Compromise Measure Introduced in Legislature Yesterday by Mr. Murphy.

TO BE CONSIDERED LATER.

Sald That It May Supplant Watts and London Bills in the General Assembly-Local Option the Strong Feature Claimed for It.

[Special Star Telegram.] RALEIGH, N. C., February 6 .- Murphy, of Rowan, has introduced in the House and had referred to the Committee on Propositions and Grievances a "Whiskey Bill," embodying many features of both the Watts and London bills, now pending, but in a much less drastic form, which, indications are now, will come much nearer meeting the approval of a majority in both branches of the Legislature than any other bill yet introduced.

While providing for counties or localities to adopt prohibition, dispensary or saloons, they are left to a vote of the people as is also the question of confining distilleries to incorporated towns, it being provided that counties vote on this question.

Ample election machinery is prorided for any county to vote on manufacturing, saloons or dispensary. A tax of from $4 to $16 per month is to be paid by distillers in counties where distilleries are allowed, the tax to be scaled according to the capacity of the distillery.

Committee from the Chamber of Commerce.

OBSERVATIONS.

Copies of the Paper Sent to Principal Cities West and South, Asking for Co-operation - Leading Peatures of the Measure.

Supplementing its action by pointed and conservative argument, the special committee recently appointed by the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce to formulate the sentiment of the body toward the Fowler Currency Bill, now pending in Congress, has made its report and yesterday copies of the same were sent to 64 trades bodies in the principal cities of the South and West, asking for similar action to that taken here. Many chambers of commerce are already discussing and acting upon the bill, notably those at Charlotte and Richmond and the Wilmington Chamber, which took the invitation in this section of the country, is making a strong effort to accelerate the movement. The resolution is as follows:

"Resolved; That it is the sense of this Chamber that the Fowler Currency Bill is the first step in the true solution of our national currency problem; and that its enactment into law will conserve the commercial interests of the country at large, and be of particular advantage to the South and West, in which sections the circulating medium is relatively small and banks of issue comparatively few

"Resolved; That the recurring harvest seasons of the south and west require an elastic currency readily responsive to the demands of business, which requirement can only be met through the medium of an asset bank currency, which will expand upon demand and as readily retire when the demand has passed.

"Resolved; That this expression of opinion be notified to our members of Congress with the request that they support the bill, and use every effort to have it enacted into law at the present session of Congress.
"Resolved; That Chambers of Commerce of the South and West be requested to take similar action on the preach a series of sermons at | bill, and use their good offices for its early enactment into law." Referring to the above resolutions the committee, composed of Messra. J. A. Taylor, J. H. Chadbourn and James Kyle, begs to invite attention to the following among other facts bearing on the need for a greater volume of currency for the business of the The wealth of the country has prac-deposits have more than doubled within the past seven years. Exchanges have more than doubled within the past seven years. National bank notes stand at 385

tically doubled within the past 20

millions, or about 50 per cent. of the capital of the National banks. United States notes are stationary in amount, and silver in its various forms remains practically unchanged, or about 650 millions. The annual production of gold is no more than sufficient to make good the ever increasing requirement for bank reserves.

The high and ever increasing premium on government bonds, together with the onerous conditions governing issue, renders the issuing of National bank notes on a bond basis more and more unprofitable, so that there is no rational reason to expect an expansion of bank note currency from this source; and since our other forms of currency are practically stationary, the only hope for an increase in the volume of circulation is through asset bank currency.

These facts disclose that while the wealth and business of the country have more than doubled in recent years, the circulating medium is practically stationary. Such a condition cannot be financially sound, and acute monetary crises are liable to result therefrom at any time. Witness the impending crisis in New York a few months since, when disaster was only avarted by the prompt action of powerful clearing house banks. But for the assurance given by this committee of bangers, a panic would have been inevitable, and once precipitated, its effect would have been ruinous and wide spread.

TOBACCO WAREHOUSE COMPANY.

Call for Two Additional Installments of Subscription to Its Capital Stock.

The Board of Directors of the Wilmington Tobacco Warehouse Company has instructed Secretary James Kyle to call upon stockholders for the second and third instalments of their subscription to the capital stock and notice of the action is now being given. The first instalment of 25 per cent. was paid several weeks ago. The second and third of 25 per cent. each will be due and payable at the office of the secretary on Feb. 15th and March 1st, respectively.

The company has exceedingly bright prospects for success from the very start. President Worth is receiving bids for a warehouse 100x200 feet in size and all other buildings necessary for a market second to none in North Carolina. As before stated the company has purchased two entire blocks of real estate, containing about five acres, at the intersection of the Coast Line and Seacoast railroad tracks, in the northeastern section of the city. Work on the buildings will begin very

The Two Connected in Mayor's Court to the Tramp's Undoing.

Jno. Kellog, a white tramp, was landed in jail for the Superior Court yesterday after a preliminary trial by Mayor Waddell on a charge of the larceny of two boxes of sausage from an Atlantic Coast Line freight car at Swift & Co.'s warehouses.

