THE MORNING

WILMINGTON, N. C. SATURDAY, MAY 23, 1903.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS. DAVID STONE COWAN.

Esteemed Resident of Wilmington for Many Years Died Yesterday in Savannah.

FUNERAL THIS AFTERNOON.

Remains Arrived Last Night, Accompanied by Members of Family-Death Summons Came Suddenly-Grandson of Gov. David Stone.

Friends in Wilmington and elsewhere throughout this and other States will learn with deep sorrow of the death of Mr. David Stone Cowan, a native of Wilmington, but during late years a resident of Brinkley, N. C., which occurred rather suddenly yesterday morning at 7:45 o'clock at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. B. Hull, of Savannab, Ga., whom he had been visiting, accompanied by Mrs. Cowan, for some time.

The sad news reached Wilmington through the medium of a private telegram to his daughter, Mrs. W. G. Pulliam, and it was received with sincere regret by many friends in the city, where he was known and where he resided until a few years ago. Mr. Cowan had been failing in health for some time, but the immediate caus of his death was heart failure. He went to Savannah with the hope that the change would be beneficial to him, and at first it was thought he was improving rapidly, but he suffered an acute attack yesterday morning, from which he never rallied.

The remains of Mr. Cowan, accompanied by the grief-stricken wife, his daughter, Mrs. Hull, and two sons, Messrs. Platt D. and D. S. Cowan, Jr., reached the city last midnight on the Charleston train, and the funeral will take place from St. James' Episcopal church this afternoon at 5:80 o'clock, thence to Oakdale cemetery. Messrs. Platt and D. S. Cowan, Jr., joined the uneral party at Brinkley last night and at the station the remains were met by members of the bereaved family, relatives and friends.

David Stone Cowan was born in Wilmington on May 8th, 1835, and was therefore in the 69th year of his age. His parents were the lamented Robert and Sallie Stone Cowan. He was a grandson of Governor David Stone, and took his name from that branch of the family. For many years he was treasurer of the old Wilmington and Manchester, now the W., O. & A. railroad, and continued in that service with distinguished ability until it underwent a change of ownership. He was also a member of the firm of Bannister & Cowan, large real estate dealers in Wilmington in years past. During Cleveland's first administration he was Inspector of Customs here and also discharged the duties of that position with great credit. Afterwards he was engaged largely in railroad contracting in Georgia and Florida. Lately he had devoted himself to his large plantation at Brinkley, N. C., and was also agent for the Atlantic Coast Line at that point.

Mr. Cowan possessed and attractive personality; was the soul of wit and was gentlemantly and exceedingly courteous in his bearing. He was a devoted husband and father and the loss to his family and the community in his death is great.

Mr. Cowan was a brother of the lamented Capt. John Cowan and Col. Robert H. Cowan, of Wilmington, but is now survived by only two brothers and sisters; Mr. Edward Dudley Cowan, of Canton, Miss., and Mrs. Sallie McRee, of Asheville, N. C. Of the immediate family there are surviving the bereaved widow, two sons, Messrs. D. S. Cowan, Jr., and Platt D. Cowan, of Brinkley, and Mrs. W G. Pulliam, of this city and Mrs. A. B. Hull, of Savannah. All of them have the sincerest sympathy of hundreds of friends in their deep bereavement.

COMMENCEMENT DAY.

Wilmington Public Schools Closed Prosperous Year With Very

ADDRESS BY DR. SMITH.

No city, town or community in the The crowning feature was the elaborate graduating exercises last night at the High School including a scholarly address to the class by the distinguished Dr. T. Alphonso Smith, of the chair of English Literature at the University of North Carolina. The exercises were held in the chapel of the building and the large auditorium was comfortably filled with students, their parents and friends. Upon the platform, which was prettily decorated with potted plants and cut flowers, were seated the speaker of the evening, Prof. R. D. W. Connor, principal of the school; Superintendent John J. Blair, of the city schools; Superintendent Washington Catlett, of the county schools; Chairman Samuel Northrop and Mr. James Sprunt, of School Committee No. 2; Chairman James F. Post and Mr. Richard J. Jones, of School Committee No. 1; Rev. J. N. Cole; Mr. B. G. Worth, a great friend of educa-

Mr. George Rountree and the seven members of the graduating class. The exercises opened with a very fervent prayer by Rev. Mr. Cole and a cordial address of welcome was deivered by Mr. George Sawyer Wood

tion; County Treasurer H. McL. Green, ard, of the graduating class. The speaker of the evening was presented by Mr. Blair in a very graceful little speech in which he referred to the recent remark of Senator Simmons before the North Carolina Society in New York, that North Carolina was a good State to "move from." Mr. Blair presented Dr. Smith as an exponent of the idea that the State is not only a good one to leave but a capital one to which to return. He referred to Dr. Smith's work in Louisiana and welcomed him back to the State, to the University and on the present occasion to Wilmington.

Dr. Smith captured the audience from the start with a little story that gave a promise, afterwards fulfilled, that his speech would not be long. He then followed with a strong plea for individuality and recited Rudyard Kipling's portrayal of the career of a man who was absolutely devoid of originality and pronounced, eyen unfit for the kingdom of his satanic maj-

In literature Dr. Smith said more novels were now turned out in a week than in a year of former ages, yet the individuality of the characters portray ed is sadly lacking. Much of the loss of individuality was attributed to the disposition in this age of rapid strides to depend on others for what should originate in the individual. There are so many organizations at present and people belong to so many things that they have delegated their individuality to others; their club; their society; their party or their newspaper. No society or organization is greater than the unit of its composition. The marvellous diversity in nature, the differing of one leaf from another, was used as an illustration of this great indi-

Dr. Smith said that he would not undertake to lay down the elements that go to make up individuality, but he would suggest three; the first, concentration; the second, belief, and the third, power to bear responsibility. There was hardly a word to fit the latter, but he would cite the character of Hamlet in Shakespeare as au il.ustration of the element or rather lack of that element. He was learned, cultured, but lacked the power to assume responsibility; to avenge the death of his father.

