

PATRIOT F. DUFFY

There remains but little to be added to the particulars of the death of Major P. F. Duffy, as printed on the local page of the STAR to-day, except to express our profound sorrow at the sudden taking off of one who had been our friend and editorial associate some fourteen years.

How strange that this strong man, of constitution so vigorous that he had never before yesterday lost a single day through sickness from his work on the STAR, should now lie in the icy embrace of death.

Quiet and unassuming in manner, Major Duffy sought not the applause of men. Conscious of the fact that duty led the way, how nobly and conscientiously did he perform it. He lived for his family—not for himself. A more devoted husband and father never crossed the threshold of a happy home. A splendid because a deserved tribute.

From his Irish ancestry Major Duffy inherited the gift of persuasive oratory. He abandoned public speaking many years since; but not until he had made a reputation equalled by few of our public men.

In two campaigns soon after the close of our civil war he canvassed the State for the Democratic party, and as far back as 1868 he delivered a speech in the Opera House in this city which was pronounced a masterpiece of oratory by the thousand Democrats who were entranced by his eloquence.

To his friends his loss is a serious blow; to his family it is irreplaceable. Verily, the ways of the Almighty are mysterious and past finding out. And "In the midst of life we are in death."

A peculiar and to some people embarrassing state of affairs has developed from our occupation of the Philippines. Quite a number of army officers and a larger number of enlisted men contracted Filipino marriages with some of the young and pretty native women, never thinking that they would be held valid in the mother country. But the powers that be hold otherwise, and the officers and men will be compelled to receive and support their native spouses, whether they like it or not. The department is right. The matrimonial bond is too sacred to be handled in such a manner by an American soldier or citizen, and especially in our dealings with people to whom we should set an example in morality.

It has been definitely settled that residents of the United States shall be officially designated as Americans, and our embassies abroad shall be known as the "American Embassy," instead of the "Embassy of the United States," as heretofore. To Secretary Hay belongs the credit of drawing this fine distinction and causing its recognition by the governments of the old world. It is as it should be. Residents of the United States of Mexico are known as Mexicans, those of the United States of Colombia as Colombians, and those of the United States of Brazil as Brazilians. So why should we not be termed Americans? 'Tis the proudest distinction that can be conferred upon a human being.

A contemporary very pertinently remarks that reasonable men will ultimately come to understand that the destruction of capital incident to the suspension of labor and the closing down of plants in strikes cannot make for the ultimate good of either party contributing to the general welfare. The union of employers will make mediation or arbitration absolutely necessary in the adjustment of differences, for if the union idea were carried to a logical conclusion and all the employers were organized against all the employees, industry must presently come to a standstill and barbarism take the place of civilization.

That postal ring at Washington seems to be about the rottenest gang of thieves that ever disgraced the government. The rascals should be ferreted out and punished to the extent of the law, regardless of the effect it may have on any political party. The people have a right to demand an honest administration of the affairs of the department, and they will insist that this be done. We want no screening of the guilty because they have powerful political backing. That but adds to the shame of it.

TERRIBLE STRAIN.

Wilmington People Undergo the Pressure Every Day.

Many trades and lines of business impose a terrible daily strain on the kidneys. They can't withstand it forever. They become irritated and inflamed, and the back warns you. Don't neglect it because it's "only a backache." The kidneys are diseased and cry for help through the back. A well known Wilmington railroad man tells how relief may be found.

W. G. Evans, engineer on the Atlantic & Yadkin R. R., residing at 307 North 4th St., says: "My back has bothered me a good bit right across the small of it, so bad so times I could scarcely run my engine and the jarring affected me simply awful. I rubbed my back with liniments, wore plasters and took medicines, but it was the same old story. Finally I learned about Doan's Kidney Pills and my wife went up to Belmont and bought me a box. Their use relieved me immediately. They are a good remedy for the back and kidneys and no mistake. I have not had a return of the backache since using Doan's Kidney Pills."

CURRENT COMMENT

Postmaster General Payne asserts that he is carrying on the postoffice investigation relentlessly, and in the same breath ridicules a man who has informed to Mr. Payne's request for information which will assist in the investigation. Faithful as it may be to the Postmaster General, the public will still believe that actions speak louder than words.—Peterson (Va.) Progress.

Every one in a while things happen in Kansas so as to give the Sunflower state a black eye. An irrigation convention called a few days ago in Garden City was a failure because recent rains throughout that portion of the state had been so heavy as to interfere seriously with railroad travel and the maintenance of the country roads impassable. Providence is no respecter of irrigation conventions.—Santa Fe (N. M.) New Mexican.

