The Morning Star. BY WILLIAM B. BEKNARD WILMINGTON. N. C. FRIDAY MORNING, DECEMBER,

UPRILL WORK FOR MR. CRUM-PACKER.

Mr. Crumpacker, of Indiana, has his bill for the restriction of Southern representation ready and proposes to launch it on Congress and endeavor to push it through, but it be comparatively few negroes who will not go through for he cannot care to vote, who cannot vote, for make a party question of it, and therefore, the caucus screws can't be put on Republicans who are opposed to it. If he could do that, if he could make a party question of it and it were recognized as such he might get it through, but there are some Republicans in House and Senate who are opposed to it, who will oppose making it a party question, and we do not believe Mr. Crumpacker will get much more encouragement from President Roosevelt than he got from Mr. Mc-Kinley, who snavely told him that he would yeto that bill if it passed. Our private opinion is that unless it met with something like the unanimous support of the Republicans in Congress Mr. Roosevelt would veto it, and there is little probability of its receiving such support.

"The man and the brother" has been before Congress so much in one way or another since his emancipation and enfranchisement that Congress as well as the country has become wearied with him, and about the only thing that could persuade a Republican Congress to give him special attention again would be party necessity, but they don't see anything in that now, for the party leaders feel pretty sure of a solid North and that's all they need to hold power.

But when Mr. Crumpacker essays to discuss his scheme and give reasons why it should pass he will run up against some stubborn facts and figures that he will find pretty hard to get around or climb over, and some of the hardest arguments he will have to meet will come from his own given, eight out of ten would endorse restricted suffrage as one of the best things ever done for the negro since emancipation, regardless of "grandfather clauses" or any other clauses, because they know the effect will be to awaken more interest among the negroes in their schools and more desire to send their children to school that they may learn to read and write and thus put themselves on the same plane, as far as suffrage is concerned, with the white voters. From the showing made by the census of 1900, in ten years from this time there will the bulk of the rising generation will have complied with the requirements of the law by that time and will be voters. This is the conclusion that Wm. R. Merriam, Superintendent of the Census, has come to, and he is a good Republican, who doesn't endorse Mr. Crumpacker's scheme, and shows in an article in the December Forum that the Southern States which have restricted suffrage have simply followed the example of some of the Northern and Western States.

NOW FOR THE CANAL-

With the report of the Isthmian Canal Commission in favor of the Nicaragua route, the Panama canal, which the company has been trying to dump on this country, is eliminated as a delaying factor. The new treaty with Great Britain removes another factor, so that now there is nothing to prevent turning attention to that project in earnest and beginning the work of securing rights which will give this country indisputable perpetual right of way and jurisdiction over the necessary territory along the line from ocean to ocean. Bills have already been introduced in the Senate looking to that. According to this report it will not cost as much to construct the Nicaragua canal as it would to buy and complete the Panama, while it can be completed in six years whereas it will take ten years to complete the Panama canal. Comparing the advantages and disadvantages of both, the conclusion is that the greater advantages are with the Nicaragua route. This is a matter in which the South Atlantic and Gulf States are especially interested for the Nicaragua route will be much nearer than the Panama route would be and better for small craft and sailing vessels, with which much of our traffic will be done. Six years to complete such a work is not a long time, and therefore the country at large may be congratulated upon the progress that has been made so far and the prospect of an early entrance upon the work which promises so much for the commerce of

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.

A German artist, who was anxous to get to this country and did not have money enough to pay his passage, struck on the idea of having himself put in a box and shipped as freight. The box was so arranged that he could lie down in it to sleep and also for the storing of cooked stuff to feed on during the trip. But, unfortunately for him, the ship was about twice as long on the passage as usual, and consequently his supplies of water, &c., gave out, and he was about dead when discovered in the hold of the ship on a pile of salt. The box, fixings, food, and freight cost him $12.50, when he could have gotten steerage passage for $25. But maybe he was too proud to take steerage passage.

The latest in the way of fire extinguishing inventions is a discovery by a Chicago man of a powder which he puts into rapid fire guns, and shoots the fire out. On concussion the cartridge explodes and smothers the fire more quickly and completely than water would, and without one half the racket or damage to property in buildings. A company has been formed to build electric motors to carry the artillery which shoots these projectiles, and it is predicted that they will soon supplant the present fire engines in use. A London physician thinks entirely too much ado is made over disease microbes, inasmuch as every thing we eat, drink and wear has to run the gauntlet of these microbes. If people, he says, believed everything said and written about these things, and get scared accordingly all they would do would be to get into a carbolic bath and stay there until they starved to death. CURRENT COMMENT.

- Chatham Record: A company of Norfolk capitalists have organized the Chatham Mining Company, for the purpose of working some copper mines in Bear Creek township. The company several weeks ago secured options on land in that township and have sunk a shaft fifty feet deep on the land of Mr. Nat. F. Philips and another twenty feet deep on the land of Mr. B. B. Philips, and a rich vein of copper has been developed at each place.

