, showing the production in the principal corn-growing States, will give some idea of the falling off this year from present indications, on which estimates are based. The table is official as to 1900, and 1904, which was another year of drought, followed by a short crop:

HEALTHY WOMEN.

Wilmington, N. C. Mrs. J. Kennedy, manager of Armorel & Co's. Exhibit, at the Trans-Mississippi Exposition at Omaha, Neb., writes the following of Peruna, as a cure for that common phase of female ailments, known as indigestion.

"I found the medicinal change of diet incidental to eight years' traveling completely upset my digestive system. In consulting several physicians they decided I suffered with catarrh of the stomach."

"The prescriptions did not seem to help me any, so, reading of the remarkable cures effected by the use of Peruna I decided to try it and soon found myself well repaid."

"I have now used Peruna for about three months and feel completely cured. I believe I am permanently cured, and do not hesitate to give my unqualified praise to your great remedy, Peruna."

Such being the case anyone who knows anything whatever about the operations of Peruna can understand why this remedy is a permanent cure for summer catarrh. It eradicates chronic catarrh from the system, purifies the blood of all impurities, and therefore permanently cures by removing the cause, a host of maladies peculiar to hot weather.