There exists in the world a race antagonism that no consideration of right or justice will overcome. So far as the negro is concerned the American people willingly concede and grant his personal rights. But in localities where he is predominant and where the whites refuse to submit to his domination politically. This is the universal experience in the South and would be in the North were the negro as much in evidence here as he is there.—Waterloo (Ia.) Courier.

A Bit of Diplomacy. An American from Texas got into trouble during the Spanish-American war, when foreign and local sentiment was against the United States. The offense consisted largely in the fact that the stranger was an American, but he landed in jail nevertheless. Not wishing to see the Texas spend the money to bail his friend out, he tried to obtain his release. First they visited the home of the American ambassador and found he was out of the city. Then they went to the home of the English minister and found he was out of the city. By dint of insistence they succeeded in getting into the house and were met on the staircase by the minister himself, arrayed in official pajamas. Carefully dissembling that their imprisoned friend was an American, they appealed for assistance. "Ah," said the minister cautiously, "your man is in jail, is he? But tell me, is he a British subject?" "Your excellency," said the American, "he acted as a spokesman, the prisoner speaks English perfectly." "Ah," said the minister, "then the presumption is in his favor." Half an hour later, thanks to the personal intervention of the British minister, the Texan was released from the Mexican jail.

The Tune Was Familiar. An interesting anecdote is told of the old tune to which a well known song is now sung. The story runs that when the army of the first Napoleon was in Egypt in 1798 the camp for awhile was near the pyramids. One afternoon about sunset the band was playing, and the natives of the desert had gathered and were listening to the music. Nothing unusual happened until the band struck up a tune which they never heard under the name of "We Won't Do Home This Morning." Instantly there were the wildest demonstrations of joy among the Bedouins. They embraced each other and shouted and danced in the delirium of their pleasure. The reason was that they were listening to the favorite and oldest tune of their people. The tune had been taken to Europe from Africa in the eleventh century and had lived separately in both countries for over 700 years.

What Is Happening. Happiness is the greatest paradox in nature. It can grow in any soil, live under any conditions. It defies environment. It comes from within. It is the revelation of the depths of the inner life as light and heat proclaim the sun from which they radiate. Happiness consists not of having, but of being; not of possessing, but of enjoying. It is the warm glow of a heart at peace within itself. A martyr at the stake may have a happiness that a king on his throne might envy. Mine is the creature of his own happiness. It is the aroma of a life lived in harmony with high ideals. For what a man has may be departed on the next breath, but what he is with him alone. What he obtains in life is but acquisition; what he attains is growth. Happiness is the soul's joy in the possession of the intangible.—William George Jordan.

RAISE GOOD TURKEYS.

It Pays to Send to Market in Good Condition First Class Birds. But few have any conception of the number of fowls consumed in a large city during Thanksgiving and Christmas weeks. For Thanksgiving week there were sold in New York city over 250,000 turkeys. In former years there has been sold a fourth more than this, and as many as 425,000 have been sold in one week, according to the New York Herald. This season turkeys have been scarce and well finished at a high price. This is the explanation for the falling off in sales. Last year turkeys sold at from 4 to 5 cents per pound lower in price than this year.

The day has about gone by for low prices for poultry and eggs. That is because those who raise them have good quality in our poultry and eggs for market, and they will sell well. Now is the time to begin to plan for having better than ever before. Pull away from old time methods of poor quality market poultry and work to have the very best. For example, turkeys sold in the New York market all the way from 10 cents per pound to 25 cents per pound. Now, it did not cost one cent more per pound to grow the higher priced ones than the cheaper ones. It is simply a question of care.

It is all very well to allow the growing turkeys to hunt for bugs and grasshoppers so long as they are plucked and so soon as this kind of food dwindle we must supply its place with other food as good, for two reasons—to give them a full food supply and to save them from walking the flesh from their bodies going about in an aimless way in search of food they will not find. Just as soon as the cool or cold nights begin to lessen the supply of food, and the more so, it is best to feed the stronger. Always see to it that they have all the good, wholesome food they will eat at all times. That is the way to grow turkeys. If there are not plenty of bugs, worms, grasshoppers, and other insects to eat, then give them all the corn they will eat every night and also a good, strong feed of it in the morning.

