A STATE PATROL.

In Saturday's issue of the STAR we published an editorial on the movement for a vagrancy law for Georgia, in which we made reference to the patrol system, which is the main feature of the bill introduced. Since that article was published we have found in the Balti more Manufacturers' Record the gist of the bill, written for it by its author, Hon. R. B. Blackburn, a member of the Legislature. In connection with it he gives some of the reasons which impelled him to draft and introduce the bill, with some of the reasons why it should be adopted, as follows:

The proposed measure vests the appointing power in the grand juries of the several counties, and provides that seven citizens shall be named from each militia district as patrolmen.

These patrolmen are to serve for twelve months, and are to be exempt from road duty during their respective teems, and are to be compensated from the insolvent cost fund of the State in manner and form as is now provided for the pay of deputy sheriffs for the performance of similar duties.

They will be subject to the call of a captain selected from their own number, and shall be clothed with police powers, it being 'prescribed that they shall patrol their respective districts and arrest all profligate, idle and suspicious persons, and see that all such persons as may be classed as vagrants shall be dealt with as the law against vagrancy provides.

In a word, the proposed measure declares war on that class of criminals known as vagrants, and offers him who works the safe enjoyment of all that he earns.

With this patrol system in operation many of the horrors incident to a life in the country will be dissipated; in fact, nearly all crime starts in idleness. Let him who is without means begin to idle, and it is but a short step to the lane that leads to every known vice and crime, and the system that checks idleness saves the citizen from this menace to his personal and properly rights, and this law, properly enforced, will eventually drive the vagrant from

The avenue of escape is conducive to crime. He who contemplates a crime rarely ever puts the thought into action unless his desire to do wrong is accompanied with the companion thought of being able to escape the punishment by the law. With this patrol system in operation ac criminal could possibly hope to traverse more than one district or couline before being overtaken by t. constant presence of this patrol, or some part of it, upon the highways and the secrecy, yet certainty of it movements, would, in my judgment in many instances deter crime.

The conditions in the South, with which most people are familiar, make the establishment of a rural police an imperative duty of the hour. To leave the women and children in our farm districts at the mercy of the lawless is a wrong that none can endorse. The State may boast of its generous endowments to the public school fund. but no child of the farm can enjoy the blessings vouchsafed by such a gift when its very life would be in jeopardy in going to and from school. Give a people a perfect police protection, as this bill insures, and the child will receive from the State the moral and intellectual development necessary to usefulness and complete citizenship. The State may swell with patriotic pride as the story of its fertile fields and great mineral resources is unfolded to the stranger who would make his home in her borders, but let one shriek of an outraged home be heard from the good housewife that succumbs to the clutch of a brute while the husband is at work in a distant field, and the terror of the famine could not make more desolate the scene. 'Tis such crimes as these that have caused and are causing hundred of our people to leave the farms and look for peace and happiness in the congested centers, and just in proportion as the farm is neglected the towns and cities become overcrowded, and in the war that ensues greed and necessity usurp the place of right, license suppresses liberty, virtue gives way to vice, and iconoclast stands ever ready to tear down that which others would

This exodus from the farm is due, I might say, almost entirely to the absence of police protection; but once let it be known that the women and children can be made to feel safe, intelligence and refinement will return to agricultural pursuits, the fertile fields will be reclaimed, and the product of the farm will be increased to its maximum, giving an income that will enhance the value of all farming sections and return to the State an ample fund with which to maintain a system that brings to the taxpayer a substantial safety in the pursuit of happiness. 'Tis this kind of safety that my bill insures.

The country patrol is not altogether new, nor is it an experiment. The Southern States maintained a perfect patrol system for many years up to and prior to the war, and it was a sad day for this country when the system was suspended. It was to this sys tem, and the moral effect of its operation, that its people enjoyed absolute safety during the period of the war, and if our people are ever to pursue an agricultural life with any degree of safety, it must be through the instrumentality of a law similar to the one

Sociologists may theorize and misguided philanthropists may endow, but he who deals with things as they are is the real philosopher-all others are

We publish this because it is a matter in which North Carolina is as much interested as Georgia and because any argument advanced in its favor for Georgia applies with equal force to North Carolina and to every other Southern State. Ninety-nine out of a hundred of the outrages perpetrated upon women are in the rural districts, many of them in the homes of the victims in the absence of their male protectors, and these crimes are in most cases perpetrated by brutes who would not be permitted to be at large in any community where this system was in operation.

