SUNDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 27.

WHAT HYPOCRISY.

The Roosevelt-Washington dining incident has given the Republicans of the North an opportunity to indulge in a good deal of hypocrisy, as apparent as the noonday sun. The first endorsement it received was from the meeting at Delaware, Ohio, which opened the Republican State campaign, where Senator Foraker mentioned the incident, which was received with a demonstration of applause.

Of course the motive that Senator Foraker had in speaking of it on that occasion is understood by people who keep up with political movements. There are about 20,000 negro voters in Ohio. It had gone out that President Roosevelt would in his appointments to office in the South choose the most competent and acceptable men regardless of their politics and that when a Republican who could meet these requirements could not be found a Democrat would be appointed. In pursuance of that determination he had already appointed ex-Governor Jones, Democrat, of Alabama, U.S. District Judge.

It was further stated that negroes would not be appointed to positions where they came into official contact with white people, and in no instance where white people would be placed officially under them. This would practically relegate the negro, leave him only subordinate and menial positions, such as he holds in Washington and other Northern cities where he gets government employment.

The presumption is that this virtual turning down of the negro, who under previous Republican administrations had held postmasterships, customs collectorships, 'positions in the internal revenue offices, &c., was not regarded with favor by the negroes of Ohio or 'of other Northern States, and hence Senator Foraker hailed with delight this dinit to throw dust in the eyes of the was politics, politics based on undiluted hypocrisy.

Senator Hanna was at that meeting and gave his approval to this rebuke to and reflection upon his dead friend, whose death he so much sorrowed over, and sincerely, have demolished the conspiracy of Senator Hanna hasn't been in public life as long as Foraker, but he became more of a leader and more conspicuous. Both of them have been brought into close contact with leading negroes. They have frequently met and conferred with them in Washington, and doubtless sometimes in their own home towns. Did Senator Foraker and Senator Hanna ever invite a negro to their tables? If they did they succeeded in keeping it such a

And yet this flamboyant emberblower has the monumental cheek and the brazen hypocrisy to stand in the presence of white men and glory in the act that he would not dare himself and regret that he was not there to give it his personal presence and sanction. And Mark Hanna endorsed all that and branded himself as a conscienceless hypocrite. Both of them were lying, one by utterance, the other by assent.

For years, and until his death, Fred Douglass was the looming figure and intellectual colossus of his race. He wrote, lectured, took part as an orator in political campaigns, and was thrown into intimate contact with Republican leaders in the North. He was a frequent caller at the White House. Did any one ever hear of Fred Douglass being invited to dine at the White House or by Senator Foraker or Senator Hanna, or by any other Republican leader to their houses? And yet he spoke to white audiences right up there where they take so much interest in "the man and the brother;" intelligent and intellectual people, some of them writers and speakers of celebrity sat and listened to him, or sat on the platform with him-but they didn't invite him to their homes nor sit with him at their family tables. Fred Douglass, like Booker

Washington, was half white. There are negro delegates at every Republican national convention and at some of the state conven-

putable negroes who take part in politics. Do the white Republicans fraternize with them socially on such occasions and take them into the same hotels and into the family circles there? It is always an embarrassing question what to do with the negro delegates and they finally dispose of them by shoving them off into some obscure side street hashery and giving them as wide a berth as possible while the convention

DISSAPPOINTED PERSECUTORS.

As far as the verdict of the American people is concerned the Schley court of inquiry might have closed up when prosecutor Lemly got through with his witnesses for their evidence, while intended to be the reverse, was a virtual vindication of Schley. There were too many witnesses-too many who could not conceal their dislike for Schley, and too many callow, bumptious young men who were apparently endeavoring to ingratiate themselves with their superiors by spinning contradictory yarns, telling a good many things they did not know, and forgetting a good many things they should have remembered.

The court, presided over by Admiral Dewey, very soon caught on to this, saw through it, and the result was that prosecutor Lemly and his coached witnesses were frequently called to time by Admiral Dewey, with the information that the court wanted "facts" and not opinions or romances.

As far as sustaining a condemnation of Schley went the investigation was a flat failure before a single witness for Schley was heard, but their testimony made the failure overwhelming. Their testimony was not only a vindication, but a glorification of their chief, for they said more for him than the public ever knew, and more than Schley would have said of himself, for he is a modest man, devoid of the vain glorious egotism that characterizes some of his traducers.

If the investigation has done nothing incident as a placater and used ing else, nor given the public any more reason to admire Schley than negro voters of that State. That it had before, it has done this, it has exposed what is apparently a miserable conspiracy to deprive a worthy Senator Foraker rejoiced in the man of the credit due him for servfact that Mr. Roosevelt invited a ing his country faithfully, it has negro to his family table. He com- given Schley's friends an opportumended it. Wasn't this a reflection | nity to tell what they know about decessors? Not one of these ever tunity to tell his own story in his own straightforward, honest way, and it has brought out many facts war is written.

As Schley and his men demolshed Cervera's fleet so the "facts" brought out in this investigation the navy and Navy Department clique that tried to discredit and de-

SIZING UP ROOSEVELT.

