Scared the Papuan.
There is no opening for a dentist in New Guinea. The Papuan can sever the wild rattle creepers which entangle him in the forest at one bite and sharpen his teeth on the flinty sugar cane sticks which he constantly chews. In "A Collector's Rambles" Mr. Sherman F. Denton relates an amusing incident which attended a display of Yankee dental achievement.
The natives had been going through some very clever tricks for our amusement, but we in turn were unable to astonish them by anything we could do until my companion, Shelley, told them he could take his teeth out and put them back again. "No," they said, "you cannot do that, for that is impossible."
In reply Shelley tapped his teeth with his nail to show his audience that they were teeth, and then, extracting the plate on which he had two or three artificial ones, he opened his mouth, showing the gap where they had been.
The Papuans waited to see no more, but all started for the small door at once. In their haste to get out they stuck, and I feared for a few moments they would tear the house down. Those who were unable to get out at once hauled in their fright and created a great uproar, and, in spite of our telling them that we were only in fun, they could not be persuaded to come back again for a long time, and then they came only under the promise that we would never do that again.

AN ARAB'S HORSE.
The Story of an Englishman's Attempt to Purchase It.
In his "Souvenir d'un Voyage" M. Spoll describes a visit to Arabia and the attempt of an English friend to buy an Arabian horse. The Englishman was at great pains to induce the Arab who owned the horse to agree to sell him. He persuaded the man to make an appointment to conclude the sale after employing "as much diplomacy as would be used in a year in making or breaking the balance of power in Europe."
On the eventful day the Englishman, with M. Spoll and M. Lascaris, rode to the rendezvous and found the Arab sitting by his horse, which was browsing quietly.
"Las salam alek" (I salute you), began the Englishman cautiously. "What shall I pay you for your horse?"
"Who knows?" said the Arab. "I know of my cloak here whatever you offer."
Three thousand piasters fell at the feet of the impassive Arab, then 10,000, then 10,000 more. The Arab's eyes shone. Ten thousand piasters were his. "Ah," he said, going up to his magnificent animal, "we must part."
The Englishman began to bid the horse. The Arab sobbed. Suddenly the intelligent animal, perceiving his new owner sprang away and neighed mournfully. No one could doubt that he knew what was going on.
With one bound the child of the desert was in the saddle. "Adieu!" he said. "Your money could never replace my only friend!" and he vanished in a cloud of dust.
"Stupid!" cried my English friend, and then we rode home in silence.
Mirth, Not Misery, Loves Company.
I have never doubted the proposition that "misery loves company" and have believed that such a statement was first put forth by some arch hypocrite whose misery was but a pretense and who was beckoning some other whom he could both be jovial on the way.
However slight my knowledge of universal misery may be, I can attest from personal experience that my own misery claims solitude and slips away all by itself and turns the key upon the curious world, asking nothing so much as to be "let alone." I do not care to weep in company, nor would it cheer me to have a chorus of other weepers to join in unison with me. Rather would I remain in unostentatious wretchedness until my tears had vanished and my eyes and nose assumed normal appearance.
"The mirth then, and not misery, which plines for company. Fun cannot thrive alone and flourishes only among congenial spirits. Our laughter must be first put forth by some arch hypocrite whose misery was but a pretense and who was beckoning some other whom he could both be jovial on the way."
"Even pleasure," said she, "requires the exercise of patience. See the boy fishing. He must sit and wait and wait. He must be patient."
Having treated the subject very fully, she began with the simplest, most practical question:
"And how can any little boy tell me what we need most when we go fishing?" The answer was shouted with one voice:
"Bait!"
Papa's Puzzle.
Five or six men were recently chatting in a village inn when one of them said:
"I say, I bet ye dinners all round ye can't tell me the answer to a puzzle I know of."
"Done," they said. "I bet we can."
"Well," said Pat, "why is a journal called the current literature in the world?"
After vainly trying for about two hours they sadly said they must give it up.
"Why," said the delighted Pat, "because his late comes out of his head, don't it?"—Spare Moments.
Willie and His Politics.
Willie (reading his verse at Sunday school)—"And they took Joseph's coat, killed a boy and dipped the coat in the blood."
"Now, Willie," said the teacher, "you know the text reads 'killed a kid,' not a boy."
"Yes, but didn't you tell us it was vulgar to say 'kid' when talking about little boys?" replied the apt scholar, beaming with delight at his good memory.—Philadelphia Telegraph.
A Good Pull.
"How does young Swift manage to unhook so much champagne? He doesn't use any money."
"Well, he pulls the same cork over and over."
"Why, how do you mean?"
"Has a rich uncle with a cork leg."—Boston Transcript.

Irregularities
Wine of Cardui is superior to anything I have ever tried for irregularities. Three years ago I noticed that I became irregular but I paid little attention to it. Gradually the trouble became serious and affected my general health. The flow became scanty and very painful and I sought the doctor's aid. I soon found, however, that his prescriptions did not have the desired effect and when a friend recommended Wine of Cardui I decided to try it and procured a bottle. It helped me at once and I felt greatly encouraged when I noticed the change for the better. At my next menstrual period the pain was less and the flow better and within four months I was perfectly well, regular and without pain.
This is over a year ago and I have not suffered any pains or trouble since. Accept my sincere thanks for your efficient remedy.
Ann Adelaide Adams
Because Wine of Cardui cures women so simply, so quickly and so effectively it is the favorite medicine of women today. This medicine brings women health and freedom from sickness by the most simple process—Nature's own way.
While physicians examine and operate, Wine of Cardui works a cure without the humiliating publicity of an operation or the danger of the use of a knife.
Wine of Cardui strikes at the root of female trouble. It regulates the menstrual flow, making the function regular and healthy, an aid to health instead of a menace. A profuse flow weakens the blood and suppresses poisons. Wine of Cardui, by regulating the flow, gives life and strength to all the generative organs. Bearing down pains disappear and ovarian pains and weakness give way to health.
If you are suffering female weakness you should look after your case at once. All the organs are in sympathy and you cannot tell what a simple case of irregularity will run into if you let alone.
Go to your druggist today and secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui. Take it in your home, in private, and you will thank Miss Adams for her advice.