Another fact to strengthen the demand for such a system is the large number of tramps who infest the country and no longer confine themselves to railroad lines, as they through the country and camp in EXPECTORANT. barns and, when they can, bulldoze For sale by J. C. Shepard.

the families they camp on and not only ask food, but if refused demand it. When the men of the family happen to be away, of course the women are at the mercy of these tramps who give their orders as if they owned the place. The tramp is bad enough, but he is a secondary consideration, for aside from his foraging for food and shelter there are few if any crimes laid to his

But the vagrant, vicious, brutal negro, he is a menace and a terror always, for no one knows when and where he will put in an appearance. In the country where there are few to pursue on short notice and the opportunities for hiding in the woods or swamps are so many, and counting on being harbored and protected by men of his own race, he has little fear of detection or capture, and is therefore encouraged and emboldened in the perpetration of crime, especially the crime that leads to so much lynching. Any law that is intended to prevent this and holds out a hope of doing it commends itself to the people whether it costs money or

But in Georgia it is said it will cost little or nothing, for more money will be saved to the State in the prosecution of criminals and in their keeping afterwards than this patrol system would cost, which would be equally true of every other Southern State. Whether it cost much or little money, the good it will do, the protection it will give the people who live in the country and the sense of greater safety the women and children will have when they venture from home will be worth every dollar such a law would cost.

Believing this, we hope to se some such law adopted by this and by every other Southern State, for if there be we feel sure that there will then be little vagrancy, that crime will be very largely reduced and the reasons for lynch law executions be few and far between.

OLD TALK RESUMED.

Right on the heels of the election when the Republicans felt sure that they held the House of Representaives, talk of the Crumpacke movement to restrict Southern representation in Congress and in the Electoral College was resumed. W might expect that, for some states men must have their hobbies, and if they can't find one they make one. This is Crumpacker's hobby. It gives him some notoriety if not fame.

We have no doubt that he will bob up with it in Congress, and we have no doubt that he will have a pretty strong backing, but whether strong enough to run it through remains to be seen. We don't believe he will, and if he did he could not possibly make it of any service to his party before the next Presidential election, and if the Republicans should be successful in that they would lose all interest in that question, They will keep it alive, for they will find it useful in hold ing the negro vote in line in those Northern States where that vote is a factor and must be pandered to

But the South need not be worried about schemes of that kind, for running a bill like that through Congress doesn't do the work. I must be done by constitutional amendment, for the constitution bases representation on population, not on the number of votes cast, and if it were possible to carry such an amendment it would require several years to do it. Mr. Crumpacker, we know, claims that Congress has the power to do it under the 14th amendment, but there are some much abler Republicans than Mr. Crumpacker, who differ from him in that, and so far every judicial opinion rendered on the suffrage question is affected by the 14th and 15th amendments is against his contention, so that there is no occasion to be particularly concerned about Mr. Crumpacker with his hobby.

The police had to be summoned to suppress a juvenile riot in one of the public schools in Chicago a few days ago. The teacher got sick and the superintendent sent a colored women as a substitute. The children, all under 13 years of age, drew the line on that raised a riot, attacked the teacher and caused such a rumpus that the police had to be called in to restore the peace. The color line seems to be drawn up there where even the kids insist upon it.

Rejuvenates.

Thousands of men and women who have neglected the work of physical recuperation in the summer months, are now carrying a burden of disease In the majority of cases, impure and poisoned blood and a sluggish circulation are the direct causes of suffering and misery. Are you, dear reader, one of the unhappy victims? If so, the life stream must be made pure, the health-wrecking laxity of the blood vessels must be corrected, the nerves and tissues must be nourished. Paine's Celery Compound is the medicine that physicians recommend for the increase of pure blood in the arteries, and for arousing the purifying organs to cast off the impurities that give rise to disease. Mr. Jas. F. Hudson, Spring Ridge, La., was a terrible sufferer from impure blood; he tells how he banished his troubles:-

"From some cause my blood became impure and resulted in boils and pi 1.ples. At one time I suffered from 27 boils. No one can imagine what I suffered. I tried sulphur, sarsaparillas and other remedies, but no relief came. Mr. Sebastian, a merchant whom I used to clerk for, handed me one of your circulars and insisted that I should use Paine's Celery Compound. After using two or three bottles the boils were not so numerous nor so large. After using the fifth bottle, I was entirely cured, and have been myself ever

GOING TO REORGANIZE.

It is said that Senator Pritchard has not been so completely demoralized by the result of the last election that he has abandoned hope, and will therefore proceed to organize a party of that left to furnish material to be gin on. Of course he will go on manipulating the machine, as badly smashed as it was on the day of election, for that is the only thing he can do, unless he goes out of politics altogether, and that would leave him practically without an occupation. Since he has been in politics he has devoted himself mainly to that, and has found it profitable and doubtless congenial.

But while Mr. Pritchard is a man of some experience in politics, and should be, with his experience and his association with expert wire manipulators, of more than ordinary cleverness he is not, and is not the man to reorganize a wreck, or to organize opposition to the Democratic party. He is entirely too tactless, talks too much, and flounders too much when he talks.