Since Theodore Roosevelt has become President he has become an object of study, more abroad than at home. Some of the estimates of him are so striking as to be worth reproducing. Among these is the following by a writer in the London Fortnightly Review, which draws a comparison between Roosevelt and Kaiser William, thus:

"As young as the German Emperor. comparably with the Kaiser himself in personal force and invested for at least three years with almost equal author secret that the public never heard ity over a greater nation, Theodore Roosevelt is confronted by larger pos sibilities of influence, for good or evil. upon the destinies of mankind in gen eral than have ever opened at any previous time before the occupant of the White House. Nor has there been for many years a President likely to make a bolder and more individual use of his authority. In direct power, the President of the United States, as every one is aware, is equalled, while he holds office, only by the Kaiser and the Czar alone, and the Chief Magistrate of the United States is rather more assured of the support of Congrees and the nation than is the Ger man Emperor of the support of the Reichstag and his people. "His billigerent courage is a moral quality no less than a physicial instinct, and unless responsibility restrains him, he will substitute prompt and decisive initiative for Mr. McKinley's reflective caution. There is a fine suggestiveness about the fact that a descendent of the old Knickerbockers should become President of the United States at the beginning of the twentieth century. But above all these is the dynamic quality of Mr. Roosevelt's youth. We have seen what that has meant in the case of Germany, where the Kaiser has made the whole system of the body politic tingle to the finger tips with the electric energy of his own temperament We can scarcely conceive what youth at the head of administrative affairs might mean in that country.

This writer is evidently familiar with the incidents of Roosevelt's career and has studied him before he became the conspicuous personage he now is. The reference to the probabilities that Roosevelt will take some bold and unprecedented departures from old time precedents has already been verified in some respects by his appointment of Democrats to federal positions, and by his unprecedented social fraterntions in the north. Among these izing with Booker Washington. delegates are some of the most re- This was a surprise, and Mr. Roose-

Peter Grimes, of Indianapolis, has divorce suit on his hands simply because in his religious zeal he made it hot for his wife when she refused to see things spiritual as he did. He declares that his strenuousness was all kindness for he wanted to save her and she would go to hell unless she believed in him. But she seems disposed to take her chances rather than be subjected to his vigorous method of inculcating his religious beliefs.

Colorado dosen't propose to let Arizona get ahead of her on gold finds. She reported two finds within the past week, one which seems to be the crater of a played out volcano which was full of stuff about the consistency of dough but sparkling with golden pebbles. There are thousands of tons of the "dough" in sight. Another is a ledge a few miles from Denver, which pans out $2,000 to the ton.

The Charleston Post denies that Mr. Koester, who was appointed Collector of Internal Revenue for South Carolina, is a "gold Democrat," as alleged. It says he was in 1896 "a ripping Bryanite and silver advocate, just as was his shief patron, Senator McLaurin."

CURRENT COMMENT

-- Southern Republicans do not feel complimented by the President's excuse for appointing Democrats to Federal offices in their States, because he can't find Southern Republicans fit to fill them .-Brooklyn Citizen, Dem.

- Ship subsidy beggars should appeal to the steel corporation to raise out of reason the price of steel so as to impress upon Congress the necessity of giving the subsidy beggers a chance to rob the treasury. As it is, steel is produced so much more cheaply in this country than in Europe, the beggars may lose out unless "the mommunity of interest" of the two can be successfully worked through lobbyists at Washington .- Mobile Register, Dem.

- Reporters of marine intelligence state that the German shipping trade is in a very unsatisfactory condition, and that freight rates on the North Atlantic by steamer have sunk to lower figures than ever before. This looks very much as if the merchants, both of Germany and America, were taking alarm at the portents of commercial war which are darkening the German horizon, and are curtailing their transactions to bring their business down within safe limits in case of possible trouble. - Philadelphia Telegraph, Rep. - Senator Hanna and other Republican leaders who are praising and magnifying President Roosevelt for entertaining a negro in the White House and saying that he has discharged a bounden duty to the negro race in so doing, seems to forget that in taking this position they are reflecting upon the conduct of President McKinley. He earnestly endeavored to be President of the whole country; he showed that he had a kind regard for the black man; yet he never felt that it was his duty as President of the United States, or as a citizen of the United States, to recognize the black man as his social equal .- Richmond from catarrh, and for over ten years I suffered from catarrh of the stomach terribly. "I have taken all kinds of medicines and have been treated by all kinds of doctors, as thousands of my acquaintances are aware in different parts of the United States, where I have traveled, but my relief was only temporary, until a little over a year ago I started to take Peruna, and at the present time I am better than I have been for twenty years. "The soreness has left my stomach

COTTON MARKETS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. NEW YORK, Oct. 26.-The cotton market opened steady with prices two points lower to four points higher, and exhibited a healthy undertone most of the morning on nervous demand from shorts and fair support from the bull side, based on cold weather in the northwest and frost temperatures in the Carolinas. On the Canadian border temperatures over night dropped twelve to twenty-six legrees and show a tendency toward the cotton belt. The cables from Liverpool were disappointing, receipts were large and public buying dragged fully as much as during the forepart of the week. The South sent buying orders to our pit; Europe sold early, but later became a brief buyer of the July option. While the weekly crop weather review of the Chronicle stated that climatic conditions had been ideal for picking, it declared indications still pointed to a short yield. The market for futures closed steady, with prices net four to eight points higher. NEW YORK, Oct. 26.-Cotton quiet
