TESTS OF PROSPERITY.

Behold the great prosperity which the Dingley tariff has brought us, exclaim the regulation Republican stumpers. "Let well enough," "Stand pat," exclaims Mark Hanna. Don't touch the tariff, for if you do, you will endanger our protective system and turn everything up side down. Disturb this tariff, this prosperity bringer, and you bring ruin and disaster. In his speeches Senator Pritchard discants on the great prosperity, the credit for which he claims for his party, and contrasts it with the business depression which had prevailed from 1893 to 1897, which he declared was the result of Democratic rule and poli-

When he does that he proves himself to be either an ignorant or an unscrupulous speaker, who makes claims through lack of information that all men occupying his position should know, or a man who deliberately makes statements regardless of their accuracy for the purpose of deceiving people who may not know any better. The absurdities of these claims were thus exposed by Senator Simmons in his speech in the Court House Monday night. He said:

The great Republican argument this year is prosperity. They say prosperity came with McKinley and the Dingley tariff, and is therefore due to Re publican legislation and administra-

Undoutedly good laws help to make prosperity, and bad laws help to bring adversity. But there may be adversity with good laws and there may be prosperity with bad laws. When the Republican party claims credit for present prosperity because that party happens to be in power, they overlook the fact that the prosperity of to-day is not confined to this country, but is worldwide. Germany, France and England in Europe, Japan in Asis, Argentina in South America and Mexico and Canada in North America, some with a high tariff, some with a low tariff and some with no tariff at all, are all enjoying an unusual degree of prosperity at this time. And this wave of prosperity began in all these countries and throughout the world at about the same time it began here. If the prosperity we are enjoying proves that high protection is the best policy, the prosperity of Japan equally proves that low tariff is the best policy, while the prosperity of Great Britain proves that free trade is the best

This is the conglomeration of inconsistencies and nonsense to which the Republican prosperity argument leads. To prove their prosperity contention. the Republicans point to the bulk of our foreign trade, to the growth of our circulating medium. Tried by the test of the bulk of foreign trade. Great Britain is more prosperous than we are, for that little island, less than twice the size of North Carolina, had a foreign export and import trade during the past year nearly twice as large as we had. Tried by the test of circulating medium, France is more prosperous than we are, for that country has a per capita circulation of $37, while we have only $28. Tried by the test of increase in the per cent of export trade, at leasi six other nations are more prosperous than we are. The per cent. of increase in our export tradeduring the decade from 1891 to 1892 was only 33 per cent. That of Germany and Italy was about one-half times as much. That of Argentina about twice as much, or 63 per cent, to our 33 per cent. That of Japan nearly three times as much, or

97 per cent, while that of Canada was exactly three times as much, or 99 per Some of these countries have the gold standard, some the silver standard; some have colonies and some have no colonies; some have high tariff, some low tariff, and some no tariff at all, And yet they are all

If all the speeches that Senator Pritchard has made since he has been in public life were sifted they would not contain as much logic as is contained in this extract from the speech of Senator Simmons, supported by the facts, as any one familiar with the industrial and commercial conditions of late years will recognize, although they may have escaped memory until recalled.

But Senator Pritchard with the assurance of inspiration strikes the heroic attitude and exclaims behold what the Republican party with its prosperity-promoting policies has done for this country and for North Carolina, as if we had never tasted prosperity before. The Dingley tariff was passed and after awhile prosperity came, and therefore, according to the Pritchard contention, the prosperity was the result of the tariff. He conveniently forgets or ignores the short crops of Europe and the good crops of this country which were the beginning of our prosperity. The fact is that we are indebted for all the prosperity we have had to the farms and farmers of this country, and they are indebted for their prosperity not to Republican tariffs or other policies, but to the adversities of the farmers in other countries which had to look to the American farmer for foodstuffs to make up their shortage.

We do not have to cross the ocean, where conditions are different, to show the folly of their claims for the Dingley tariff, for right across the border our neighbor Canada has had prosperity equal to ours, in some things in excess of ours. She has increased in wealth, in internal development, in agricultural production, in manufacturing and in her exports of products, and all this she did without tariffs to favor some and discrimi nate against others of her people. Of course Senator Pritchard knows this, and every other intelligent Republican knows it, but it isn't their purpose to let the people know it if they can prevent it, for that would spoil the game of humbuggery and the fraudulent claims for the Dingley tariff.

THE DESERTERS' PENSIONS.

In reply to the criticisms as to hi conduct in concecting and pushing the bill to give pensions to Confed erate deserters who deserted from the Confederate, joined the Federal army and made war against their own people and section, Senator Pritch ard defends himself on mercenary grounds, just as he does his support of the Dingley tariff, and says he is proud of it, because that act will bring over $5,000,000 into the South. We don't believe it will bring any such sum or anything like it, for we don't believe there were as many deserters as that who joined the Federal army, and many who did have doubtless found more congenial habitations in other sections of the country. But assuming that Mr. Pritchard is correct in his calculation, the Raleigh Post propounds to him and to the Republican Congressmen, Blackburn and Moody, who voted for his bill, the following pertinent

You, gentlemen, voted in the recent Congress to impose a tax to pay pensions to the federal soldiers of $138, 000,000 during the current year. This represents a per capita tax on all the men, women and children of the Unit ed States of $1.76. On this basis North Carolina's share of this tax is 3,344,000, a nice sum for this one object for our people to pay.