Fayetteville Observer: Mr. J. D. Pearce's store, about 200 yards from Hope Mills factory No 3, formerly Bluff Mills, was burned just before 8 o'clock Monday night. Mr. Pearce and several others were in there a few minutes before, and be shut up the store to go to a singing, and had been out just long enough to get ready, hardly three minutes, when he dis-covered the fire. The factory hose was used to prevent spread of fire, but was not secured in time to save the store. The stock amounted to be-tween $1,500 and $1,800, probably $1,600, and was insured for only $300.

- Tarboro Southerner: The whereabouts of Miss Cropsey, the missing Elizabeth City young lady, continues to excite interest and arouse comment. A reputable gentleman remarked to the reporter this Wednesday) morning that were he not under pledge of secrecy he could tell something of her. The scribe turned himself into an interrogation point and plied questions in every manner he could contrive to elicit information. From the answers he re ceived he drew these conclusions: First, that no force had to be em loved to bring about the w party and from official figures furnished by men of his own party. There isn't a Republican living who has any self respect who would defend or even apologize for Republican rule in the South during the days of the so-called "reconstruction." Such. rule was made possible only by the ignorant and venal vote which was then so powerful. Reducing, if not absolutely destroying that power was the salvation of the South; the restoration of that power would be the South's ruin. It need not be asked how that power was overcome, whether by fair or unfair means, it was overcome, the result was the salvation of the South and a benefit to the whole country which has acquiesced in the South's methods for self-delivery from an ordeal and impending fate that no other civilized people were ever before confronted with. Whenever Republicans speak of and compliment the marvelous progress the South has made since the dark and trying days of reconstruction, they pay tribute to the men who rescued her from negro domination and virtually endorse the methods by which it was done whatever those methods may have been. They might say if asked that they do not endorse intimidation the suppression of votes, counting out and counting in, and all that kind of thing for which the South has been upraided so often and so often charged with, but nevertheless, they do virtually endorse it all when they congratulate the South on the result and her deliverance. We have no doubt that Mr. Crumpacker has at times done this himself, when he wasn't thinking about the negro vote or scheming to punish the South for eliminating the ignorant and vicious negro element, and done by law what she was charged with doing unlawfully. Under similar conditions, and perhaps without as much reason, Mr. Crumpacker would find the people of Indiana protecting themselves from such a vote. even more sweepingly than the Southern States that have restrict-suffrage laws have done. There are Republicans, and very likely some Republican Congressmen, who look upon these suffrage safeguards as good not only for the States which have them, but for the negro also, because while they protect the States from an ignorant, venal and vicious mob, easily controlled by the worst element of white men who pander to that element with the hope of getting of-

of the South.

In his message to Congress President Roosevelt, speaking of the Philippines, said "we have a more serious problem there." Verily we have, about the biggest problem ever undertaken by this Republic. It is not simply the problem of overcoming armed resistance, for be done in time, for there is no comparison between the resources and numbers and the fighting capacity of the men of this Republic and of the Philippines. But the solution of the problem of "benevolent assimilation" about which we have heard so much-that is another and much more perplexing question. We might knock an armed Filipino on the head and turn him over to the buzzards, or chuck him into a hole in the ground and that would be the end of him, but to placate the surly fellow who is disposed to be contentious and to shoot or stab at the first opportunity, and make a good American out of him, "assimilste him, so to speak, that is another matter.

Some idea of the size of this job may be gathered from the estimates of what it has cost for this year and will cost for the next two years, making a total for 1901, 1902 and 1903, according to the figures of the War Department, of $321,800.-090, to which is to be added the money expended previous to this year, about $200,000,000, so that our benevolent assimilation will have cost us by the end of 1903 something over $500,000,000, with a fair prospect that there will still be more "assimilating" to be done. And what are we going to get for all that, for our self-imposed task of trying to make Americans out of Tom Reed's "yellow bellies?" Grabs are costly sometimes.

----- What a lesson the industrial achievements of North Carolina convey to Texas! The manufacturing interests of that State increased 133 per cent. in the decade from 1890 to 1900, showing a total capital invested of $76,503,894, in 7,226 establishments. Annual wages of $13,-868,430 were paid, and materials used cost $53,072,368. The value of products was $94,919,663, an increase of 135 per cent.. This increase is not in one town or section, but is pretty well distributed over the State. The lesson lies in the fact that these industries have been developed almost entirely by natives and home capital.-Houston Chronicle, Dem.

COTTON MARKETS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star NEW YORK, Dec. 5 -The cotton market opened steady with prices five points lower to two points higher, after which the market became firm and the trading basis stiffened to two and three points over last night's bids on active general buying led by shorts and Wall street. English cables, bearish private Liverpool advices, made little impression on the market for a time. Room sentiment was bullishly inclined on the firmness of Southern spot markets, bullish estimates of receipts during the balance of the month and good trade reports. About the only cotton for sale was offered by commission houses whose constituents sold for profits. Trading was very active, with Wall street a seller on sharp advances and a buyer on weak points. The undertone at noon was
