key, N. C., is in the city, the guest of VALUABLE GERMAN PATENT

> Exclusive Right Purchased by Mr. Andrew Smith to Make Chemical Article That Will Require Extensive Plant. Process of Manufacture.

Mr. Andrew Smith, of this city, while on a recent trip abroad, purchased from the owners in Germany a very valuable and exclusive patent right to manufacture and sell in North Carolina a chemically made brick, which it is claimed possesses extraordinary merit and which will revolutionize the brick-making industry of the country.

Interest attaches to the announces ment from the further fact that it is pretty generally understood that a strong company will be organized in Wilmington for the manufacture of the brick and that taken as a whole it will mean a novel and very important enterprise for the city. While Mr. Smith, for the present does not give out the particulars of his purposes in this direction, it is generally accepted that a large amount of money will be expended in the establishment of a plant which will be located on the entire block recently purchased by Mr. Smith at a cost of $2,500 and bounded by Front and Second and Bladen and Harnett streets. Here railroad facilities are the best and ample space is allowed for the extensive works. Mr. Smith not only has the exclusive right in North Carolina but he has the general agency for the Southern States. Mr. Smith said yesterday in speaking of the new process and the organization of his company.

"The making of brick out of sand constitutes an invention of extraordinary importance to the building industry, an invention that will work, and in many respects has already worked undreamed reforms in the art of brickmaking. It can be said of the brick manufactured according to this system, that they can be used for every kind of construction, and in all cases are much preferable to clay-bricks, their shape is far prettier, and they can under this system be given the greatest variety of shapes and colors; they can be made equally as well in Winter as in Summer.

"The idea of manufacturing 'white brick out of these materials is founded on this property, many a trial has been made in this direction, but without giving a satisfactory result. Success has been achieved at last and in-deed a brick made out of sand with a small admixture of chemicals, which has stood the test in Europe. There is a brick made which is in every respect fit for every use to which a good brick is put. On the other hand the cost of the same is very reasonable, and is cheap concerning the quality. "A brief description here of the process of manufacture: The chemicals are pulverized in a ball roller mill; from the mill the pul-verized chemicals fall into an apparatus which is used to meas of chemicals and sand, the latter material being simultaneously brought in to another sort of the apparatus. This measuring apparatus is adjust able and will be set according to the quality of sand to be used. From this measuring apparatus the sand and chemicals thus measured off fall into a mixing apparatus in which the materials are thoroughly blended together. This apparatus, like that previously mentioned, runs continuously and turns the mixture over to an ele vator which carries it wherever i may be wanted; the mixture is compressed into bricks under a very heavy pressure; the press is specially constructed for this purpose. The freshly pressed brick are stacked on iron traycars, which after they are loaded are run into an iron cylinder fitted with rails which is then sealed tight, and a very high pressure of steam is then turned on and in the time of about twenty minutes there is created pressure of eight atmospheres, which is the desired standard to obtain the hydrates and silicates of the sand combined, which gives to the brick its hardness and weatherproof qualities. After the bricks have undergone the action of the high pressure of steam for ten hours, the same steam is turned into a second hardening cylinder that has been filled with bricks in the meantime. The bricks are then taken out and are ready for use. "The brick referred to are by no means a new thing in Europe, but the process has been wonderfully improved within the last four or five years. This I convinced myself of while I was over there last Summer as I looked into every detail of this industry. The German police officials of the building department are known to be extremely pessimistic and conservative whenever they have to pass upon a new building material; it went thus with the White Chemical Brick a cargo of 3,000 tons of kainit for the industry until something like a year ago when it conquered their verdict after being put by them through every possible and impossible test; no pessimism could stand against its salethis port since the late war. The Nor- able quality; and now it is in use by this port since the late war. The Normany of the authorities, royal, state, wegian barque Jata was cleared yesterday by Messrs. Heide & Co., for ity has cut its way through. No Bristol, Eng., with a cargo of rosin no opposition on the part of the claybrick manufacturing interest has been able to hold its own. The industry is now fully recognized in Europe and is very progressive in advancement. Is it not less certain that within a short time such will be the case here in the United States? "There has been now already a great many "rights" sold in the United States which is an indication that the industry will come here also. The bricks referred to will stand a resistance pressure of three thousand pounds and upward, to one cubic inch. The results of the official tests of the resistance to frost was that the brick which had been put in the water for one hundred and fifty hours and afterwards submitted twenty. afterwards submitted twentyfive times in succession alternately every four hours to a temperature of 531 degrees F. below zero, and for three hours thawed out in water in temperate heat have remained abso-S. The jury was composed of the following: John Barry (foreman), B. B. Pridgen (secretary), G. M. Murrell, M. T. Davis, W. B. Brown and G. H. Haskett. Only three witnesses were examined

They were Engineman George W Smith and his foreman, who were on the locomotive which passed over the deceased, and A. C. L. Yard Conductor John Barry, who was near the scene of the accident, and heard the cries of the wounded man. Engineer Smith testified that he was shifting ten empty box cars that had been unloaded at the Champion Compress. He pulled the cars up the switch and stopped op. posite the ice factory for a change of the switch. He saw up the track and there was no one ahead of him. When the switch was changed he started to back down and heard the cries of the colored man. Looking over his tender he saw the body of the man lying beside the track. The fireman testified to about the same facts.

Conductor Barry heard the cries of the wounded man and from his testimony it was gathered that Price must have attempted to have gone between the cars in his hurry to get across and was caught when the train started.

The jury rendered a verdict in effect that the negro came to his death by being run over by a train in the W. & W. yard and that the circumstances leading up to the accident were inknown. No blame was attached to

BANKRUPTCY PROCEEDING.

Baltimore Creditors Ask That Jacob Resnick, of Maxton, N. C., be Declared Bankrupt-The Circumstances.

Jacob Resnick, a Jewish merchant of Maxton, N. C., will be summoned to show cause on November 9th, before Referee Samuel H. MacRae in this city, why he should not be adjudged a bankrupt. A petition in involuntary bankruptcy was yesterday filed in the U.S. court here by Proctor & McIntyre, attorneys of Lumberton, N. C., who represent in the petition certain Baltimore creditors among whom are L. Grief & Bros., Markel Bros. & Co. and Horris Silverman. They have given bond in the sum of $6,000 with the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company as Resnick was accused about October 1st of having set fire to and burned his store at Maxton. Very soon thereafter he made an assignment to J. H. Cook, Esq., but later at the instance of Fire Insurance Commissioner Young, of Raleigh, he was arrested and charged with incendiarism. Resnick gave bond for his appearance at court in the sum of $1,500 and very soon thereafter made his disappearance. It is now sought by the Baltimore creditors to set aside the assignment and to have the business wound up in bankruptcy court. Resnick formerly conducted a store