Policeman J. B. Newkirk discovered that the car had been broken open when he went on duty on the Nutt street beat very early yesterday morning. He notified police headquarters and a little after 4 o'clock the same merning, Policeman J. G. Carney found the tramp at Sixth street bridge with the goods. The officer could not reconcile the man's appearance and the large amount of provisions, so he made the arrest; tramp, sausage and all. Once at the police station, Officer Newkirk's report and Officer Carney's arrest tallied so precisely that upon identification of the property by Swift & Co., the Mayor just couldn't resist the temptation to send Mr. Kellogg Measure Introduced in the State Escaped Murderer of Cumberland That Makes Wealth. Senate Calculated to Retard Railroad Travel.

Gov. Aycock Sends Recommendation. Increase in Pensions-Freight Rate Discrimination-Sell the Old Court House Property.

[Special Star Telegram.]

RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 6.-In the Senate to-day more than an hour was devoted to discussing the Justice "whistle bill," requiring railroads to ring bells and blow whistles until noticed when trains are approaching and pedestrians are on the track. The railroad people declare the result of such a bill would be to greatly impede fast travel, forcing trains which are now under control to much less of time. The opposition succeeded in having the bill re-referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Notable bills passed were: To amend the charter of Jacksonville, Onslow county; to incorporate Abbottsburg, Bladen county; to incorporate Bladenboro, Bladen county; to provide for restoring estates of cured inebriates; to prohibit manufacture and sale of iquor in Harnett county.

London's bill to make insuring the ives of infants unlawful was tabled. Gov. Aycock sent a message to the Senate with the special report from President Venable, of the State University, urging the necessity of a spe-cial $85,000 appropriation for permanent improvements. Important bills as follows were intro-

Pollock, to prevent dogs from run ning at large and tax them $1 for males, $5 for females for benefit of the chool fund. To establish a branch court house at

Red Springs, Robeson county. Bellamy, to increase pensions for Confederate soldiers by an extra $100,-000 appropriation, and to re-classify Blount, to investigate freight discrimination, the same being a bill prepared by a committee from the North Carolina Associated Boards of Trade. The Senate adjourned out of respect to Congressman J. M. Moody, whose death was announced.

Williams, to give justices of the peace jurisdiction in cases for carrying Abell, to amend the law, so as to permit persons travelling in the inerest of education to use free passes. Foy, to improve public roads.

Benbow, a resolution of respect to the late Congressman Moody. The noted Wilkes prohibition bill was the special order in the House for noon to-day, but it was postponed until noon next Tuesday, thus staving off a hard fight. Indications are now that the bill will be lost.

Among the bills passed were: To exempt train dispatchers from

To allow sale of old court house property of New Hanover county. To prevent the manufacture and sale of liquor in Robeson county. To eliminate the oath in primary elections, except in cases of challenge. Resolution of respect to the late Congressman Moody. When bills 13, 14 and 15 were reported favorably in the Senate Thursday Senator Marshall, (Rep.), in each presented a minority report. These are the bills affecting the county government of Sampson county, provid-ing for four additional county comdissioners to be named by this General Assembly, dividing the office of sheriff and treasurer and naming a treasurer by this Legislature and proriding for the future election of these officers by magistrates to be named by the General Assembly.

Mr. Offman, of Randolph, introduced a bill to protect the travelling public by having capable agents or oper ators at railroad stations. It provides that no railroad or telegraph company shall keep an agent or operator on continuous duty more than ten hours a day; that telegraph operators shall furnish evidence of proficiency before they may be employed by any company, except operators who have been in active service for one year prior to this act. The informer in cases of vioation is to get one-fourth of the fine

Preight Rate Discrimination.

The bill introduced to day by Blount, of Washington, for the State Associated Boards of Trade against freight rate discriminations, recites that charges have been repeatedly made that the railroads were discriminating in freight rates against North Carolina shippers to the injury and great loss of its citizens, that it is the nighest duty of the State to redress wrongs and secure equal privileges to all. In view of these facts, the bill directs the Governor to appoint a commissioner to investigate fully the charges of discrimination in freight rates, that the railroads may be either exonerated or the citizens protected This commissioner is to be paid by the State and will receive $125 per month salary and not exceeding $75 incidental expenses. In the event of the commissioner reporting that such discriminations does exist, the Governor is to take steps to protect the citizens. The bill was referred to the House Committee on Railroads, and Railroad Commission to be heard by committee next Monday afternoon.

ROCKY MOUNT NEGRO ARRESTED.

Charged Here With Larcesy of Tools from the Railroad Shops.

Gus Hill, a colored fireman on the Atlantic Coast Line, who lives at Rocky Mount, was arraigned in the Mayor's court yesterday and gave $50 bond to appear in the higher court and answer a charge of the larceny of a number of tools from the A. C. L. shops in this city. The negro was arrested several days ago and was represented at the hearing yesterday by Messrs. Bellamy & Bellamy.