Dr. Smith devoted the conclusion of his pretty and elequent address to the graduating class itself. He told the graduates of the great age in which they live and impressed upon them that they have the opportunity of enriching, adding to and beautifying their individuality. "You are told," said the speaker, "that the times are calling as never before for specialists. Not so. Your country and was heartily applauded as he concluded.

The History of the Class by Miss Katharine Margaret Gleschen was very fine: replete with humor and full of interesting facts about the class, tersely told. She received the most enthusiastic applause upon her splendid effort.

The Class History by Miss Carolyn Sale Hardwicke was none the less pleasing and individual references to her class brought forth delightful manifestations of appreciation. The class oration by Mr. William Henry Duls dealt with Industrial North Carolina and traced the wonderful development of the State. It was of a very high standard of composition and was delivered with the force and ease of a trained orator. Prof. Connor next made the formal presentation of diplomas, complimenting the personnel of the class and their work during the year. The graduates are as follows: Mr. George Sawyer Woodward, Miss Carolyn Sale Hardwicke, Miss Katherine Margaret Gieschen, Mr. William Henry Duls, Julia Bowden Post, Mr. Thomas Francis Karr.

Following the presentation, the ushers brought to the stage of beautiful bouquets for the graduates. Then a benediction followed by Rev. Mr. Oole and the delightful exercises were at an end. Friends of the graduates came forward in large numbers to congratulate members of the class, while many others went to make a personal expression of their appreciation of the splendid address by Dr. Smith.

Mr. John Lawrence VonGlahn, Miss

Excellent music was furnished during the evening by Hollowbush's Orchestra. A corps of efficient marshals were in attendance and performed their duties most gracefully and efficiently.

Hall. Just before the exercises last even ing Dr. Smith, accompanied by Mr. James Sprunt, of whom the speaker is a guest while in the city, visited Miss Amy Bradley, founder of the school and for many years its most substantial supporter. She was unable t attend the exercises and the visit of Dr Smith and Mr. Sprunt was greatly ap reciated by her.

At the Hemenway School,

The closing exercises of Hemenway School, one of the leading institutions in the system took place at 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning and were attended by a large number of friends and patrons. The programme was as follows:

Bird Song—Boys' chorus. Recitation—The Bird's Nest. Hazel Miller. Recitation-The Trees. Boys from first grade. Song-March of the Blossoms, Girls'

Recitation-The Hired Girl, Virgin-Song-Seven Times One is Seven. Maggie Thompson. Chorus-Sewing Class.

Scene from Mrs. Wiggs-Theatre Party. Upon conclusion of the exercises. Mr. James F. Post, chairman of th committee in charge, made a brief, but very happy address, in which he stated that the attendance at the Hemenway this year broke all records. The enrollment was 786. of which 388 were boys and 398 girls. There are 1,400 volumes in the library and 7,000 were issued to the students during the year. In behalf of Miss Elise Emerson, a member of the graduating class, he presented a very handsome hand painting of the shield of North Carolina, to the school. Mr. Post also paid a deserved compliment to the teachers in charge and received the most enthusiastic applause from the student body. After the exercises the visitors were permitted to see a highly creditable and wounderful exhibit of drawing, skilfully executed by a class of 200 after four months efficient training by Miss Mary A. Bernard. The visitors also inspected the work of about the same number of pupils in the sewing room conducted in a highly successful manner during the past four months under the direction of Miss Kate E. Johnson. Nearly a hundred garments, the production of the class, were shown and they elicited the admiration of all. The faculty of Hemenway during the year was as follows: Supervising principal, Mrs. M. L. McLeod; assistant principal and librarian, Miss Florence F. Willis; Miss Mary A. Bernard, Miss Kate E. Johnson, Miss Kate Yarborough, Miss Mary Shepard, Miss Alice Borden, Miss Bessie Hankins, Miss Mary D. Cronly, Miss Louisa Hill, Miss Lina Wiggins, Miss Jeannie D. Wood, Miss Nellie Faison, Miss Sophie, E. Heinz, Misses Mildred Davis and Carrie Duffy.

Thirty-six pupils of Hemenway and 41 of Union will go to the High School next year. At The Union School.

The exercises at Union School, the argest in the city and one of the most modern, began at 12:30 o'clock and continued until after 1 P.M. There were n attendance a large number of friends and patrons of the school and above all the nine hundred bright and happy pupils with their sixteen teachers. An informal but altogether well arranged programme of pleasing exercises was observed under the direction of Miss Nellie Cook, the enthusiastic and very efficient principal. The stage from which the programme was rendered was very tastily decorated with plants and flowers and the accompaniments were skilfully played by Miss Hazel Dushan and Miss Kate Alderman. The numbers were announced by Miss Cook and were responded to as fol-

An industrial branch was maintained very successfully during the year and au exhibit of the work was made yesterday. It reflected great credit upon teachers and pupils alike. The en. rollment of the school was larger than ever before.

- Rev. L. B. Boney, who is pleasantly remembered here, arrived in the city yesterday, returning from Louisville, Ky., where he spent the past year at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. He will leave this morning for Magnolia where he will preach to-morrow.