The Breeding Season. At this time of the year everybody who is anybody at all with chickens is planning for the breeding season. This is the first and most important step in breeding poultry, and the more so, the more you look into it in the face the easier will the problem be solved. It is not a time for too much speculation; neither is it a time when unnecessary risks should be taken. The safest and best plan is to select the cream of breeders at your disposal and condition them in the best possible manner. Spare nothing in attendance and watch carefully after them, for it is first the breeders and then the chicks, of the month that most of the leading solists are silent, the veery, the oriole, the bobolink, the red winged blackbird, the brown thrasher and others. Instead of the sweet melodies of June, the orchard ring with the fretful cry of young orioles and the pine grove is noisy with the ceaseless squawk of young crows. The grackles and blackbirds and swallows are gathering in flocks. The first flock of grackles streaming down toward the marshes of a July afternoon for the night roost seems always to trail behind it the semblance of a shadow. It is you first thinking that the tone of the year has turned. One-by one the birds are molting, while a few, like the song sparrow, are still busy with second or third families, and many of the old birds are leading their young choruses of Roman lads and maidens on their holiday of the stern City has been education in travel.—Country Life in America.

Marriage by Proxy. The curious custom of marriage by proxy still exists in Holland. A Dutch gentleman residing in Batavia was recently united by proxy to a young lady residing at her parents at Amsterdam. The bridegroom, who was in the city, and the bridegroom's sister represented him and took the young lady in his name "for better or worse." It seems that the young man was tired of waiting for the bride on his long journey, and the bridegroom's sister represented him and took the young lady in his name "for better or worse." It seems that the young man was tired of waiting for the bride on his long journey, and the bridegroom's sister represented him and took the young lady in his name "for better or worse."

Rome's Birthday. On April 21, 2,405 years ago, Romulus completed the enclosure on the Palatine hill which was named "Roma." The birthday of the eternal City has been solemnly commemorated from ancient times. Augustus instituted the secular games—three days of rejoicing concluding with the rendering by a chorus of Roman lads and maidens on the capital of the "Carmen Seculare" of Horace. At that time the city counted 1,336,000 inhabitants. This year Rome's birthday was celebrated Sunday, the 15th of April, and the festival on the ruined Palatine and a general illumination in the evening.

Kill the Mites. If there are mites in the fowls, kill them all in one fell swoop. Get some kerosene and wash the fowls with a strong, hot suds, and put half the acid in the sprinkling pot and pour in the hot suds and thoroughly sprinkle, throwing the solution high up on the walls. Do this in the morning and in the fowls out during the day. Two days later clean out the house and use the rest of the acid in the same way. In this way in three days the number of mites may be reduced from 10,000,000 or any other number to 0.—Exchange.

Worst of All Experiences. Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, of Decatur, Ala. "For three years," she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from Indigestion, Bloating and Bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Bile Beans, and the result was miraculous. I improved at once, and now I am completely recovered."

PAIN'S CELERY COMPOUND

Three Bottles Saved Mr. Trip from Indigestion, Liver Trouble and Rheumatism.

There was never a remedy so highly recommended for making sick people well in summertime as Paine's Celery Compound. It successfully grapples with all the ailments common in summertime, and it is now a new and long standing and chronic diseases that have baffled the skill of physicians. When Paine's Celery Compound is used, there is no long waiting for results. It tones the stomach, it proves the appetite, assists digestion, excites the bowels to healthy action, expels all foul humors from the blood and braces the nervous system. Mr. J. D. Trip, West Kennebunk, Me., says: "I suffered from indigestion, liver trouble, kidney disease and rheumatism. The worst trouble was in my head; the pain commenced in the shoulders and ran up my neck until it reached the head. I could not sleep at night, had ugly dreams and bad feelings when I did sleep. Since taking three bottles of Paine's Celery Compound, I feel as well and feel like a new man. I have a good appetite and can do a good day's work. I am recommending Paine's Celery Compound to every one who is suffering."

BIG LIGHTNING BUGS.

Washington Will Try the South American Coccoys as Pets. Coccoys, the large lightning bugs of Brazil, Cuba and tropical South America, emit a continuous double light of efficient strength and intensity for one to read the signs on a watch eight inches distant and which the Botocudo Indians of Brazil use for illuminating purposes by confining a number of them in small wicker cages, are soon to be a novelty in the pet line in Washington. Some fifty-eight of these bugs are now on their way from Cuba to this city and on their arrival will be the first ever seen in the capital.

This is one of the results of a demand for something new that is constant on the part of the public and competition among bird and pet animal dealers. The coccoys are long and though perfectly harmless, and in many of the South American cities and in Havana the young girls and married ladies wear them in their hair at night, the effect of which is singularly striking and beautiful, especially when the lady wearing them happens to be blessed with more than the usual share of feminine pulchritude.