Hill denies his guilt, but upon his arrest this week, Chief Furlong telegraphed the chief of police of Rocky Mount and had the negro's house searched. Two hand saws, one crosscut saw, a brace and bit and a breast drill were found on the premises, forhere by the shop workmen, Gave Himself Up to Mr. J. H. McGirt, Who Says He Will Take None of the Reward-Prisoner Tells of flis Escape from the Jall.

The community was none the less surprised three days ago when it was announced that Ed. Utley, under a 20year sentence for murder, had escaped from jail at Favetteville than it was yesterday at noon when it was flashed over the wires from Cumberland that he had returned and quietly given himself up. It was known that he had almost any amount of money at his command and that he had strong and influential friends who would perhaps view the situation that a banishment for life from his home for one of his circumstances would be almost an equivalent punishment to the 20 years to which he was sentenced to the penitentiary and would therefore let him go. Utley had other surprises in store for the public, how ever, and before the authorities had hardly recovered from their astonishment at his disappearance, he was calmly sitting in the sheriff's office, telling the story of his escape. He returned on the Bennettsville train at 11 o'clock yesterday morning in company with Mr. J. H. McGirt, a farmer living near Wakulla, Robeson county, to whom he had given himself up. Utley exoperates Jailor Pate and all others of complicity in his escape and McGirt says he will not touch a cent of the $1,000 reward, placed by the State, county and Sheriff Marsh upon the liberty of the young man.

The following account of the surrender of Utley is taken from yesterday afternoon's Fayetteville Observer: The first the officials knew of Utley's surrender was when he walked into the Sheriff's office by himself and held out his hand to Col. Cook and bade him good morning. Mr. John Holmes, person in the office. Both Col. Cook and he were so astounded that it took them some time to recover their breath. Sheriff Marsh and Deputy Sheriff Monahan were, at that moment looking for a clue to the escaped prisoner, and did not return for an hour afterwards. Their surprise may well be imagined when they heard that Utley was back in his cell. The prisoner was seen in his cell this afternoon by an Observer reporter, and talked freely of his escape, with the stamp of truthfulness on every word -he always had a reputation for strict veracity. He said, in substance; Worried over the trial, impatient with the restraint of jail life, I felt like I had to get out. This intention once formed, I at once put t into execution. At twelve o'clock, Friday night, I opened my cell door and walked out. I did not use a saw, file or keys on the locks. I will not say how I got the padlocks off, but I got them off myself. I then went and pulled the boards off from under the steps, returned with them to my cell and wrapped them up in a blanket to resemble a human form. I waited about half an hour and then crawled through the hole under the steps and lowered myself to the floor beneath with a blanket. Then, ascending the steps, I went out of the outer door on the second floor and descended to the ground by the outside steps. I went out of the small wicket gate in the

When outside the prison bounds, was dazed by the electric lights and addled by the novelty of the situation. For sometime I wandered about without getting my bearings. In fact, I was lost for awhile. When I finally located the surroundings, the one o'clock train, which I intended to board, but without any definite purpose in view except to go, go, had gone by. I then took a main road leading in a southerly direction from town and walked till daylight, when I sat down on a log in a swamp about six miles from Fayetteville. It was rain-ing and I got wet and cold. I spent the day in this swamp, ;and at night started off again. My movements from Tuesday night, I would rather not tell

Thursday morning, about noon, I came upon Mr. McGirt's house, and went up and approached Mr. McGirt with an offer to buy a horse. After some negotiations, I bought one with a saddle and bridle for $150. Leaving the horse and telling Mr. McGirt would be back in the evening for it, I went into the woods, built a fire and went to sleep.

When I woke up I got to thinking of the awkward position I had probably put Sheriff Marsh and the other officials in, and of the uncomfortable position of being a fugitive, and I decided to give myself up. So I went back to Mr. McGirt's at 7 o'clock, and, telling him who I was, I gave him a pistol I had and a considerable sum of money (enough he said to take him all over the world) and told him I surrendered. I took supper with him and went to bed. He treated me most Neither Mr. Pate nor any of the officials had any knowledge of my escape, nor did they have any reason to think that I contemplated escape. When asked if any of the prisoners in the jail had any knowledge of his escape, he said he refused to say. He said that the lock he took off his cell he carried away with him, and the locks found on the door next morning he took from the adjoining vacant cell and locked the top one, but the bottom one would not snap together. He said that he got away by a method that no bloodhounds could have tracked him.

Mr. McGirt, when seen by an Obthe grand-mother of Mrs. N. F. Parstatement in regard to himself, and said that he did not expect or ask for a reward. He said that Utley got a morning paper from him when he first came to the house and carried it off with him. He said that he had just with him. He said that he had just been reading of Utley's escape, but did not then suspicion who his visitor was, and if he had he would probably have said nothing of it. When Utley told him who he was he asked his advice, and he told him to come in and take supper and spend the night, and then he could have more time to decide. This Utley did, and I gave him a room down stairs.