Again, you gentlemen voted for and boast that you secured the passage of a bill to pension those who deserted the Confederate army afterward served in the federal army, which Senator Pritchard declared in his recent canvass would bring "more than five million dollars into the South." On a per capita basis North Carolina's share of this is, in round figures, is $117,000 per annum Putting these two items of pension tax for the regular pension army and the deserters—you gentlemen voted a the recent session of Congress to tax the people of North Carolina each year three million four hundred and sixty-one thousand dollars.

We have yet to hear or find the record of a solitary word of protest coming from either of you in the late Congress to this heavy burden upon the people you represented for this cause: on the contrary you claim the paternity of the deserter bill and hoast of your success in "putting it through. You do, however, "condemn" the Democrats of this State for "extravagance" and for "increasing expenditures" when one item this "extravagance" and in increased expenditure was for the honest old Confederate veteran, whose unpardonable crime in your eyes, apparently, is that he did not desert his country and people and don the uniform of the enemy. Under the Democratic pension law previous to the act of the last Democratic Legislature the pension tax for our old veterans and the widows and orphans of our nondeserting soldiers amounted to about $120,000 annually. This "Democratic administration" increased this to $200, -

000, an "extravagant" addition of only eighty thounsand dollars. 'How does this $80,000 contrast with your $117,000 for deserters and $3,344,-000 for the regular pension fund, over three millions of which go out of the State to be distributed in Northern States?

Jeter Claimant Pritchard was evidently not thinking what a boomerang he was shying when he made his boast of bringing these $5,000,-000 or more of pension plunder into the South.

A LESSON THAT SHOULD NOT BE FORGOTTEN.

The settlement of the coal strike, after a duration of five months and a half, is something upon which the whole country may be congratulated, for it had become a very serious and alarming affair. The money loss caused by it runs away up into the millions, but that was insignificant in comparison with the more serious consequences following, which would have become still more serious had the strike been prolonged and the coal famine more severe. There was much suffering as it was, but the greater suffering which would have followed would inevitably have driven the people to desperation and riot and bloodshed might have been the order of the day in the larger cities of the North which are dependent upon the Pennsylvania mines for coal. The settlement of the strike happily re lieves the situation and averts the apprehended consequences of a coal

But the strike teaches a lesson which should not be forgotten. It teaches the mine operators that they must not assume to be supreme dictators, nor claim to rule by divine commission, but that they must have some regard to public sentiment, which when aroused is mighty. With all their imperious bearing and arrogant obstinancy they had to yield at last, and recognize the two elements they so obstinately ignored-the public and the miners' Union, the first of which they recognized when they entered into conferences with committees of citizens and the President, the second of which they virtually recognized when they proposed the appointment of a commission by the President, as had been previously proposed by Mr. Mitchell, President of the Miners' Union, which proposition they had so unceremoniously rejected. There were some suggestions attached to their proposition, but it was a concession all the same, and to that extent a recognition of the Miners' Union. It teaches the miners that to be successful they must have public sentiment with them, for it was this which at last forced the active efforts to end the strike, and compelled the operators to yield, and that to win and hold this sentiment they must avoid lawlessness and violence, and recognize the rights of men who do not belong to the unions.

It teaches the law-makers of the States the necessity of devising some way to prevent these conflicts between employers and employed in industries producing those necessaries the withholding of which may have such wide spread effects and cause such intense suffering. With such a lesson as is thus furnished there can be no excuse for the Legis lature of Pennsylvania, or of any other State in which the industry of coal mining is largely carried on, for longer ignoring or dallying with this vital question.

The New York Tribune is responsible for the story that during his swing 'round in New England President Roosevelt, when he got tired of bobbing to the natives, buncoed them by getting Secretary Moody, who is built somewhat on the Roosevelt model, to put on his specks, grab his beaver and appear as his proxy where the train didn't stop long enough to let the Roosevelt ruse be discovered.

ALMOST A MIRACLE. Gentlemen:—In September, 1899, I took rheumatism in a very bad form. In a most after the disease started I had to give up my work and go to bed. It continued to grow worse until my arms and hands were badly drawn, so much so that I could not use them. My legs were drawn back until my feet touched my hips. I was as helpless as a baby for nearly twelve months. The muscles of my arms and legs were hard and shriveled up. I suffered death many thats over. Was treated by six different physicians in McColl, billon and Marlon, but none of them could do me any good, until Dr. J. P. Ewing, of Dillon, came to see me. He told me to try your "Rheumacide." He got me one bottle of the medicine and I began to take it and before the first bottle was used up I began to get better. I used five and a half bottles and was completely cured. That was two years ago, and my health has been excellent ever since. Have had no symptoms of rheumatism. I regard "Rheumacide" as by far the best remedy for rheumatism on the market. I cannot say too much for it. I have DILLON, S. C., Aug. 18th, 1902. no symptoms of rheumatism. I regard "RHEUMACIDE" as by far the best remedy for rheumatism on the market. I cannot say too much for it. I have recommended it to others since and it has cured them.

Will say further, that I began to walk in about six days after I began to take "RHEUMACIDE," with the aid of crutches; in about three months after I began to take it, I could walk as good as anybody, and went back to work again. Very truly, JAMES WILKES.
