the cotton season of 1903-1908 and the opening of the season of 1908-1904. The past crop year has been distinguished by the heaviest receipts in the history of the port by nearly 40,000 bales, a fact which speaks well for Wilmington's enterprising firm of exporters, Messre. Alexander Sprunt & Son, who are conceded to be the largest individual exporting firm on the South Atlantic seaboard. The receipts for the crop year will be approximately 329,300 bales against 284,773 bales for the year previous. Many had hoped that the figures would reach 350,000 bales and they probably would have, but for the lateness of the present seaion, which is at least two weeks behind last year. ## CRUSHED BY SUBURBAN CAR. SOLDIERS WON GAME.

WILMINGTON, N. C., SUNDAY, AUGUST 30, 1903.

Unknown White Man Instantly Killed This Side of Greenville Early This Morning-Awalts Identification.

An unknown white man, apparently 35 or 40 years of age, was run over and instantly killed a short distance this side of the Greenville county road crossing by Suburban Car No. 33, of the C. R., L. & P. Co., about 13:80 o'clock this morning. Both trucks of the car passed over the body, mangling it terribly. The man is supposed to have been asleep on the track or have seen dealt with foully and dragged on the rails afterwards. The latter theory, is possible but hardly probable.

The car which passed over the body was in charge of Motorman Melvin Horne and Conductor Walter Hudson. The track along where the accident occurred is perfectly straight, but alightly down grade. The car was coming for the last trip from the beach, due here at 13:50 o'clock, and was well filled with passengers. The motorman saw the man lying between the rails about 75 feet in front of him, but was powerless to stop the car until it had passed its entire length over the body and gone beyond perhaps 15 or 20 yards. When the car had finally been stopped Motorman Horne, Conductor Hudson and a number of the passengers went back to see the mangled body of the man, but none was able to identify him. The car proceeded to the city to secure the coroner, but being informed that the coroner could act only upon affidavit of foul play, Undertaker W. E. Yopp was secured and the car went back for the remains. Yopp's establishment, on Princess

A visiting physician on the car made an examination of the body and found that the skull was completely crushed; left arm broken above the elbow and at the shoulder joint; right fifth rib broken; several marks on the body; right leg mangled at and below the knee; left leg dislocated at the hip. The man has the appearance of working man. He has a two or three days' growth of beard on his face and weighs about 140 or is of a brown plaid and was found near the body as if it had been laid saide when he lay down or was placed on the track. His trousers are light flannel checked. He wore a black

There was nothing in the pockets of the man to lead to his identification. In the coat pockets were an empty bag of tobacco, two boxes of eigarettes. a photograph of a young lady, said to wood pipe. There was only a handkerchief in the trouser pockets. There was nothing about the body to indicate that the man had been drinking.
