WEDNESDAY MORNING, MAY 13

EXPANDING THE MONROE DOC-TRINE.

A year or more ago Senator Lodge. of Massachusetts, in a speech in New York, stretched the Monroe Doctrine so that it applied not only to European nations acquiring territory on this hemisphere, but also to the establishment of European colonies in any of the countries south of us. The immediate inspiration of this speech was the report that German colonies were being established in Brazil under the auspices of a colonization society, with the co-operation of the Government, which he construed as an infringement of the Monroe Doctrine, which he held should be as operative against colonization of Europeans with the aid direct or indirect of their home governments, as it would be against the actual acquisition of territory by any foreign government.

There are a number of European colonies, or rather colonies of Europeans, in several of the South American countries, which would all be covered by Senator Lodge's stretched Monroe Doctrine, but his speech was aimed particularly at the German colonies established in Brazil, which seems to have given and to still give a warm welcome to these German colonists, who are doing much to develop this country and have the reputation of minding their own business and dabbling very little if any with politics.

These colonies may be and doubtless are active agencies in building following Chicago dispatch: up German trade in that country, and this seems to have been the grievance with Senator Lodge, who holds that this country has a preemption right on the trade of all the countries South of us, and therefore negro was learning his place he gave the Monroe Doctrine this commercial twist.

One might suspect that this flamboyant wind-up was hitched on by Senator Beveridge or some of the other expanders who believe that

In man the front of the lower jaw bone possesses a well marked project tion, known as the chin or mental prominence, covered by a fleshy pod of corresponding shape. In all other back boned animals the jawbone slopes back without any such protuberance. It is a singular fact that the presence of a marked chin is associated firm character and well marked intellectual qualities. This is one of the best founded rules in character delineation by physiognomy. The late Professor Huxley used to illustrate the matter by drawing a profile with good chin on the-blackboard and then wiping out the chin and replacing it by a receding curve. Any one who repeats the experiment will be surprised at the result. The reason is not clear, but we may perhaps say that a well developed jaw is associated with good digestive powers, which have more to do with character than one might at first sight sup-make it cover that country. He is thus reported in a dispatch from Washington:

"The value of the trade of Great Britain and the United States with China," says Mr. Proctor in discuss ing this matter, " now amounts to six times as much as the combined trade of Germany, France and Russia with that country, and consequently these two countries may be said to have paramount commercial interests in China. These are also the two countries having the largest frontage of coast line on the Pacific and Indian oceans, and they thus have paramount political interest in the future of the millions of Chinese whose territory fronts that ocean.

"Our trade in China must in time exceed the enormous trade of Great Britain with that country. We at last realize that because of our abundant resources, the skill of our workmen and the efficiency of our machinery, we can successfully compete with any and all countries for the markets of the world. As our capacity for pro-duction grows more rapidly than our capacty for consumption, this country, more than any other, is interested in preserving China from partition among European powers.

"We need have no illusions as to the effect of such a movement upon our agricultural, manufacturing and commercial interests. Certain Europer countries, not having the same abund ant stores of superior coals, iron ores, fibers and other raw products, raw products, realize that open competition s impossible. They having the inherited mediæval system of governing colonial or foreign possessions for the exclusive benefit of the home Government, impose discriminating duties upon imports into all regions brought keep hands off they might do some under their control.

"An example of this system is shown by the French occupation of Indo-Chin and Madagascar. The United States Consul in Manchester, England, in 1898, wrote: 'The new duties on cotton goods in Madagascar, which came into operation October last, are likely, in the estimation of persons engaged in this trade, to all but extinguish the consumption of any but French goods.'

'For these reasons our Government should declare, applying the language of the Monroe doctrine:

" 'In the wars of European powers, in matters relating to themselves, we have never taken any part, nor does it comport with our policy to do so. It is only when our rights are invaded or seriously menaced that we resent injuries or make preparations for defence. With the movements in China we are of necessity more immediately connected, and by causes which must be obvious to all enlightened and impartial observers. We owe it, there-fors, to candor and to the amicable relations existing the United States and those powers to declare that we should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any portion of the Chinese Empire as dangerous to our peace and safety, and as a mani-festation of an unfriendly disposition tewards the United States.

Mr. Proctor considers that this government will lose its great opportunity if it does not take a steadfast and con stant course in dealing with the ques tion of the dismembership of China.

"The decision must soon be reach-ed," he says; "which will determine whether the principles of constitu-tional liberty and self-government, represented by the civilization of the showing the groundlessness of the Teutonic races, or the repressive abso-lutism of the Slav, shall dominate the

The Winter of Discontent. The four seasons are seldom on good terms with each other. There is a decided coolness between autumn and spring,-Philadelphia Record.

A Sure Thing.

It is said that nothing is sure except death and taxes, but that is not alto-gether true. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is a sure cure for all Lung and Throat troubles. Thousands can testify to that. Mrs. C. B. Van-Metre, of Shepherdtown, W. Va., says:

Antiquity of Grains.

Nearly all the grains now in use are of unknown antiquity. Wheat was cultivated in all latitudes as far back in the past as we have authentic knowledge. Barley is thought to have originated in the Caucasus, but it was known and used everywhere in the most ancient times. Oats, like rye, were unknown in ancient India and Egypt and among the Hebrews. The Greeks and Romans received it from the north of Europe. Had there been an early civilization on this continent the wild oats found here and there would probably have developed into the useful cereal now considered absolutely essential to the proper nourishment of horses. This continent is credited with having given Indian corn to the old world, but this useful cereal Rosin quiet; sales — barrels; A, B, C, D, E $1 60; F, $1 65; G, $1 70; H, $3 15; I, $3 75; K, $3 90; M, $3 00; N, was doubtless known in India and China many hundred years before the discovery of America.

A Dog Story.

An elderly clergyman living some few miles from a market town and somewhat absentminded withal was in the habit of driving there weekly, where he put up his horse at a particular inn, his dog always in attendance. One day when returning with a friend he was much annoyed to discover that the dog was missing and insisted on driving back to find him. The inn was reached, and there, sure enough, was the dog, and not only the dog, but the parson's horse as well. The hostler had put another horse into the vehicle, but the dog, recognizing the mistake, elected to stay with his animal friend rather than return with his master .-