A politician of tact would never have closed the doors of a Republi can State Convention against negro delegates duly chosen, for that trick was so thin that every white man with sense ought to keep out of a lunatic asylum saw through it, and therefore it didn't fool any white man while it did offend every negro in the State and turned every one of them against Pritchard and the party manipulated by him. They showed their resentment, and retaliated on the day of election. If it hadn't been for his bungling, when he thought he was playing a clever game, the Democratic majority wouldn't have been half as large as it was, and the Republicans might have captured a couple of the congressional districts.

Mr. Pritchard might be a useful worker in some subordinate position but he is not the man to organize a party to fight the Democracy of this State. He wasn't built for a great, resourceful leader.

A PROBLEM SOLVED.

Another Gordian Knot Cut.

Discovery Invaluable to the Science of Medicine.

An Invention That Will Be of Benefit to Thousands of People.

There is no doubt about the value of Vinol, this new form of cod liver oil, concerning which so much has been said lately. It is just another one of those great inventions that is bound to revolutionize a certain branch of science. This time the science is that of saving lives. Hence the greater good that will be derived from this discovery.

Mr. Robt. R. Bellamy of this city, who so fortunately succeeded in associating himself with the prominent Boston firm, has indeed made his name one that will never be forgotten in our city. His foresight; and shrewdness enable him to take advantage of what has proved to be a most wonderful blessing to all who are in need of medicine for the cure of throat, lung and bronchial troubles, as well as wasting diseases of every description. This Vinol is simply cod liver oil in a new form, cod liver oil without any oil, paradoxical as the statement may sound. In other words, as Mr. Robt. R. Bellamy explains it himself, Vinol is the concentrated essence containing all the active medicinal principles found in the liver of the live cod. without any of the objectionable features that were formerly extracted at the same time, such as fatty matter. The extract which is the basis of Vinol becomes tasteless, administered as it is in a delicate table wine. The efficient manner in which it acts is really wonderful. Physicians are now able to prescribe for patients Vinol where it would have been impossible a short time ago to have recommended cod liver oil on account of the depleted condition of the patient's digestive This has always been a drawback that has prevented more cures being effected where cod liver oil has been indica ted. Patients are now able to take this medicine without the slightest incoavenience. In fact, to take delicious Vinol is a pleasure. Its beneficial effect is most gratifying. It is not often we believe it our duty to expatiate so fully on a subject, but this is one that will admit of careful investigation by all, for it is indeed of the gravest importance that every one should be conversant with a remedy that is so often needed in our bleak cli

THE PHALANX.

Formation In the Militar ods of Ancient Greece. A phalanx in the military affairs of Greece was a square battalion or body of soldiers formed in ranks and files compact and deep with their shields joined and pikes crossing each other so as to render it almost impossible to break it. At first the phalanx consisted of 4,000 men, but this number was afterward doubled by Philip of Macedon, and the double phalanx is hence often called the Macedonian phalanx. Polybius describes it thus:

"It was a square of pikemen, consisting of 16 in flank and 500 in front. The soldiers stood so close together that the pikes of the fifth rank extended three feet beyond the front. The rest, whose pikes were not serviceable owing to their distance from the front, couched them upon the shoulders of those who stood before them and, so locking them together in file, pressed forward to support and push on the former rank, by which means the as sault was rendered more violent and irresistible." The spears of those behind also stopped the missiles of the enemy. Each man's pike was twentythree feet long. The word phalanx is also used for any combination of people distinguished for solidity and firmness. A grand phalanx consisted of 16,384 men.

Making Drinking Water Safe. Uncomfortable consequences may follow the use of the best of water by persons who are not accustomed to it, as we all know from experience in changing our usual daily beverage. A simple and efficient way of preventing trouble from a change of water is to carry a small vial of the crystals of permanganate of potash with you and to put one of the pieces in each glass of water that you drink. It will turn the water a slight pinkish tinge and, according to an authority, make it a safe beverage for strange stomachs.

COTTON MARKETS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star NEW YORK, Nov. 10.-The cotton market opened easy at unchanged prices to a decline of nine points and became very active while much unsettled. Most of the session the feeling was very weak. At the lowest point prices showed a loss of thirteen to nineteen points, but just before the close there was a partial rally with the market finally steady at a net decline of eleven to fifteen points. The weakness followed disap pointing cables, the English market netting a decline of points on spot prices and three to four points on the future list, ignoring our advance of four to eight points made Saturday. At the same time the market was unfavorably in fluenced by the demoralization in Wall street. Many Wall street people were long of cotton and sold out to take care of their securities. Commission houses were also active sellers; in fact, the selling movement was quite general and largely on Southern orders. The Southern spot markets were generally easier; four of the leading points reported a decline of anywhere from 1.16 to $c; the rest reported no change in prices, but generally an easier feeling. The local market for spot cotton closed quiet at five points decline. The spot markets have shown less de cline than the future list. The total sales were estimated at 350,000 bales.
