rency reform has long been established. Present laws were framed in 1862 with a view to selling bonds for the war: now a change is needed.

The present bill has the virtue of simplicity in a degree not usual in such matters and will be understood by all business men. Its purpose is to provide an increase in the circulating medium for the purpose of insuring that there shall at all times be sufficient money to carry on the business of the country in view of the ever increasing demands. If some provision is not made, the prosperity of the country may prove the source of a commercial crisis. The object is to have a currency that will spring into being at the bidding of business and as certainly disappear when that business is finished. The demand for actual currency in the South is great during the cotton season; in the West, when the great food crops must be marketed.

One of the leading features of the Fowler Bill is a provision that any National bank may take out for circulation an amount of national bank notes not exceeding 25 per cent. of its paid-up capital stock without depositing U.S. bonds in the manner now provided; these notes to be furnished by the government at the expense of the bank. Before any bank shall receive any of these notes it shall deposit as a guaranty of the payment thereof U.S. bonds or gold coin equal to 5 per cent. of the notes taken out and this deposit shall be a part of the lawful reserve of the bank against these notes, the interest upon the bonds being payable to the bank depositing them. The secretary of the treasury is to have authority to sell the bonds for certain specified purposes if it should be necessary. Each bank between Second and Third streets. taking out notes for issue and circula-

SAD FUNERAL YESTERDAY MORNING.

Remains of Robert Payne Laid to Rest. Tribute from Companions.

In the presence of a very large concourse of friends the funeral of young Robert Fairfax Payne, whose tragic death on Tuesday afternoon cast a gloom over the entire community, was conducted at 10 o'clock yesterday morning from St. James' Episcopal church, the rector, Rev. B. W. Hogue, officiating. The beautiful choral service was used, the surpliced choir, including a large number of boys, having sung the hymns with touching effect. Nearly every student of the High School was present as a last sad mark of respect to their schoolmate and the honorary pall-bearers were from the circle of the unfortunate young boy's mmediate friends. The floral offer-

He quoted at length from Dr. Wares' sermon Sunday at Centenary Church, Winston, denouncing the bill. On the other hand a number of ministers including Dr. Huffam of the Baptist church, was quoted as advocating it. The bill is sure to pass final reading to-morrow. Among the bills introduced in the Senate was one by Senator Woodard to amend the local option act so as to permit: "The establishment of local dispensaries wherever desired by a majority of the qualified voters in the locality to be affected."

It begins with a preamble reciting that much legislative time is now consumed with local questions and the Democratic pollcy is to let the people decide their local matters. The bill provides that on a petition of onethird of the qualified voters of a town, township or county, the county com nissioners shall call an election on the Tuesday after the first Monday in June on years when the General Assembly meets, when the qualified voters shall cast ballots "dispensary" or "license." It exempts the bodies of those who die in homes for the aged and infirm, insane asylums, soldiers' home and such as are claimed by relatives.
