Gen. Lee denies that alleged interview in which he was quoted as saying that President-elect Palma was in danger of assassination if he went to Cuba. On the contrary, he thinks he will be cordially received and loyally supported by the Cubans.

The people of Paterson, N. J., are getting even with the meat trust by nished. reducing their meat rations, and eating more fish. They have cut their importations from six to three car loads a day. If every town did that it would soon bring the B. T. to taw. But every town hasn't a fishery.

In view of the advancing price of beef and other meats, the Savannah News suggests to Georgia farmers that it would not be a bad idea to give more attention to the egg and poultry business, as these are fine substitutes for Western meats. The North Carolina farmers come within the range of that hint, too.
